Detter to Reorganize Than Await Federal Test of Legality, Says Attorney General.

WON'T TALK OF SUITS

Government's Eye on All Big Corporations, He Says When Asked About Steel.

CONFERS WITH TOBACCO MEN

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S ADVICE TO CORPORATIONS.

(From a statement issued by Mr. Wickersham last evening.)

Personally, I should much prefer that business interests should themselves so readjust their organizations as to remove all possible criticism concerning their legality than that the Department of Justice should have to conduct legal proceedings to compel such readjustment.

Attorney General Wickersham, who reached here yesterday morning from Bretton Woods, N. H., was besieged all day with inquiries as to whether or not the United States Steel Corporation is to be prosecuted under the Sherman Anti-Trust act. He was too busy during the day with the affairs of the Tobacco Trust and the Powder Trust to give much consideration to the Steel Trust. At 9 o'clock last night, however, he gave out the following:

> Attorney General Wickersham, in response to many inquiries regarding the possible prosecution of the Steel Corporation, made the following statement:
>
> It has been the consistent policy of the department not to state in advance of actual proceedings that action against any particular party was in contemplation. There are many reasons why this is the proper position to maintain. In the first place, until investigation is complete, it is not known whether or not a case of violation of law exists; and, in the second place, the character of the proceeding cannot be determined until then, and if the facts shall require criminal proceedings to be resorted to ordinary prudence would demand that publicity be not given to that fact until indictments are found.
>
> The purpose and duty of the Department of Justice with respect to the enforcement of the Sherman law against large combinations which are formed or exist in undue restraint of inter-State commerce, or which are attempting monopoly, has been declared a number of times by the President and the Attorney General. The carrying out of that purpose requires the careful investigation of every one of the combinations whose size, composition, and control of the particular business in which engaged would give rise to a presumption that it was existing or acting in contravention of the anti-trust law.
>
> It should go without saying that a great, complex combination of corporations under a centralized control, dominating the trade of the country in an important industry, would not escape the careful study and consideration of the department. Whether or not that examination would result in a proceeding to compel a disintegration of the combination into a number of separate, disconnected parts could not be determined until such study and examination is completed. Each case stands on its own footing and depends upon its own particular facts. A conclusion on the part of the department to bring suit against a particular combination would not, of course, prevent it from disputing the Government's contention and defending the suit. Or, if in anticipation of action by the Government, those in control of such a combination should work out a plan of separation to avoid illegal conditions, the department would necessarily give very careful consideration to the plan so as to avoid hostile action, if possible.
>
> Personally, I should much prefer that business interests should themselves so readjust their organizations as to remove all possible criticism concerning their legality than that the Department of Justice should have to conduct legal proceedings to compel such readjustment.
> It cannot be too positively stated that the department is not inaugurating a campaign against the business interests of the country or an indiscriminate attack on all large prosperous concerns. On the contrary, the care and caution with which the law officers of the Government are proceeding to the examination of each case should be a guarantee to the country that the department is proposing to enforce the law with care not to unnecessarily injure any interests.

"Will you say," Mr. Wickersham was asked, "whether or not it has been decided that the Steel Corporation shall be prosecuted?"

"No," he replied, "I do not care to add anything to the statement I have given you."

An attempt was made to draw a statement from the Attorney General as to the effect talk of prosecution of the Steel Corporation had had on the stock market.

"Officially," he replied, "I have no knowledge that such a thing as the Stock Exchange is in existence."

Judge Gary Silent.

The statement of Attorney General Wickersham was shown last night to Judge Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the Steel Corporation, and he was asked if it would be possible for him to discuss the matter in the light of the statement. He maintained the attitude of silence he has adopted since the agitation began. He was then asked the following question:

"Judge Gary, in view of the assaults upon the Steel stocks, based on rumors that the United States Steel Corporation will propose a voluntary dissolution to escape prosecution under the Sherman act,

NOTED HORSEMEN AT ODDS.

Richard Delafield Sues George Watson for $2,500 Over a Deal.

Richard Delafield, President of the National Park Bank, and George Watson, both noted exhibitors at the Horse Show and famous as judges and owners of fine horses, have carried a squabble over a horse into the Supreme Court. So far only Mr. Delafield's side of the case is known, as papers were filed for him yesterday in a suit for $2,500 against Mr. Watson.

The trouble arose over Mr. Delafield's difficulty in finding an exact mate for an animal already owned by him. The animal's value to Mr. Delafield depended largely on his ability to obtain a mate which would make a perfectly matched pair, and such an animal Mr. Watson possessed.

The two horsemen finally settled on $2,500 as the price of the animal, and Mr. Delafield handed the money to Mr. Watson, who promptly had the horse delivered at Mr. Delafield's stables. In appearance it was everything to be desired, but, according to Mr. Delafield's complaint, the first hint of trouble came when the animal was hitched up with Mr. Delafield's horse. The bank President says it became so fractious and unruly that, despite the fact that it got the best of handling, the horse proved entirely unfitted for Mr. Delafield's purpose, and so was worthless to him.

He sent the animal back to Mr. Watson, who, he says, accepted it, but said nothing about returning the $2,500. Since then, says Mr. Delafield, the money has not been forthcoming, though repeated demands have been made for it.

CURB MARKET ENJOINED.

Must Not Expel Broker Jones Without a Hearing.

Supreme Court Justice Gavegan issued an injunction yesterday against the New York Curb Market, restraining the association from dropping from membership without a proper trial Fred R. Jones, a broker at 78 Broad Street. Jones applied for the injunction on the ground that a threat had been made to drop him from the association without a hearing.

The difficulty originated, said he, in a letter written to the Grievance Committee of the association by J. Thomas Reinhardt, who complained that Jones owed him $750. Jones says the committee called on him and that he denied to its members that he owed the money, saying that Reinhardt had cornered Porcupine Central and had manipulated a false and fictitious market.

Despite his denials, said Jones, the committee finally ordered him to pay the money, on pain of being dropped. He says that a trial would result in a verdict for him, and he demands this chance to state his case.

WEAPON LAW JARRED HER.

Colored Woman Gave an Unbiased Opinion of It to a Policeman.

The ways of the Sullivan anti-weapon law are devious, thought Mrs. Rose Benjamin yesterday, only she didn't express it just that way. She is a colored woman of a law-abiding nature, and lives at 1,833 Third Avenue.

She was subjecting her house to a general cleaning yesterday morning, when, buried deep beneath the contents of a bureau drawer, she found a pistol that her husband had acquired once upon a time. She looked at it distrustfully. She never did have a high opinion of guns, and with the new law in effect, a woman could never tell what might get her into trouble. So she tucked it under her apron and sallied forth to surrender the contraband at the East 104th Street Station.

There she explained her business to the Lieutenant on the desk, but he was interested in just one question. Did she have the weapon in her possession without a permit, or did she not? Obviously she did. Therefore, the law was being violated. She must be arrested, and he told her as much.

Mrs. Benjamin gave him a stony stare. Then hurriedly and at the top of her powerful lungs she told the Lieutenant just what she thought of him and the Sullivan law. Her opinions, which were not flattering, could be heard distinctly for some distance, but they did not prevail, and she was put in a cell.

Later in the Harlem Court she repeated her ideas on the subject with more moderation to Magistrate Breen, who ordered her discharge.

William P. Burt, a vaudeville actor, went to the District Attorney yesterday and asked if he had to get a permit to use a revolver in his playlet. He appeared in the Tombs Court earlier in the day and was told by Magistrate McAdoo that he could not give him a permit, and was directed to go to Police Headquarters. Burt failed to get a permit there, and was sent to the District Attorney's office. There also he got no satisfaction.

CITY OFFICIALS RECALLED.

Seven Factions in Fight Which Downs Mayor and One Commissioner.

Special to The New York Times.

WICHITA, Kan., Sept. 25.—Mayor J. H. Graham, who was elected in April, was to-day recalled in favor of Dr. Walter W. Minick, who received a plurality of 1,906 votes. The total vote cast was 11,493, of which Mayor Graham received 4,434; Minick, 6,340, and Blase, 700. Blase ran on a straight Socialist ticket. Robert Campbell, one of the two City Commissioners whom it was sought to recall, held fast by 143 votes. E. M. Leach, the other City Commissioner against whom the recall was directed, was recalled by 1,073 votes.

The recall election was ordered on charges of incompetency and extravagance, but the charges were not pushed in the campaign. The fight against the Mayor and two of the four City Commissioners was made largely on the charge that they were trying to buy the privately owned city waterworks at an exorbitant figure.

Factions were directly responsible probably for the success of the recallers in electing a Mayor and a Commissioner. Political differences in Kansas have for years produced eight distinct factions, and seven of these in to-day's election were arrayed against one faction. The "wet" element, which was ousted when Wichita drove out the saloons four years ago, was solidly against Mayor Graham and the two Commissioners under fire. The recallers were ably supported by a newspaper which lost the city printing under Mayor Graham. Each of the seven factions was led by some politician who was one or more times defeated for the office of Mayor or some other city office. The church element gave telling support to the faction led by an ex-Chief of Police, who was dismissed for incompetency. The church element declare that he was dismissed because he was pressing the boodlers too hard.

JEWELER AND WIFE CAUGHT SMUGGLING

Diamonds Hidden Under His Rubber Stocking and Garnets in Her Skirt of Many Pockets.

HAD LONG BEEN SUSPECTED

Made Several Trips Abroad—Hidden Goods Also Found in False Bottom of Passenger's Trunk.

A new method in smuggling was disclosed yesterday upon the arrival here of Rudolph Newman and his wife on the Holland-America liner Nieuw Amsterdam. The man is a jeweler, giving his address as 4,825 Ashland Avenue, Chicago. He and his wife were found to be loaded down with smuggled gems and other articles. They were arrested and the officials believe that in the capture of the pair they have broken up a systematic campaign to evade the payment of duty.

When the man was searched the Inspectors discovered that he was wearing a thin rubber stocking which extended to his hip. Between the tightly stretched rubber and his skin were half a dozen small, thin packages. These were found to contain $2,000 worth of unset diamonds and a mesh bag of solid silver.

The Newmans have made several trips to Europe, and they have been under suspicion by the customs authorities for some time. When they went abroad a few weeks ago Special Treasury Agents kept them in sight, and the purchases they made were recorded. When they got here yesterday morning with their two small children the customs officers were waiting for them. Special agents boarded the vessel down the bay and kept the Newmans in sight.

At the pier the baggage of the pair was carefully examined, but nothing dutiable was found. Then Acting Surveyor Davis told them they would have to return on board and submit to a search. They protested, but obeyed orders. Under her overskirt Mrs. Newman wore a petticoat of dark material, containing from 20 to 30 pockets. In these were at least twenty-five small packages. One of the packages was opened and found to contain a handful of small unset garnets. This was considered sufficient evidence for taking the woman to the Custom House, and so the officials did not open the other packages. The skirt was taken just as it was and will be used as evidence at the trial. While the matron was searching Mrs. Newman, other Inspectors were finding out the means by which Mr. Newman had hoped to smuggle. The rubber stocking was stripped off and the packages it contained were taken to the Custom House.

The Newmans were taken before United States Commissioner Russ in Hoboken. The man was held in $2,000 bail for the Federal Grand Jury, and Mrs. Newman, though still under arrest, was paroled so that she could care for her two children.

While the examination of the Newmans was going on in Deputy Surveyor Smyth's office Miss Rosa Gehring, a very frightened young German girl, sat in an anteroom waiting her turn for a hearing. Miss Gehring is an employe of a City Municipal Justice. She returned from a vacation visit to her old home yesterday on the North German Lloyd liner Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm. Inspector Neppert, examining her trunk, found that it contained a false bottom. It was ripped out and underneath household goods were found. The goods were only valued at $18, but the intent to evade duty was so evident that Miss Gehring was taken to the Custom House. There she received a lecture on the sin of smuggling, and was allowed to take her undeclared articles upon the payment of the original cost price, plus the duty.

Pleading ignorance of the law as an excuse for not making an honest declaration Miss Fannie Hyman was brought before Mr. Smyth. She got here on the Campania on Saturday. She gave her address as 488 New Jersey Avenue, Brooklyn, but said she came from Leeds, England. Inspector Stainken, who was assigned to her baggage, found several pairs of gloves and a number of pieces of dress goods in a feather pillow. Besides this Miss Hyman had table linen, blankets, and some silverware in her trunk.

The young woman said that she did not know the law. She was soon to marry, she said, and the articles found were presents from her mother. The customs officials ordered the goods seized. They are now at the Public Stores awaiting appraisal.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Rudolph Newman is a jeweler in a small way of business at 4,825 South Ashland Avenue. He resides above his store, which is one of the poorer neighborhoods of Chicago. He is but little know to the neighbors. He went to Europe several months ago.

MAY PROMOTE KRUTTSCHNITT

Harriman System Directors Expected to Make Him President.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—With Julius Kruttschnitt, Vice President and Director of Maintenance and Operation of the Harriman railroad system, already in New York, and John C. Stubbs, Vice President and Director of Traffic, ready to start to-morrow, it is anticipated that, following a meeting of the Board of Directors to be held in New York on Wednesday, President Lovett will announce changes in the duties and titles of the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific officials, which will involve practically all of the more important officers.

Whatever changes may be made in the title of President Lovett, it is expected that there will be no lessening of his authority. It is believed that the board has decided to create an office of Chairman of the board to supplement that of Chairman of the Executive Committee, already held by Mr. Lovett. It is thought he will assume the former title in addition.

From present indications it is believed here that the title of President of the Union and Southern Pacific Railroads will be transferred to Mr. Kruttschnitt.

The question of modifying the present executive organization of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific systems has been under consideration for some months. Judge Lovett would not discuss yesterday the stories from Chicago that he would relinquish the office of President and become Chairman of the board. This form of organization, with the executive lying in the Chairman of the Board of Directors, has been increasingly popular among the large corporations, and many of which have in the last two years adopted this system, which has been tested by the Steel Corporation since its organization.

Suicide Had "Message of the Cross."

Sergt. Cornelius Noonan heard a revolver shot in the hallway of 429 Grove Street, Jersey City, yesterday, and discovered that a man had committed suicide. The man wore a suit of gray and a black derby hat and had glasses. In the clothes were found a silver match safe with the initials A. H. M., a silver watch, $14 in cash, and a sheet of music entitled "The Message of the Cross." He weighed about 180 pounds, was about 6 feet in height, of light complexion, and had light hair. He was about 40 years old.

HAMMERED A SHELL UNTIL IT EXPLODED

PANIC IN THE BUILDING

Neighbors Rush to the Street, Fearing a Black Hand Outrage—The Victim Dying, in the Hospital.

Mrs. Anna Halput, a young widow of 610 West 178th Street, is dying in the Washington Heights Hospital of wounds she received when a one-pound shell, which she was using as a clinch while driving a nail into a shoe, exploded yesterday afternoon. Miss Eva Halput, the only child of the dying woman, said that the shell, which was such as the navy uses for saluting, had been in the house for several years, and that it had been used to hammer on before. She said she did not know how the shell came into her mother's possession, but she did know her mother had no idea the shell was loaded.

Mrs. Halput was terribly mangled, the doctors finding fifteen wounds in different parts of her body. One piece of the shell pierced a lung, another piece penetrated the heart, all of the fingers of the left hand and one on the right hand were blown off. Any one of six wounds would have been fatal in most cases, the doctors said, yet Mrs. Halput was still alive at a late hour last night, although she was unconscious and her death was momentarily expected.

Mrs. Halput returned from her dressmaking establishment late yesterday afternoon, and complained of a nail in her left shoe which she said had caused her much pain all day. The shell was in the kitchen, and Mrs. Halput went into that room and removed the shoe. Then she placed the head of the shell on the nail, and getting a hammer began pounding on the shell. The young daughter says her mother pounded on the shell for several minutes before the explosion came. It was heard for blocks in all directions.

Miss Halput was looking out of a window at the time. The force of the explosion threw her to the floor, but she was not injured. When she regained her feet she ran out into the hall and screamed for help. Besides the Halputs the Cardova apartments, in which the explosion occurred, houses twenty other families. These families thinking that the explosion was a Black Hand outrage became greatly frightened, some running out into the street.

Policeman Schmidt of the West 152d Street Station, who was on post a block away, was among the first to reach the apartment. He had an ambulance called from the Washington Heights Hospital, while he did what he could to relieve the sufferings of the wounded woman. He picked up Mrs. Halput in his arms and carried her into a bedroom and bandaged her wrists and legs.

When Dr. Kilburn came with the ambulance he speedily removed the injured woman to the hospital. There Mrs. Halput regained consciousness for a moment and asked that Father Tracey of the Church of St. Rose of Lima be sent for. The doctors said she would probably die before morning.

When the Halput apartment was inspected by the police they found that it had not been damaged in the least by the explosion. Neither had any of the other apartments in the house.

TO HELP FOUNDRY WOMEN.

Gov. Foss Calls for Investigation of Conditions in International Pump Co.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 25.—Gov. Eugene N. Foss to-night declared in favor of the State police making an investigation under which women work in the iron foundry of the East Cambridge branch of the International Pump Company.

A demand in writing was made upon Chief Whitney of the State police by Typographical Union No. 13 to end the alleged conditions.

At the meeting of the Congregational ministers to-day in Tremont Temple Building, they appointed the Rev. Dr. C. A. Richards of Phillips Church, South Boston, to confer with the Boston Central Labor Union with a view to taking action in the matter.

Lieut. Gov. Frothingham, Speaker Walker, and Norman H. White, candidates for the Republican nomination for Governor, denounced the conditions as reported, and Mayor Barry of Cambridge said if the reports about them were true the conditions were inhuman.

Speaking of the conditions in foundries where women are working as coremakers, the Governor said to-night:

"I trust that the State Police Department will make a thorough investigation of these charges that have been made in connection with the conditions under which women are obliged to work in certain foundries in this State.

"Any business institution which is violating any of the State's law should be compelled to cease that violation or else be obliged to pay the penalty."

FED WIFE ON CABBAGE LEAVES

Philadelphia Man Threw Them to Her and Her Baby—Rescue by Police.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—Mrs. Enuelda Thomas and her year-old baby were rescued by the police to-day after having been kept prisoners by the woman's husband for three weeks and fed on cabbage leaves, which were thrown to them as feed is thrown to swine. The rescue was made after the woman had succeeded in throwing a note out of the window. The note was picked up by a passer-by, who notified the police.

When they arrived at the house at 2,618 Annin Street, they found the woman's husband standing guard with a revolver in his hand outside the second-story back bedroom, in which the woman and her child were confined. Thomas, who is a Cuban, fired four shots at the police before he was overpowered. Mrs. Thomas and the child were almost dead of starvation. They were rushed to the Philadelphia Hospital, where their condition is critical. Thomas is held without bail.

According to the neighbors Thomas was insanely jealous of his wife.

At her execution, the martyred Queen Marie Antoinette, bound up her hair with a velvet fillet, which gives title to Canon Sheehan's new novel of the thrilling French Revolution. "A really admirable and unusual romance," says Chicago Record-Herald. Read "THE QUEEN'S FILLET" to-night. Telephone Brentano's, or any other bookstore.—Adv.

AVIATOR KILLED IN A TRUANT FLIGHT

Ovington Glides Down from the Skies in the Vain Hope of Saving Him—A Circus Thriller.

Dr. Charles B. Clarke, who, like the late Ralph Johnstone, was once a famous bicycle rider, and dreamed that some day he would fly, enjoyed to the full for four brief minutes yesterday the fulfillment of his dream. The flight cost him his life at the international aviation meet at Nassau Boulevard, L. I.

He attempted to bank a swiftly moving monoplane equipped with a powerful Gnome motor when it was on the upgrade, and in addition to that tried to put it through an aerial spiral glide—he had gained his first fame as a performer in a "leap-the-gap" bicycle act at Madison Square Garden—in the direction his motor was revolving.

It was Clarke's first time aloft in the presence of other fliers, and his hand trembled as he stepped into the car of the monoplane. It was against the rules for him to fly, since he had no pilot's license, and he had been charged by Earle C. Ovington, in whose name the monoplane was entered, to leave it alone.

Clarke performed a part of his attempted spiral—only a small part. Then the crowd of 2,000 persons who had watched him soar upward in the northern section of the aviation field saw his monoplane swerve toward a row of park automobiles. For 100 feet it dropped sharply downward and then turned nose-on and plunged directly to earth.

The machine was so far away from the crowd that few heard the crunching with which it was crumpled to pieces. The hundreds watched, breathless, for a moment to see if any one got out of the wreckage. As they had seen Ovington soar aloft a few minutes earlier to perform the rôle of aerial postman in a monoplane exactly similar to that which they saw crash to the ground, many concluded that it was the post-card carrier who had come to grief.

Ovington to the Rescue.

From out of the skies, however, Ovington suddenly dropped and went sprinting across the field to the aid of his fallen companion. Clarke was beneath the wreckage, unconscious, with his bones so badly broken that it was seen at once that he was dying. Parts of the machine had penetrated his body and the monoplane had to be chopped away before he could be moved.

An ambulance surgeon from the Nassau County Hospital, who was in a field hospital, was among the first to reach the fallen aviator.

Clarke was hurriedly taken to the hospital, where, two hours after he arrived, at 7:50 o'clock, he died. Many of his bones had been broken and he never regained consciousness.

It was the first aeroplane to fall in the vicinity of New York which has been followed by the death of an aviator. The number of the machine in which Clarke fell was 13. Without a license, he had no right to fly, all unlicensed aviators being expressly forbidden by the rules from attempting an exhibition at the meet.

On two previous occasions, with a light thirty-five horse power motor, Clarke had made flights in the Queen monoplane, which is a Blériot manufactured by the Queen Company of this city. He expected to fly for his pilot's license to-day, and an hour after his death Israel Ludlow, his friend and adviser in aerial matters, took from his pocket a sealed envelope addressed to G. F. Campbell Wood, Secretary of the Aero Club of America. The letter inclosed a five-dollar bill and asked permission of the Aero Club to try for a pilot's license on Sept. 26.

A Circus Performer.

In his bicycle work Clarke had become famous as the first man to "leap-the-gap" in the Barnum circus, and then as the originator of the "Globe-of-Death" act in vaudeville, in which he rode a motorcycle at increasing speed in the interior of a lattice-work globe until he was riding at exact right angles with the centre of gravity. His wife rode with him in this act under the name of Bertha Clarke.

Two months ago Clarke, who was about 35 years old, confided to the workmen at the Queen Aeroplane factory, successor to the Thompson-Lovelace Company at Fort George, that he was anxious to learn to fly, and got a chance as an indoor man. He helped to construct aeroplanes, and followed the flyers to their Mineola hangars.

In one Queen machine an Auzanie motor had been installed, and, as it was a new motor, none of the advanced pupils was anxious to try it out. Clarke, unknown to his superiors, slipped aloft with it and made a successful flight. From that time he was listed as a regular pupil.

When Earle Ovington entered a Queen machine at the meet, and had it equipped with a powerful Gnome motor, which was a different affair from the 35-horse power motor which Clarke had learned to master, he begged Ovington for a chance to go aloft. This Ovington refused. When it came to receiving numbers for the meet Eugene Ely was assigned to 13. He refused to fly under that number and Ovington, laughingly remarked, that for him it was the luckiest number in the series. He accepted it, and had the number painted on his Queen machine, and also on his Blériot "Dragon Fly" in which he was aloft when Clarke essayed to make his flight.

The women aviators, especially Mlle. Dutrieu was seated close to the aeroplane when he fell. Mlle. Dutrieu was seated in her Farman biplane and it had been announced that it was about to take the air. She was only 50 feet from the spot where Clarke's machine was wrecked. She fled to her hangar and did not reappear on the field.

His Fatal Blunders.

Miss Scott, who expects to try for her license this morning, and Matilde Moisant were close to the hangar from which Clarke departed and saw the entire flight, including its tragic termination. Both women said that Clarke had made a fatal error in attempting to turn with his motor and in "banking" while climbing to a higher altitude.

Ovington, who went to Clarke's assistance after viewing the accident from a point far up in the air, said he saw the fatal mistake which the inexperienced flier was making and put on all power to reach a point near enough to warn him of his danger before the accident occurred.

The wrecked machine, he said, was the one in which United States mails were carried for the first time in this country. He hoped to make a flight in it from coast to coast on the conclusion of the meet.

On the field there were scenes of wild disorder as the throng from the grand stand ran toward the spot where the long tail of the monoplane was seen standing straight upward in the air.

"Drive them back, drive them back!" shouted Mr. Woodruff to the special policemen who were charging into the crowds. He gave special orders that no photographers were to be allowed anywhere near the accident. Many tried to reach the wrecked machine and started fighting with the guards. Mr. Woodruff's shouts cheered the guards on to redoubled efforts, and they succeeded in Six Alleged Socialists Put Aboard Ship in Havana.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Sept. 25. — Two laborite editors and four other Spanish Socialists were this afternoon seized by the authorities and forced aboard the Hamburg liner Frankenwold, to be shipped to Vigo, Spain, as pernicious foreigners. The deported men were not allowed to communicate even with their families or to procure a change of clothing.

The only official explanation is that the men are Socialists and were the chief fomenters of the recent strikes. Each exile was supplied with $25. The Havana laborites are indignant and are holding stormy meetings.

WOULD BAR MARRIAGE FEES.

Pastor Says They Are No More Than "Waiters' Tips."

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 25.—Ministers who accept fees for officiating at weddings were attacked by the Rev. J. B. Lemon, pastor of the Willson Avenue Baptist Church at the Baptist Ministers' conference here to-day.

He declared such fees to be no more than "waiters' tips." They should be refused, he said, if ministers would preserve their self-respect. The other clergymen did not agree with him.

SQUAW WILLS AWAY $100,000.

Indian Interpreter Charged with Influencing Her—$5 to Husband.

TULSA, Oka., Sept. 25.—Information is on file in the Probate Court of Tulsa County charging William Grayson, the Official Indian Interpreter for J. C. N. Cobb, Indian Agent, with unduly influencing Hilly Hays, formerly Hilly Bear, an Indian woman, 85 years old, into willing him her fortune, which amounts to probably $100,000 in money, oil land, and property in Oklahoma City.

Hilly Bear willed her husband $5, and gave $1,000 to several nieces and nephews. The rest was given to Grayson.

Grayson went to Sapulpa on Aug. 20 with Hilly Bear, and the will was made there. Gov. Lee Cruce has discharged Grayson as Official Indian Interpreter.

Poker Game Brought On a Fight and Hotel Furniture Was Broken.

Special to The New York Times.

WATERBURY, Conn., Sept. 25.—Several of the actors of George M. Cohan's company, playing "The Little Millionaire," stopped at Long's Hotel when in Hartford. Five of them played poker Saturday night while waiting for the train for New York.

There was a dispute, and the hotel furniture was roughly used and a big plate-glass window was broken in the scuffle, bringing the police to the scene. The five were finally all arrested and held until they settled for the damage. The names given were Frank Weil, Charles Doyle, James O'Neill, Robert J. Thompson, and David Rush.

DIES OF BROKEN BACK.

Dun Lived Three Weeks After Fall Because Spinal Cord Held.

WOODBRIDGE, N. J., Sept. 25.—William Dun, 64 years old, died to-day at his home on St. George Avenue, after three weeks of suffering. Mr. Dun fell downstairs in his home about three weeks ago, landing with such force that the backbone was broken in three places, but the spinal cord held intact, and that prolonged his life.

The case has attracted considerable attention in the medical fraternity. A specialist from New York City paid a daily visit to the sufferer since the accident. He leaves a wife and family of grown-up children.

YACHT VIKING IN COLLISION.

Capt. Haskell Hurt and George F. Baker, Jr., and Party Delayed.

NEW LONDON, Sept. 25.—The steam yacht Viking put into port to-day with her port side badly smashed and her master, Capt. Edward Y. Haskell, injured. The Viking, which had on board George F. Baker, Jr., of New York, and a party of friends, was in collision near Little Gull Island last night on her way from Newport to New York, with an unknown vessel.

Capt. Haskell's leg was broken in two places. The yacht's foremast was broken and one of her launches battered to pieces. The Viking made this port, and her master was removed to his home for treatment.

Mr. Baker chartered a special train to take his party to New York.

TO RULE ON POSTAL SAVINGS.

Courts Will Decide If Deposits Can Be Attached.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The courts are to determine whether deposits in postal savings banks are subjected to attachments or other legal processes.

The question has been submitted to Postmaster General Hitchcock, who declined to express an opinion, as the courts in New Mexico are to adjudicate the case of a man who went into bankruptcy after having made deposits in the postal savings bank in the names of his wife, daughter, and self.

WEDDING FEES COUNTERFEIT.

Many Chicago Clergymen Duped by an Elderly Bridal Couple.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—A dozen preachers are condoling with each other over the loss of good money of which they were defrauded by a counterfeiter and a woman accomplice, who repeatedly presented themselves for marriage and also presented false $20 bills in payment of a $10 fee. The clergyman who told of the fraud refused the names of the preachers involved, as secrecy had been agreed on at a meeting of the denominational meeting, which the victims attended.

Under the names of Gustave Foster and Amanda Thomas, an elderly but apparently loving pair at various times presented themselves at the parsonages of the several preachers and desired to be married. After the ceremony had been performed the man said:

"I wish, Sir, that I could reward you with $20 for this kind act of yours, which makes a happy ending to a courtship lasting many years, but my purse is somewhat slim and I can afford but $10."

So saying, he tendered a $20 bill and the clergyman, well pleased to receive a windfall of $10, gave the bridegroom back $10 in real money.

"I tried to buy a book of sermons with my $20 bill," said the preacher who told the story, "and was repulsed by an angry salesman, who threatened to have me arrested."

THE LIBERTE IS BLOWN UP; OVER 350 DEAD

Great French Battleship Destroyed at Toulon—Other Vessels Damaged.

FIRE SPREAD TO MAGAZINE

Said to Have Started in General Store Among Oil and Other Inflammables.

VICTIMS OF OTHER SHIPS

MEN EXTRICATED ALIVE

It Is Believed Others Can Be Reached—Divers, Electric Shears, and Floating Crane Being Employed.

TOULON, Sept. 25.—The battleship Liberté was torn apart and totally destroyed by an explosion of her magazines to-day. Between 350 and 400 officers and men are dead or missing.

The battleship République was badly damaged, and the battleships Démocratie and Vérité also suffered severely from the masses of twisted iron and armor plate that were hurled upon their decks.

This is the greatest disaster that has even befallen the French Navy, and in magnitude is almost without precedent in the annals of the world's fighting ships. The grief which prostrates the fleet and nation is made more intense by the memory of the recent review here, a notable display of France's naval greatness, in which the doomed ship was one of the finest figures.

The explosion which wiped out one of France's newest and most powerful battleships occurred at 5:53 o'clock in the morning. It was preceded by and was the result of an outbreak of fire. The flames spread rapidly in spite of all efforts to master them and reached the magazines before there was time to flood them. The magazines exploded with tremendous violence, sowing death and destruction in every direction.

It will be necessary to go through the ship's muster rolls, a task of some days, before a full list of the victims can be prepared.

A number of men have already been extricated alive from the fantastically torn and twisted mass of wreckage which was yesterday the Liberté, and the hope is strong that there are others within the broken hulk who can be reached.

Exactly from what cause, or when the fire started, has not been established, but it is believed that it had smouldered for several hours. Of the vessel's full complement of 742, Capt. Jaurès, a brother of the Socialist leader in Parliament, and the second officer in command, were both ashore on leave, together with 140 officers and men. The command of the ship devolved on the senior Lieutenant, who perished.

The fire was first discovered at 4 A. M., and the bugles immediately sounded the alarm. The crew rushed to quarters and fought desperately the spreading flames, but it was soon evident that the fire had obtained a firm hold.

Signals of distress were flashed to the other ships here, and these dispatched steam pinnaces and launches at full speed to assist in the work of extinguishing the flames and rescuing the men, but their services were of little avail.

The position of the fire at that time made it impossible to flood the magazines. Nevertheless efforts to do so were made, but finally the commanding officer, realizing that the ship was doomed, ordered the bugler to sound the "Sauve qui Peut" and ordered the men to jump for their lives.

At 5:35 the first explosion occurred. It was followed by three others at one-minute intervals. Then, at 5:53, came the final explosion, the terrific reverberation of which shattered the windows of the whole city and was heard for a radius of many miles.

The Liberté was rent asunder. Her bows were thrown high in the air, and then the vessel slowly settled down, and in nineteen minutes nothing was visible but the top works. The battleship sank in forty feet of water.

Those still on deck were hurled skyward amid a shower of iron and steel. The boats of the rescuers were sunk and serious damage was done to the République, which lay at anchor close by. Two of her decks were stove in and one of the Liberté's armor plates was hurled against her port side and demolished the cabin of an absent ensign.

For a few minutes after the final explosion an intense black cloud of smoke hovered over the harbor. When it shifted a horrible spectacle met the eyes of the people of Toulon, who, awakened by the first explosion, had hurried to the shore. The twisted upper works of the battleship were protruding from a mass of formless wreckage, among which struggled seamen from the rescuing boats that had been sunk by the flying débris or sucked down in the maelstrom.

Rescue Work Quickly Begun.

The work of rescue was quickly begun. An ambulance station was installed in the arsenal, and Admiral Marin-Darbel, the Maritime Prefect, went out to the wreck and superintended the work of extricating those imprisoned under the shattered steel. The first body recovered was that of an officer, which was hauled from under an awning with a boathook.

Electric shears, to cut through the plates of the Liberté, and a powerful floating crane, to lift the masses of steel, are being used in conjunction with a crew of divers who are at work exploring the interior of the hull. This afternoon the Liberté appeared as if her bows had doubled over on to the stern. Men buried in that part of the wreckage above the water could be heard groaning and screaming for help, which often the rescuers were unable to give.

The lower deck was an infernal sight. One man had his foot held under a mass of steel weighing tons. After three hours' vain efforts to lift the mass a surgeon amputated the foot. Through a hole in the armor, portions of bodies, contorted and piled together, could be perceived, all of them charred by the flames.

One of the survivors, a warrant officer, who came out of the hurricane of fire with only a slight cut on the forehead, telling of the disaster, said:

"The fire started in the general store, among cans of oil, turpentine, paint, and other inflammables.

"In spite of every effort, the flames reached the coal bunkers, and after that it was difficult to prevent them from gaining the powder magazine. It was about 5:30 o'clock, and dawn was breaking before the danger seemed to be realized. Assistance was then being sent to us from the port and three other warships lying in the harbor.

"Just when the whole ship's crew seemed to have reached the boats in safety there was a terrific explosion. The Liberté was hurled over on her side, and the forepart, where the full force of the explosion was felt, lurched forward heavily with an appalling crash. Cries resounded on all sides. The greater part of the ships' boats with the rescuers and the men from the Liberté instantly sank. How I escaped from this frightful calamity I do not know. From that moment all I was conscious of was being carried aboard the République, where I was taken care of. When I had somewhat recovered my senses they told me what had happened.

"After the explosion an enormous fragment detached from the bows of the Liberté and other pieces of iron fell on the République, smashing the bridge and plunging between the decks. The bugler of the Liberté was hurled through the air from our ill-fated ship to the deck of the République, where he was picked up badly hurt. In his hands he still held the bugle with which he was sounding the alarm."

Another Theory.

It is now asserted that the disaster was due to deflagration of "B" powder, as in the case of the Iéna. Toward 5 A. M. the watch perceived a dense smoke coming from the fore part of the ship. He reported this to the officers, who promptly ordered that the magazines be flooded as a first precaution. The men whose duty it was went to open the valves communicating with the sea, but returned precipitately, saying that it was impossible to carry out their orders on account of the thick, poisonous fumes coming from the magazines.

Word of the danger flew from mouth to mouth. Men ran to the boats or jumped into the sea. At this juncture help, asked from the other ships arrived, and the officers of the Liberté were encouraged by the reinforcements. They determined to make another effort to conquer the fire. The bugler was ordered to sound the rally. The spirit of discipline was so excellent that the men who had jumped into the sea asked the boats which picked them up to put them back aboard the Liberté.

Stimulated by the example of the officers the men ran to their stations and a last desperate fight against the flames began. Almost immediately the first explosion foreshadowed a terrible disaster. The officers, then realizing the uselessness of sacrificing the lives of the men to save the ship, instructed the crew to leave the Liberté in as orderly a manner as possible. It was while this was being done that the final terrific explosion came, engulfing all those on the ship and those around.

Some idea of the violence of the explosion may be had from the fact that the officer commanding the gunnery schoolship Foudre, anchored 3 kilometers (1.86 miles) from the Liberté, was killed on his own quarterdeck by a fragment of shell hurled from the Liberté, and two sailors standing beside him were wounded.

A small fire was discovered aboard the battleship Patrie this evening. An alarm was immediately sounded, but the flames were extinguished before they had done much damage. There was a roll call of the remnant of the crew of the Liberté on board the battleship Suffren to-night. The scene was a pitiful one, as many of the men were injured and most of them were in tears.

As Seen from the Shore.

A witness of the disaster says:

"While walking with my family this morning at about half past 5 o'clock I distinctly saw little flames darting out from the sides of the Liberté. Having heard a rumor that the vessel was on fire, I said to my wife: 'It will be better to go home; there is sure to be an explosion.'

"Hardly had I spoken the words when there was the most appalling report I ever heard in my life. A great sheet of flame suddenly appeared, illuminating the entire roadstead. Then I distinguished little black points whirling through the air, then falling back into the sea. It seemed only a moment—so rapidly did the ghastly scenes pass—and the Liberté had vanished, leaving in place of the great battleship the shapeless mass on the waters."

A newspaper reporter, who was on the Quay immediately after the disaster occurred, says that the smoke obscured the entire harbor, and the sun shone red and lowering through the veil. On the way out to the wreck he met a sloop from the Patrie, which was moored close to the Liberté. The sailors were livid and shaking with emotion at the horrible sight they had witnessed.

"The work of rescue was in full swing," they said, "when an immense pillar of smoke rose slowly and the flames spread fast. Suddenly a tongue of fire shot up; there was a deafening roar, and débris of all kinds rained down upon our heads. All the boats which surrounded the Liberté were engulfed in the whirlpool caused by the sinking ship. They vanished amid the despairing cries of the crews. We could see nothing of the Liberté. It disappeared in the dense smoke and the boiling waters."

On reaching the wreck the reporter found that the mooring buoy had been blown a considerable distance. The battleship itself was a mass of buckled plating, inextricably mixed with the torn boilers and broken machinery. Puffs of smoke and steam darted in and out from the vessel's mangled carcass.

Petty Officer Leon, one of the survivors, who was taken aboard the République, said:

"I was in my hammock, and, hearing shouts, got up in terror. I saw smoke and flames all around me, and I knew nothing more."

Commander de Keraudren of the République said that when the explosion occurred his vessel was shaken from stem to stern. He added:

"Fire was first observed soon after 5 o'clock on board the Liberté. We received signals for help and at 5:30 sounded the fire alarm and immediately sent two boatloads of men with fire-fighting apparatus.

"Presently other boats were ordered out to the rescue of the sailors of the Liberté, who were jumping into the water.

"The flames, it was easily seen, were gathering headway, and a deep, roaring explosion occurred. As we watched the Liberté, nearly hidden in smoke, pieces of fire and articles of great variety poured down upon our decks. When the smoke had slowly lifted the battleship had sunk. The upperworks on one side protruded above the water. We who were so close saw nothing more of the hideous calamity."

Losses on Other Ships.

Nearly every vessel of the squadron here lost some men from the parties sent to the aid of the burning battleship. The Vérité was moored nearest, being about 225 yards from the Liberté. Eight of the Vérite's men were wounded by flying fragments blown from the Liberté or by pieces of bursting shells. The decks of the Vérité were crowded with men who were watching the frightful spectacle and who were targets for the falling débris.

The Liberté was anchored in the roadstead, where she had been since the review of the fleet by President Fallières. The review was on Sept. 4, when the French National Executive gazed upon the most powerful fleet that France had ever assembled. Premier Caillaux and his associates in the Cabinet, together with many Senators and Deputies, were present. Particular significance attached to the display, as it was made on the very day that France communicated to Germany the terms upon which the republic offered a settlement of the Moroccan dispute. Formed in two perfect alignments were eighteen battleships, six of them of the "all big gun" type; nine armored cruisers, and twenty-five torpedo boats and torpedo boat destroyers. The fleet was manned by 1,700 officers and 26,907 men.

After the review the fleet resumed the Autumn manoeuvres and gun practice. On Sept. 20 the armored cruiser Gloire was engaged in target work when a port gun exploded as a projectile was being inserted in the breech. One gunner was killed and thirteeen others injured. Five of the latter subsequently died.

Late to-night the naval authorities declared that the number of victims of to-day's disaster was greater than at first appeared. The official estimate is now given as between 350 and 400 dead or missing. Up to now 40 bodies have been taken from the wreck and 94 injured have been brought to the hospital.

THE KAISER'S SYMPATHY.

Emperor the First Foreign Ruler to Send Condolences to France.

PARIS, Sept. 25.—The news of the Liberté disaster came as a stunning blow to the French public and to naval officials. It is the climax of a long series of disasters which have marked the history of the French Navy since the blowing up of the battleship Iéna on March 3, 1907.

The Minister of Marine, M. Delcassé, received representatives of the press this afternoon and talked to them about the catastrophe. He was greatly distressed and spoke with emotion of the deplorable event coming so soon after the splendid naval review.

The Minister had before him many official telegrams from Toulon, but he was unable to estimate accurately the loss of life. In considering the possible causes of the fire and explosion, M. Delcassé excluded that of spontaneous combustion of powder, since it had been regularly renewed and the magazines were kept at a moderate temperature.

Referring to an official report of Sept. 9 upon this very subject, the Minister said that the commanding Admiral stated that during the hottest weather the temperature in his own cabin had sometimes been 101 degrees fahrenheit when the temperature in the magazines was from 84 to 86 degrees. M. Delcassé thought that the theory of a short-circuit wire, advanced technically at Toulon, was the most probable.

Te Ministry of Marine has received the following telegram from Vice Admiral Aubert, commanding the fleet at Toulon:

> Four explosions were heard on the Liberte this morning at intervals of one minute, beginning at 5:35, and followed by smoke and flames, which mounted steadily. The explosion occurred at 5:53 o'clock. The ship sank. After the smoke had blown away one perceived that portions of the structure stood above the water.

Vice Admiral Bellue, commanding the Second Squadron, to which the Liberté was attached, telegraphed the Ministry of Marine to-night as follows:

> About 800 men are dead or missing, which estimate includes those from other ships in the harbor.

The Ministry of Marine has issued this note:

> The last report of the General Inspector showed the Liberte to be in a completely satisfactory condition, especially regarding the precautions taken in the caring for the magazines.

The German Ambassador to France, Herr von Schön, was the first diplomat to call at the Foreign Office to convey the condolences of his Government and himself, and Emperor William was the first ruler to send a telegram of sympathy to President Fallières. His Majesty said:

> Words fail me in endeavoring to find expression for my profound sympathy for France in the National misfortune. The families so terribly grieved may be consoled by the knowledge that the men of the Liberte have perished in the performance of their duty toward their country.

The American Ambassador, Mr. Bacon, called at the Foreign Office and expressed the sympathy of Washington and himself.

OUR NAVY'S CONDOLENCES.

Attache Is Ordered to Return to Paris In Order to Present Them.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Acting Secretary of the Navy Nicholson to-day cabled as follows to Commander Henry Hough, the Naval Attaché of the American Embassy at Paris, who is at Brest:

> Return to Paris and express to the Minister of Marine the great sorrow and earnest sympathy of the Secretary of the Navy of the United States and the American Navy for him and the French Navy in consequence of the appalling accident on board of the Liberte that has involved the lives of so many gallant French seamen.

It is assumed here that Commander Hough will inform the Navy Department of the exact nature and extent of the accident.

FRENCH NAVAL DISASTERS.

Many in Recent Years—The Liberte Came Here in 1909.

The Liberté was one of the newest and most powerful battleships in the French navy, and, with the exception of the Vérité, was the most recent of her type in the French service. Four vessels, each of about 15,000 tons displacement, of what is known as the Démocratie type, have been built in France in the last four years, the four vessels being the Démocratie, Justice, and Liberté, which were completed in 1907, and the Vérité, completed in 1908. Each ship cost to build and equip approximately $7,125,000. Each was manned by a crew of 742 officers and men.

New Yorkers will remember the Liberté as one of the three battleships sent to New York in September, 1909, to represent the French Navy at the Hudson-Fulton celebration. The two others were the Justice, (the flagship,) and the Vérité, sisterships of the ill-fated battleship, the squadron being under the command of Vice-Admiral Le Pord.

The Liberté was a vessel of the same size as the American battleships of the Virginia class, the vessels of the Virginia class displacing 14,948 tons, while the displacement of the Liberté was 14,900 tons.

No navy in the world has had so many serious accidents within recent years as that of France. In this long list the explosion on board the battleship Iéna, which, like the Liberté, was at the Toulon Navy Yard, was, with the exception of that on the Liberté, the worst in the history of the French Navy.

The Iéna explosion occurred on March 12, 1907, the ship at that time being the flagship of Rear Admiral Manceron. The vessel was a total loss, and more than 100 men were killed.

An investigation of the Iéna explosion resulted in an official report that it was due to spontaneous combustion of "B" powder in a magazine where the temperature was too high on account of the proximity of the dynamo compartment.

In September, 1908, another fearful accident occurred on the armored cruiser Latouche Tréville, twelve men being killed by an explosion in one of the 7.6-inch turrets. This disaster occurred in the French target waters off the Hyères Islands. It is believed to have been due to the premature explosion of a gun charge. The cause of the explosion on the Iéna has never been established.

Near the place where the Liberté was blown up the battleship Hoche was sunk in July, 1907. A fire started in the sail room of the Hoche, and though the crew worked hard to save the ship the flames got so close to the magazines that it was decided to sink the vessel, and this was done.

There have been many other serious accidents in the French Navy within the last few years. There was an explosion on torpedo boat No. 339 on Feb. 8, 1907, when nine men were killed, and the cruiser Jean Bart went ashore on the African coast on Feb. 12, 1907. The vessel proved a total loss, but no lives were lost.

In May of the same year the cruiser Chanzy went ashore in Chinese waters and was lost, but the crew was saved.

An explosion occurred on the battleship Justice in the course of the trial trips of that ship in July, 1907, and another on the Démocratie in the same year. Both of these are sister ships of the Liberté, so that of the four sister ships of which the Liberté was one only the Vérité has a clean slate so far as accidents are concerned. An explosion on the school ship Couronne at Toulon on Aug. 13, 1908, cost six lives.

Another terrible accident in the French Navy was the loss off the coast of Tunis of the submarine Lutin in October, 1906. The Lutin was afterward recovered, but not before all of the crew of thirteen officers and men had perished. On May 27, 1910, the submarine Pluviose remained submerged after diving in the harbor of Calais. Twenty-seven men were drowned. on Sept. 20, 1911, a gun exploded aboard the cruiser Gloire at Toulon. One man was killed and thirteen were injured, five mortally.

The most serious disaster in recent years to a ship belonging to a nation other than France was the loss of the Japanese battleship Mikasa on Sept. 11, 1905, when between 200 and 300 men were killed by a magazine explosion that practically destroyed the ship.

Another terrible accident in the Japanese service was an explosion on the battleship Kashima on Sept. 9, 1907. It followed an attempt to remove an unexploded shell from a ten-inch gun. On that occasion twenty-seven men, including five officers, were killed and a score of others seriously injured.

In the American Navy the most serious recent accident was an explosion in the boiler room of the gunboat Bennington on July 21, 1905. It caused the death of sixty men and the injuring of as many more. The Bennington was in the harbor of San Diego, Cal., at the time. Other serious accidents in the United States Navy were the premature ignition of a powder charge on the battleship Missouri off Pensacola on April 13, 1904, when twenty-three men were killed; an explosion on the Massachusetts dut to a premature ignition of powder which was about to be placed in an eight-inch gun, nine men being killed; a flareback on the Kearsarge on April 13, 1906, which killed two officers and eight men; an explosion on the Georgia on July 15, 1907, that killed two officers and six men, and a boiler explosion on the armored cruiser Tennessee in June, 1908, which resulted in the death of four men and the injuring of many others.

When the United States battleship Maine was blown up in Havana Harbor on Feb. 15, 1908, more than 250 lives were lost, but the explosion that destroyed the Maine was not an accident in the opinion of the Naval Board that investigated it, but due to a mine that was placed under the ship for the purpose of wrecking it.

KILLED IN LOCOMOTIVE CRASH

Engineer, in Pursuit of a Stolen Engine, Runs Into It.

RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 25.—A chase after a stolen engine on the tracks of the Norfolk (Va.) Lumber Company ended today with a rear-end collision in which Engineer H. P. Latham of Elizabeth City, N. C., was killed.

A logging engine of the Greenleaf-Johnson Lumber Company was stolen yesterday. To-day Latham jumped aboard his engine and started down the line on a hunt for the missing locomotive. While going around a curve at Vaughn, near Norlina, his engine crashed into the stolen one, and Latham was fatally injured. The engine thieves are still at large.

McNAMARA RE-ELECTED.

Ironworkers Indorse Indicted Secretary by Acclamation.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 25.—J. J. McNamara was to-day re-elected by acclamation Secretary of the International Association of Structural Bridge and Iron Workers in convention.

A $75 gold badge was voted to McNamara, whose trial is pending in Los Angeles. The Executive Board was increased from four to six members.

WICKERSHAM TO DOUBTING TRUSTS

do you not think a statement of the company's position desirable in the interest of both the stockholders and the general public?"

"I regret very much," he replied, "that I cannot answer your question in the affirmative at the present time."

Discusses Tobacco Trust Plans.

Mr. Wickersham had a busy day from the moment he stepped off his train in the morning till he got back to the Hotel Belmont, about 7 o'clock in the evening. He told the reporters who met him at the train that he would receive them in the office of District Attorney Wise at 10 o'clock. While they were waiting at the Federal Building, he telephoned that he had been delayed, but at 10:30 he came in and said that he would have no statement to make about United States Steel until later in the day, if he made any at all. Then he hurried to the conference on the plans for the disintegration of the American Tobacco Company, which kept him until after 1:30 o'clock.

This conference was one of the series of such talks that have been in progress for several weeks between Judges Lacombe, Ward, and Hough of the United States Circuit Court, the counsel for the tobacco company and its subsidiaries, and James C. McReynolds and himself representing the Government. At its conclusion Mr. Wickersham said that progress was being made toward an agreement on the method of dissolution.

"I hope to-day's conference will prove to be the last we shall have to hold, and that the next step will be for the Tobacco Company to present its detailed plan to the court, after which the court will give public hearings to all parties in interest before passing on the plan."

"What will determine the question whether any further conferences will be necessary?"

"The character of the plan as worked out in detail."

"Then it will be necessary for it to be submitted to somebody, say the Government, before it is filed in court?"

"It is probable that somebody will look it over," replied the Attorney General, with a smile.

The statement that further conferences may be unnecessary indicates that something approaching an agreement is in sight as a result of thrashing over the matter in conference. Heretofore only a skeleton plan has been discussed. In a general way it contemplated the formation of several new companies to take over the property and business of the condemned American Tobacco Company. The great difficulty that has arisen in working out the details is due to the complexity of interests represented by the common stock, preferred stock, 6 per cent. bonds, and 4 per cent. bonds. How the securities of the new companies can be exchanged for these old securities in such a way as to do justice and equity to all is the perplexing puzzle that the court and the lawyers have been wrestling with.

It will now be the business of the attorneys for the company to develop their skeleton plan in detail, after which it will be open to assault from security holders of any of the several classes.

Besides this are the complications due to the absorption of a large number of subsidiaries and the creation of others. The status of these subsidiaries after the disintegration has taken place is a matter which may lead to much contention, and they are expected to come into court when the plan is ready for discussion. Still another factor is the probable representation before the court of the independent tobacco dealers and the growers and packers of tobacco, some of them in alliance with the trust and some of them not, who want to make sure that when the new condition prescribed by the Supreme Court has been created their interests will have been sufficiently safeguarded for the future.

So far as the security holders are concerned, the common stock, of course, is controlled by the active managers of the business and will be committed to any plan devised by the company's lawyers. A majority of the preferred stock, which is largely held by the same individuals, has been deposited with the protective committee of bankers organized for that purpose. The consent of this majority of preferred stock will presumably be assured to the plan. Similar committees were formed for the deposit of the two classes of bonds in order that as large a proportion as possible of these interests might also be brought into agreement with the company's plan. More difficulty has been experienced in obtaining deposits of bonds than in the case of the preferred stock, and the time for deposit, originally set for Aug. 28, was extended to Sept. 28, or next Thursday. No statement has ever been made as to the amount of the bonds so deposited, but members of the committees have said that they have come in in goodly numbers, and that there will be no necessity to extend the time again. What part may be played in the court proceedings by those bondholders who have not come in under the committee plan remains to be seen.

Those in the Conference.

At the conference yesterday besides the Judges, Mr. Wickersham, and Mr. McReynolds, the special Assistant Attorney General in the Tobacco case, were J. B. Duke, President of the American Tobacco Company; Percival S. Hill, President of the American Cigar Company and Vice President of the parent concern; Williamson W. Fuller, Junius Parker, Lewis Cass Ledyard, De Lancey Nicoll, counsel for the company, and Sol. M. Stroock, counsel for the United Cigar Stores Company. There were also present during most of the conference Judge C. B. Watson of Winston-Salem, N. C.; A. J. Burton of Reidsville, N. C., and Charles R. Carruth of New York, counsel for J. P. Richardson, Jr., & Co. of Reidsville, a subsidiary of the American Tobacco Company.

This concern is in a peculiar position, as it has been trying for four years to disassociate itself from the trust. It was absorbed, its lawyers say, by compulsion in the way of a ruinous drive of competition by the American Tobacco Company. It found its new surroundings neither pleasant nor profitable. It was used, they say, as a weapon of the trust in fighting other independent companies until its business was practically ruined. Four years ago it brought suit against the American Tobacco Company to compel the return of its stock and its reconstitution as an independent concern. This litigation is still pending, but had been held up pendng the outcome of the Government's case against the trust. When this was before the Supreme Court the Richardson concern, which was made a defendant to the suit, along with many other subsidiaries, cheerfully admitted the Government's contentions and pointed to its desire and long fight to free itself from membership in the combination. Now its attorneys are anxious to see that whatever plan is finally approved by the court has the effect of restoring it to its original independent condition with its assets and good will unimpaired.

Powder Trust Reorganizing.

From the Tobacco conference Attorney General Wickersham hurried downstairs to the office of District Attorney Wise and went into conference on the affairs of the Powder Trust. This lasted until nearly 5 o'clock, when he left the building and a little later returned to his hotel. He left a statement to be given out at Mr. Wise's office, and this developed the fact that the Powder Trust, which had been found in violation of law by the Circuit Court, was preparing to reorganize itself without further contest and without carrying the case to the Supreme Court. This is the statement:

> A conference was held this afternoon at District Attorney Wise's office, between the Attorney General and Mr. W. A. Glasgow, Jr., of Philadelphia, special assistant to the Attorney General, representing the Government, and Mr. T. C. du Pont, President of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Powder Company, (known as the Powder Trust,) and Mr. James M. Townsend, its counsel, with respect to a plan of reorganization in conformity with the decree of the United States Circuit Court for the District of Delaware. That decree adjudged that the defendants constituted an unlawful combination in restraint of trade and an attempt to monopolize inter-State commerce in powder and explosives, and ordered the parties to appear before the court on Oct. 16 and submit any suggestions looking to a readjustment or reorganization to establish lawful competitive conditions. At to-day's conference the defendant company submitted certain suggestions looking toward the formation of a plan of readjustment. No conclusion was reached and the conference adjourned to meet at a date to be fixed later on.

Mr. Wickersham said last night that he had some business to attend to this morning which was not connected with these trust cases, and that he hoped to attend the aviation meet in the afternoon. To-morrow night he will remain either at the Belmont or at his country place near Far Rockaway.

STOCKS SLUMP BADLY.

Then Make Up Much of the Loss Before Close of the Market.

Stocks made the heaviest average declines yesterday of any session on the Exchange since the decline set in on Aug. 2. The tape showed seventy-two shares at new low records for the year, which is by far the largest crop of any day during the present slump. Copper stocks, almost without exception, reached their lowest points. So did practically all of the active railroad issues.

United States Steel common reached 51⅝, and at that point was down 4⅝ points. Union Pacific was down 6¼ and Reading 6. The slump was cumulative, the outpouring of stocks becomming greater as the session progressed until noon, when the market seemed on the eve of demoralization.

As on previous days this month the slump was accompanied by vague rumors of further activity on the part of the Government against corporations. Numerous concerns whose stocks are listed on the Exchange were named as about to become the targets for attack by the Department of Justice.

How much the demoralization was due to fear of the Government's attitude was indicated by the sharp turn for the better early in the afternoon for no other apparent reason that the news of a favorable session between Attorney General Wickersham and the committee which is seeking to reorganize the American Tobacco Company in accordance with the law.

The market made such sharp gains in the late trading that the heavy losses were largely reduced. Steel common, for instance, closed at a net loss of only ⅜. Union Pacific and Reading which had been off 6¼ and 6 points respectively closed with losses of 2½ and 2⅝ points. The same substantial recoveries from the low points of the day prevailed in practically all of the more active issues.

SMALL HOLDERS NOT SELLING.

Odd-Lot Brokers Notice Absence of Liquidation by Steel Investors.

Small investors, who came into the stock market in great numbers during the period of low prices succeeding the panic days of 1907 and have been buyers of odd lots of Stock Exchange securities with persistence ever since, are not letting go of their holdings as a result of the present slump, according to commission brokers who make a specialty of this class of business.

United States Steel stocks stood high in favor with the odd-lot buyers after the slump to around 22 in the panic, and, although there were many who took profits when the stock was on its way to the nineties last year, the buying continued to an extent which has made the present list of stockholders of the biggest corporation the largest in its history. It was estimated a short time ago that, with the stock held abroad and in brokerage offices the real owners of which are not the owners of record, the list approximates 100,000.

Information as to the extent to which small lots have been thrown upon the market during the present decline, as it might be revealed on the stock transfer books of the corporation, was not obtainable yesterday, but dealers in odd lots were emphatic in their statements that odd-lot selling by investment holders had been negligible. There has been a good deal of speculative business done in odd lots on the short side during the slump, the head of one of the largest odd-lot houses explained yesterday, but it has been rare that the outright owner of an odd lot of United States Steel or any other of the standard Stock Exchange issues has sent in his certificate for sale, he said.

Nearly one-quarter of the stockholders of the United States Steel Corporation are its own employes, who have become holders of the common or preferred shares under the profit-sharing plan which has been in force now for nearly ten years.

Approximately 25,000 employes have purchased shares under this plan, which gives them the privilege once a year of subscribing to shares under an easy payment plan, under which the corporation lends at a low rate of interest the money due in excess of the first installment of the subscription and credits the subscriber with the dividends.

In addition, as an inducement to the employes to hold the shares purchased, a bonus of $5 a year is paid on each share of the preferred and of $3.50 on the common at the end of five years. There are also other inducements to employes to round out the five-year periods as owners of the shares subscribed for.

At first only preferred stock was offered. This has been taken by employes of the corporation at prices ranging from $55 a share in 1904 to $124 last year. During the last nine years the average price paid by employes for this issue has been a little less than $96 a share. Common stock has been offered twice, in 1909 at $50 and this year at $70, an average price of $60.

TAFT SAYS 200,000,000 CAN BE FED HERE

In Address to Conservation Congress President Shows No Fear of Future Population Starving.

URGES CARE IN FARMING

His All-Day Trip in Southern Kansas Made Interesting by Big Crowds—Wallace Speaks on Conservation.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 25.—President Taft arrived in Kansas City to-night to address the National Conservation Congress. The crowds at the stops during the day were the largest the President has faced during any of his travels. The population of some of the cities had been swelled to twice the normal figures, excursion trains being run from many directions.

Mr. Taft confined himself in his speeches at these towns to the vetoes of the woolen, free list and cotton tariff bills.

"I believe the present woolen duties are too high," he exclaimed at one time, "and just as soon as I get adequate information I shall recommend their reduction."

Mr. Taft was on the go from 7:30 A. M. until the arrival here at 6:30 to-night.

Senator Curtis, Representative Campbell, and former Representative Charles H. Scott were with him throughout the day. At Humboldt Mr. Scott introduced the President. When he had finished, from the crowd popped up a large placard which read:

"If you want all Kansas to smile, appoint Charles H. Scott as Secretary of Agriculture."

Mr. Scott, who was formerly Chairman of the Agricultural Committee of the House, turned red, and the President laughed.

Mr. Taft told the Kansans their prosperity was such that they had more money per capita that any other State in the Union except Massachusetts.

"If you don't look out," he added, "we will begin to regard you as wicked millionaires out here."

Conservation Speech.

President Taft's speech to the National Conservation Congress was devoted almost exclusively to the conservation of the soil. The President explained that at last year's session of the congress in St. Paul he had expressed at length his views with regard to other phases of conservation, and added that since Congress up to date had not deemed it necessary to pass conservation legislation, he would confine himself to the one branch of the subject.

Mr. Taft reviewed the history of farming and farm production in this country for the past fifty-six years, and declared that, while he does not agree with those men who say that in fifty years the United States will be unable to feed its own people, there is need for intelligent understanding among the farmers of the trend of events.

The President added that if the population of the Nation increases proportionately in the next fifty years the United States will have doubled the number of its people.

"It is necessary then," he said, "that not only our acreage but our production per acre must increase proportionately so that our people may be fed. We must realize that the best land and the easiest and to cultivate has been taken up and cultivated, and that the additions to improve lands and to total acreage in the future must be of land much more expensive to prepare for tillage. The increase per acre of the production, too, must be steady each year, and each year an increase is more difficult.

"Still even in the face of these facts there is no occasion for discouragement. We are going to remain a self-supporting country and raise food enough within our borders to feed our people."

Mr. Taft said the States should take up the question of increasing the production of farms. Much has ben done, he said, through education in colleges and schools of trained and scientific farmers, and that the improvement through such institutions is bound to continue.

Speaking of a proposal to organize a force of 3,000 men, to be paid partly by the counties, partly by the States, and partly by the Federal Government, who shall conduct experiments in every county for the education of the farmer, the President said that while generally he was opposed to such collaboration he could not conceive of a wiser plan for this particular purpose.

"On the whole," said the President, in conclusion, "I think our agricultural future is hopeful. I do not share the pessimistic views of many gentlemen whose statistics differ from mine and who look forward to a strong probability of failure of self-support in food within the lives of persons now living. We may look forward to the middle of this century, when 200,000,000 people shall swear fealty to the starry flag, as a time when America will stilll continue to feed her millions and feed them well out of her own soil."

URGE BETTER FARMING.

Gov. Hadley and Henry Wallace Address Conservationists.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 25.—Plain words were used by speakers at the opening session of the third annual National Conservation Congress here to-day in pointing out that the continuation of present day farming methods will result calamitously for the country. Not only a change in treatment of the soil, but of the country people as well was urged. Only by bettering social conditions on the farm, it was declared, could young persons be kept there. About 3,500 delegates attended the opening session.

Herbert S. Hadley, Governor of Missouri, in welcoming the delegates to the State, urged advanced agricultural methods. He asserted that fully 40 per cent. of the land in this country is being farmed so that its productive qualities are decreased.

The Governor said in part:

"Up to the present time in this country we have been peculiarly fortunate in that our production has exceeded consumption and the supply has always been greater than the demand. The result has been that all Americans have eaten the same kind of food, and no stronger influence could exist against the creation of classes and castes in our population.

"But with the consumption increasing more rapidly than production and the consequent increase in the cost of the necessities of life, there will come a time when many will not be able to secure the same kind of food that is enjoyed by others. Then will there come a disturbing and dangerous influence that will threaten our society and our institutions."

Henry Wallace of Des Moines, President of the congress, in reply to the welcome, assailed the farmer as a soil robber, and pleaded for more scientific farming. In his plea for a "back to the farm" movement and a betterment of social conditions in the country he said the city "uses up men and families as it uses up horses." The solution of the high cost of living problem lies in better farming methods, he said.

"We are now nearing a point where we will need practically all our grains to provide for the wants of our own population. Our export of corn is merely a dribble; in our last census year, 100,000,000 bushels less than the average ten years before. Our exports of meats and dairy products have shrunk in ten years over 15 per cent. We sent abroad last year only about one-third the number of cattle we sent ten years ago. There is not the slightest indication that this decline will be checked. If checked at all, it will be checked temporarilly only, due to an industrial crisis.

"Were it not for over $500,000,000 worth of cotton that we send abroad each year, the country would be drained of its precious metals to settle our foreign obligations, and we would be on the verge of National bankruptcy.

"Lands in England that have been farmed for more than a thousand years produce more than twice as much wheat per acre on the average as we do in the naturally better lands of the Mississippi Valley. This demonstrates the difference between farming and merely mining the soil fertility.

"Inasmuch as there are no more Mississippi Valleys to be opened up we are now near the turning of the lane. We must from henceforth learn how to farm. We cannot greatly increase our acreage; will, in fact, be compelled by the return of normal climatic conditions over our western territory to reduce it. The only thing left to do is to grow more grain per acre, better stock in greater numbers per quarter section. Only in this way can we reduce the cost of living.

"Our great problem, as I said to this congress a year ago, is how to produce food for our own people at prices which they can afford to pay. But how? Partly by putting more brains into our farming. Many farmers have more faith in moon signs than in agricultural colleges and experiment stations; more faith in ordinary politicians than in college professors and scientists; more faith in yellow journals than in the best agricultural papers."

Citing the fact that more than 2,000,000 children are born in this country every year, Judge Lindsey told the delegates that 100,000 children annually are brought into the courts as dependent and delinquent, and declared his belief that the duty of the National Legislature was to enact a bill providing for the establishment of a children's bureau in the Department of Commerce and Labor.

"The Government spends annually millions of dollars investigating the diseases of animals," he said. "If we have a somewhat analogous bureau dealing with the welfare of the child life of the Nation it would be doing no more for them than we are doing for cattle and hogs."

TAFT IN SOUTHERN KANSAS.

Coffeyville and Independence Recall Historic Incidents.

INDEPENDENCE, Kan., Sept. 25.—President Taft received a most friendly greeting during his tour of Southern Kansas to-day. Both at Coffeyville, where he spent two of the forenoon hours, and at this place Mr. Taft was greeted by great crowds, excursion trains from outside communities helping to swell the throngs.

At Coffeyville the President was met by an escort of 200 horsemen, uniformed alike in blue cambric shirts, khaki trousers, and peaked hats. They were the representative business men and professional men of the city. The President spoke at the Plaza in Coffeyville, on the site of the bank that was held up by the notorious Dalton brothers many years ago. In the President's escort was Jack Kloehr, a determined-looking man with curly black hair and a drooping mustache. He killed two of the Dalton brothers in the round-up that followed the robbery.

The President spoke at Independence to a crowd that filled the street in front of the platform for two blocks. The platform stood between two elms planted in 1888 during the first Harrison campaign. One tree bore on a printed card the inscription "Ben Harison," the other "Levi P. Morton."

Mr. Taft drove to the Plaza through lines of cheering school children.

"I've been studying your history," said the President, "and I know you have to come through hell to get to heaven. I have been in Coffeyville this morning." This sally to the rivalry between Independence and Coffeyville made the crowd cheer and laugh.

The President spoke on the need of uniform laws in the States for subjects that cannot be regulated by the Federal Government, especially emphasizing the need of uniform marriage and divorce laws.

"It's very awkward," said the President, "for a man to be married on one side of a State line and not on the other. Now, we ought to have some uniform law that would stiffen up and strengthen the marriage laws. It is possible to make divorce difficult and prevent collusion in obtaining it."

CHERRYVALE, Kan., Sept. 25.—President Taft arrived here at 11:50 A. M. Every whistle in the city blew as the train drew into the station.

The Preseident again challenged William J. Bryan to produce an example of restraint of trade which would not come within the purview of the Supreme Court's Standard Oil and American Tobacco decisions, in a short address from the rear platform of his car.

Gathered around the President's car when he began to speak were hundreds of school children. Most of them wore tin drinking cups, tied around the waist line, in compliance with the Kansas individual drinking cup law.

"You are obedient children, aren't you?" asked the President.

"Sure," they yelled in chorus.

"I hope my coming here has given you part of a vacation for one day."

"You bet it has," piped up the chorus again.

"So you owe me something, don't you?" asked the President.

"Yes, indeed," was the reply.

CHANUTE, Kan., Sept. 25.—When the President arrived here, all business houses in the city were closed for an hour. Several thousand persons gathered at the train to hear the President speak.

OTTAWA, Kan., Sept. 25.—President Taft arrived here at 4:10 P. M., and was greeted by a great crowd at the station. After making a short address, the President left at 4:20 for Kansas City.

AUTOS CRASH ON HILL; TWO WOMEN MAY DIE

Their Husbands and Two Chauffeurs Hurt in Pelham Parkway Smash.

OTHER CARS RUSH TO AID

Owner of Machine Going Up the Incline Says the Other Was Racing Down.

Six persons were injured and two of them, women, will probably die, as a result of an automobile crash on the sharp incline in Pelham Parkway, between the Williamsbridge Road and the Eastchester Road, late last night. The injured are:

ANDERSON, ROBERT, chauffeur, 1,272 St. Nicholas Avenue; contusions of head and body.

KOERTER, GUSTAVE, chauffeur, 42 West Thirty-fifth Street; contusions of legs and body.

RITCHIE, DANIEL, 42 West Thirty-fifth Street; real estate dealer; contusions of head and body.

RITCHIE, Mrs. MAY, wife of above; possible fracture of skull, fracture of wrists, contusions of body; will probably die.

STEINBERG, HERMAN, 1,272 St. Nicholas Avenue, real estate dealer; contusions of knee, lacerated forehead, contusions of body.

STEINBERG, Mrs. STELA, wife of above; fracture of the base of the skull, lacerations of head, contusions of body; will die.

A large touring car owned by Steinberg containing besides himself his wife and their chauffeur, Anderson, was proceeding at a rapid rate of speed westward, according to witnesses, down the sharp incline about 1,000 feet west of the Williamsbridge Road at about 10 o'clock last night. Ascending the incline from the west was the smaller automobile containing Ritchie, his wife, and their chauffeur, Koerter. Anderson said later that a third automobile was preceding his own, blocking his view of the road ahead. The trees that fringe both sides of the roadway further darkened the path.

Suddenly, according to Anderson, the car ahead of him swerved out of the way, and in a moment there flashed before him close ahead the beetlelike eyes of an approaching automobile. Before he could even swerve his car it had crashed into the other. There was a rending of steel and wood and glass, and the occupants of both cars were thrown into the roadway.

The smaller car was turned completely around and wedged into the crumpled front of the larger car.

Two small dogs belonging to Mrs. Ritchie—one of them a prize winner—which were also thrown far out into the road, ran howling up to where, in the middle of the road, lay the figures of the two women and Steinberg, all three unconscious and motionless. Ritchie and his chauffeur, who were less seriously injured, ran up and lifted Mrs. Ritchie from the parkway, carrying her to the green sward beside it.

At the same time, two other automobiles that had been driving through the Park stopped, and their occupants lifted the two Steinbergs into the automobiles and drove at full speed to the Fordham Hospital. A third car that drove up later carried Mr. and Mrs. Ritchie to the hospital. When an ambulance that had been summoned from the hospital reached the scene of the accident only the two wrecked cars were there, with the chauffeurs limping disconsolately around them. Both chauffeurs refused medical attendance.

At the hospital it was said that the two injured women had little chance of recovery.

Ritchie, after his injuries had been dressed, declared that the Steinberg car, driven by Anderson, had been going down hill at a speed which he characterized as "outrageous," and seemed to be racing with the car just ahead of it. He said Koerter had attempted to swerve his own smaller car as far in toward the edge of the road as possible, but so great was the momentum of the larger, car, increased by the steep grade of its descent, that it crashed into his before it had even responded to the chauffeur's steering.

CHASES SIX IN STOLEN AUTO.

Policeman on Motor Cycle Hits a Trolley, After It Carries Away Fender.

Just about the time that Mr. and Mrs. Charles Belknap of 1,373 President Street, Brooklyn, discovered that their touring car had been stolen from in front of the Orpheum Theatre last night, Motor Cycle Policeman Howard Smith saw one whizz east in Dean Street past the Union League Club at Bedford Avenue with three men and three women in it.

Smith gave chase, but not till the car reached Schenectady Avenue did he get alongside.

Drawing his revolver, he ordered the driver, a youth of about 22 years, to stop. The youth pretended to do so, then suddenly drove the automobile squarely at Smith, who saved himself only by driving upon the sidewalk.

The car whizzed on, and again Smith pursued it. He again was gaining on the automobile, when, at Rockaway Avenue, its path was barred by a trolley car. The driver just missed the car, carrying away its fender on the front of the auto. Smith was obliged to leap from his motorcycle, which crashed into the trolley car and was wrecked.

A block further on its occupants abandoned the auto, after driving it on the sidewalk. They escaped.

Belknap later identified the automobile as his own. It was five miles from the theatre where he had left it.

Smallpox Halts the Vaderland.

Smallpox held up the liner Vaderland of the Red Star Line for five hours yesterday at Quarantine. There was one case aboard, a child in the steerage, who was removed to Swinburne Island by order of Dr. Doty, health officer of the port. The Vaderland was fumigated and allowed to proceed to her pier.

AVIATOR KILLED IN A STOLEN FLIGHT

smashing every camera, or driving its owner back, except in a single instance.

A diminutive photographer managed to slip between the mounted men, and after fighting two men on foot got a snapshot. Then a friend seized his camera and escaped while constables and detectives struggled with the man they had captured.

Mr. Woodruff gave the affair his close personal attention.

"Well done," said Mr. Woodruff to the police as they shoved the photographer off the field. "To-morrow I shall have you armed with guns, and if the photographers don't keep away I want you to shoot them. They shall not be allowed to take any pictures of accidents at this meet."

The Queen machine had already been in one accident during the day before Clarke went up in it. Early in the morning Ignace Seminouk, the Russian flier, went on a cross-country flight to Mineola in it with Ovington's permission. In attempting to land a mounted policeman rode out into his path, and he was forced to swerve aside. He struck a post, demolished it, and then went forward into a fence at the north edge of the grounds. A wheel on which the monoplane alighted was snapped off and a wing tip was damaged. It was because he had not yet had an opportunity to repair the machine that Ovington forbade Clarke to take it out. Clarke repaired the broken wheel himself, and then, because all those who might have restrained him were aloft, he ignored the instructions.

Dr. Charles B. Clarke.

Killed in Air Flight at Nassau Boulevard Meet.

His Daring Circus Tricks.

Clarke's real name was Charles Clarke Bunting. He was born in Tennessee, and when a very young man went to Kansas City to live. After taking a medical degree at the University of Chicago, he practiced in Kansas City until he was 27 years old. When the bicycle first came into common use he became so proficient in trick riding that he accepted an offer to do circus tricks and vaudeville acts.

Nine years ago he came to New York, and at the Madison Square Garden started the spectators with his "looping-the-gap," an act of a few seconds' duration in which he rode down an incline plane on a bicycle, and jumped over a gap to another plane about twenty feet away.

Then he sprang a new sensation, the "loop-the-loop," in which he turned a complete circle with his bicycle. And when the automobile came into use he looped a narrow board loop with a racing machine.

He married Bertha Clarke, one of a well-known family of acrobats, now playing with the Ringling Circus, in 1905. With her he toured the world in his hair-raising act, "Circling the Globe of Death."

Clarke was President of the Smith Manufacturing Company of 4,283 Park Avenue, makers of garage accessories, and his invention of an overhead automobile washer for garages is in general use.

In the rear yard of the Erich House, 229 West Thirty-eight Street, where Clarke and his wife made their home, the trick rider often flew his toy aeroplanes to the amusement of the theatrical and circus men in the hotel.

ENGLISH FLIERS LEAD AGAIN.

Grahame-White, Sopwith, and Ellyson Win at International Meet.

Although Timothy L. Woodruff and his companion promoters of the aviation meet at Nassau Boulevard marked yesterday's programme with a special preface pointing out that it was "Ladies' Day," there were very few members of the fair sex upon the grounds, and less than 2,000 men.

Sunday's big flights, with the crowd of 12,000 or more to watch them, seemed to have surfeited the city's appetite for aviatorial events.

Those who came yesterday made a mere fringe along the border of the aviation grounds, and the grand stands had almost the deserted look of a Summer resort out of season.

Mr. Woodruff was present, passing upon conflicts in a rapid-fire order throughout the afternoon, and there seemed to be a big batch saved up for him at nightfall.

Toward the end of the meet the crowd saw Dr. J. V. Clarke, an amateur monoplane flier who had not yet obtained an aviator's license, fall to his death from a height of 200 feet. At first they hoped that his injuries would not prove serious, but as the crowds were leaving for home in the twilight the report was received that he had died.

Automobilists Have Trouble.

The day's events started with a speed contest for monoplanes which few people watched, as there was a large conflict in progress between those who came in automobiles and the detectives hired to keep folk in the spaces allotted to them on the grounds. The spaces, as it happened, were arranged serially with a ticket vendor every little ways, who required a fresh ticket in order that one might pass through that particular space. Automobilists who paid $5 each for their tickets wished to leave their cars and visit the refreshment stands a short distance away. They found gatemen every little ways who wanted an additional dollar, or two dollars in some cases, and finally tired of the matter to such an extent that there were many wordy wars before the visitors from the parked spaces occupied by the automobiles decided it was best to sit in their cars and forget things.

The monoplane flight was won by Grahame-White in a Nieuport machine, which looked very much like a flying fish in the air. He passed easily over Sopwith and won the event, Sopwith finishing second. A third flier, after doing two laps, decided that the company was one in which he did not consider himself able to move and he came down.

There was trouble over the bomb-throwing contest, as the judges had announced that each aviator would be required to carry a lady as a passenger to throw the bombs, and some aviators had prepared themselves with escorts only to learn at the last moment that this feature of the event would not be insisted upon.

Ely, who had made several exhibition flights with Mrs. Ely as passenger and expected to win the event, dropped out when the change in the programme was announced. Sopwith, Beatty, Milling, and Arnold, all flying biplanes, dropped four bombs each in the general direction of a blue flag fixed in front of the grand stand. The measurements of all four efforts of each man, when averaged gave Sopwith first place.

For a time the crowd expected to see Mlle. Dutrieu in flight, as her Farman biplane was brought out onto the grounds, and she tuned its motor up several times. There was trouble in her case, however, as she explained to her friends in excitable French. "And they make conditions that are a sure loss of money," she was quoted as saying after an interpreter had put her words into English. "I send my aide to Mr. Woodruff to ask about the payment of prize money, and he says, very impertinent like, that Mlle. Dutrieu is to have no prize money because the $2,000 she is to get as a guarantee covers all her prizes, and her winnings will be deducted from that. And the $2,000 was just passage money over, you know."

Mlle. Dutrieu's machine was close to the point where Clarke fell to his death, and Mlle. Dutrieu was witness of the accident. It was afterward announced that Mlle. Dutrieu would fly to-day.

On account of the indisposition of Mlle. Dutrieu to fly, a special number for women pilots was postponed.

In a cross-country flight six biplanes were seen to disappear in a single group directly into the sunset. They made a more poetic picture than any previous spectacle of aeroplanes aloft.

From the aerial Post Office it was announced that Postmaster General Hitchcock would possibly be a passenger in a mail-carrying aeroplane to-day. The Postmaster General was present on the grounds yesterday and saw Ovington depart for Mineola. He discussed the possibilities of aeroplanes in the Postal Service.

"On certain stretches of the Colorado River," he said, "the mails are carried miles out of their way so that fords can be found. Aeroplanes to leap over the river chasms would certainly be big improvements. Then there are the rural delivery routes. However, the establishment of aerial routes would be contingent upon regular service, and I hardly think the aeroplanes are fully developed to that stage yet. It will be some time before the Post Office Department may be expected to designate aerial routes, but I am certain that at some date this will be done."

In a Dipperdussia monoplane, a weirder looking aircraft than any other that has gone aloft, George W. Dyott attempted a short flight early in the day. His engine failing him, he made a sudden and precipitate landing outside of the aviation grounds, but was not seriously hurt. While returning from Mineola, to which he had flown safely, Ignace Seminouk made a poor landing in the Queen monoplane in which Clarke was killed later in the day. He injured a wing tip and broke one of the wheels on which the craft alighted. It was thought that this accident to the machine may have possibly figured in the fatal accident on its later flight.

The Races in Detail.

Although particularly late in starting, the first event not being called until an hour and a quarter after the scheduled time, when it did get under way, the meet went along with a dash and a go which somewhat made amends for the unknown delay at the beginning, and it was conceded that, with the speed shown by the monoplanes in the first race, as well as subsequent incidents, there was enough excitement to satisfy the most exacting.

Mile-a-minute racing was seen for the first time at the series, and, as a matter of fact, for the first time in this vicinity since the meet at Belmont Park last year. This speed was shown when Grahame-White in his Nieuport monoplane, made eight circuits of the field, or ten miles, in 9:58, just shading an even minute for each mile by a fifth of a second, as an average.

Later on the bomb-throwing for accuracy proved a decided novelty, the plaster of paris missiles being thrown from a height of 150 feet at a given mark, a circle six feet in circumference. Of the four aviators in the contest, each accompanied by a passenger, who did the throwing at the mark, Harry Englander, with Tom Sopwith, proved the most adept, getting an average distance of 20 feet 6½ inches from the circle in his four attempts.

Miss Genevieve O'Hagen, who accompanied George W. Beatty, made the closest throw, getting to within 5 feet 9½ inches of the mark, but it was adjudged that the toss had been made from a height too low to count.

The concluding event of the day, the cross-country race of approximately twenty miles to Belmont Park, to Mineola, to Belmont Park, and back to the field, proved most spectacular. With six big biplanes all in action at one time and racing at speeds from 35 to over 50 miles an hour back and forth over the stands and field, the spectators were kept on the jump in an endeavor to see everything that was going on.

In this event Lieut. Ellyson, the navy aviator, made his first cut into the money awards by taking down the $600 to the man making the fastest time by accomplishing the distance in 21:05 4-5, over two minutes faster than the second man, Lee Hammond.

The automobile-aeroplane race with Louis Disbrow and T. O. M. Sopwith as the respective drivers was declared void as the result of the crossing of the arrangement wires by Sopwith's manager, Sterrett, as attested by Disbrow. It had been agreed that the race, which was for a purse of $1,000 and a trophy, was to be decided over the Motor Parkway, a private road, on which there is no speed limit.

Part of the agreement was that if Disbrow reached the Parkway from the field in advance of the aviator he was to wait for him, when a start would be effected for the 12½-mile run down the speedway and return. Disbrow had reached the Garden City Lodge, the appointed starting-place, and was wheeling around in order to get ready for the start when Sopwith swooped by and was soon out of sight.

After waiting in vain for his return, Disbrow was informed by Sterrett that he had better return to the field and inform the officials of the mixup, which he did, only to find that Sopwith had beaten him to the finish and had been announced the winner.

There was a war of words between Disbrow and Sopwith, the latter being accused of violating the terms of the agreement. Disbrow explained the whole matter to the manager of the meet, former Lieut. Gov. Woodruff, who declared that the event would have to be run over again later in the week.

In commenting on the fact that there had been no race, Disbrow said: "Why, it would have been ridiculous for me to have agreed to a contest which would call for me to race over two miles along open country roads, on which, as I had been told by the Sheriff, I could not go faster than 25 miles an hour, under penalty of arrest. I know that the Blériot can do ninety miles an hour, and I would only consent to a race on the Parkway, where I would have some semblance of a chance."

The start of this event was made across the field, with the aeroplane quicker to get into action. Disbrow flew across the uneven grass field at a tremendous pace, and left a simoon of yellow dust in his wake which made it almost impossible to see the machine. On his return he was speeding across the field at the same time Earle Ovington was making a descent. The latter, not seeing the automobile, dropped down right across the line, and directly in the path of the motor car. A collision seemed imminent, but Disbrow brought his car around at almost right angles, and dodged the helpless aviator and his machine, to the relief of the onlookers. Summary:

Speed Contest for Monoplanes; Ten Miles.—Won by Claude Grahame-White, (Nieuport) Time—9:58. Thomas O. M. Sopwith, (Bleriot,) second. Time—10:38 2-5.

PLAN TO STOP SUNDAY FLIGHTS.

Church Folk of Garden City Will Prosecute Woodruff and Others.

Notice was served on Timothy L. Woodruff yesterday that he and his associates in the management of the Nassau Boulevard aviation meet might expect to be prosecuted for allowing the events of last Sunday to be held after the payment of gate money. A Garden City clergyman, it was said, will appear as complainant on a charge that the noise of the aeroplane motors disturbed his congregation in violation of the Sunday laws.

The movement to prevent next Sunday's meet gained considerable headway yesterday under the leadership of Bishop Burgess of Long Island and Canon Chase. Bishop Burgess announced that it is no sudden determination to end Sunday flying that has occasioned the present crusade, but a quiet determination which has been growing for months. The fliers at the Mineola grounds who are said to have chosen Sunday most frequently for cross-country efforts, are held responsible for the hostility. The "aeroplane nuisance" is described as originating in the "barking" of the motors as the machines pass over churches and Sunday schools.

The leaders of the crusade to prevent next Sunday's meet will petition the District Attorney and then ask for an injunction against it in case the District Attorney fails to act. Petitions were circulated among Garden City residents and others yesterday against the proposed meet.

On behalf of the management, Mr. Woodruff announced that the entire question had been referred to the aviation corporation's attorneys and that the corporation's future conduct would be in accordance with their suggestions.

Miss Harriet Quimby, who made a notable flight on Saturday, sent a letter to THE TIMES yesterday in which she said that reports that she had not flown on Sunday because her machine was out of order were erroneous. The real reason, she said, was that her parents objected to Sunday flights.

LONG DELAY FOR RODGERS.

Wrecked Aeroplane Practically Undergoes Process of Reconstruction.

SALAMANCA, N. Y., Sept. 25.—Calbraith P. Rodgers, the coast-to-coast aviator, will spend several days here in idleness, it being necessary practically to rebuild his aeroplane wrecked by a barbed wire fence near Red House on Sunday.

What was left of the airship was brought here to-day and taken to a local iron works, where reconstruction was begun under the direction of Charles Taylor, formerly Superintendent of the Wright brothers' factory. The engine is about all that escaped in the accident unscathed. Both propellers and the skids were broken, and the planes were torn to ribbons. Most of the parts were carried in duplicates on a special train, but some of them had been used before, so that it will be necessary to await the arrival of new ones from the factory. Rodgers will probably be unable to resume his journey before Thursday.

Grays are the fabrics for Fall in Men's Clothes

¶ This is not to say that grays are the only fabrics. A roll call of the many beautiful fabrics and colors we are showing this Fall would astonish you by its length.

¶ But grays are in the lead. It really surprises us who are tailors that the looms can go on eternally turning out grays, all different, yet all gray.

¶ Slate grays, steel grays, dappled grays, light grays, medium grays, dark grays, plain grays, fancy grays, and all the innumerable other grays between. Grays that are as soft as an English twilight, and grays like that through which the milkman moves at morn, a gray and solitary silhouette.

¶ There are gray worsteds, unfinished gray worsteds and gray cheviots. Diagonal grays, narrow herringbone grays and striped grays. Grays that are lively, grays that are austere. And if we have any preference at all, it is a gray cheviot. Sometimes it seems to us that no other fabric tailors quite so smartly. But, for that matter, your choice is as good as ours.

¶ Showing in their soft rolling lapels and unpadded shoulders the influence of English styles, every gray suit in the department is a tribute to Saks tailoring and to the desirability of gray in all its moods and tenses.

ITALIAN SHIPS SAIL; TURKEY SEEKS PEACE

Three Warships Pass Malta on Way to Tripoli—Whole of Italy Aroused.

POWERS MAY INTERVENE

The Porte Appeals to Them to Avert a Conflict—Europeans Fleeing from Tripoli.

MALTA, Sept. 25.—An Italian battleship passed here yesterday and two Italian cruisers were sighted this evening steaming toward Tripoli.

Italians and other Europeans continue to arrive from Tripoli. Steamers have been especially engaged to expedite the exodus.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 25.—The Porte has addressed a circular to the Turkish representatives abroad, instructing them to invoke the good offices of the powers with a view to restraining Italy from hostile action in Tripoli. The Grand Vizier has abandoned his projected European holiday, owing to the uncertainty of the situation.

A more tranquil feeling prevails, as it is now known that the reported landing of Italian troops in Tripoli is untrue, and the Porte has postponed the transports with war material for Tripoli. Orders have been sent to the Tripolitan authorities to avoid doing anything calculated to disturb good relations, or give Italy a pretext for hostile action.

The Bourse was closed to-day owing to the Bairam festival, but heavy sales of Turkish unified stock depressed the price four points.

It is expected that the new Italian Ambassador, Marquis Di Garroni, who will arrive here on Oct. 3, will bring a note asking for a settlement of all questions pending between Italy and Turkey.

CHIASSO, Switzerland, Sept. 25.—According to the latest advices received here the whole of Italy, with the exception of a section of the Socialists, now demands the speedy occupation of Tripoli. The Socialists argue that Italy is not sufficiently prepared to stand the heavy expenses required to enter colonial competition.

In the meantime the Italian Government is taking the present opportunity to experiment in the partial mobilization of the troops. The entire fleet is now ready for war, including the smallest and the oldest ships. The coast fortifications have been strengthened to meet any attack. Sixty steamers have been chartered for the transport of 35,000 soldiers, war material, aeroplanes and dirigibles, and Red Cross workers.

The contingent of soldiers kept after their time had expired, with the reserve called up, brings the standing army to 80,000 above normal. The troops intended for Tripoli are centred chiefly in the Naples, Sicily, and Tarento barracks.

The expeditionary force, in addition to the infantry, includes four batteries of mountain artillery, which proved effective in the war in Abyssinia.

Desiring to have all the regions and regiments represented in the expedition, the Colonels had their respective regiments drawn up and asked those who were ready to go to step forward. Invariably all the men advanced, cheering enthusiastically, while many reservists asked to be recalled to the colors.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, Sept. 25.—The Italian liner Regina Margherita, which was reported yesterday to have been captured by Turkish warships at Mersina, the Port of Adana, in Asia Minor, arrived here safely this afternoon. The steamer, which is one of the fleet of the Navigazione Generale Italiana of Genoa, was not molested by Turkish officials during her voyage to this port.

ROME, Sept. 25.—The Government issued to-day another warning to the press threatening the severest measures under the Penal Code against journalists and correspondents who give publicity to information concerning the movements of the army and navy.

PARIS, Sept. 25.—A dispatch from Palermo to the Temps says that the Italian battleships Napoli, Garibaldi, and Roma, with the armored cruisers and other ships reported ready to move against Tripoli, still remain in the Harbor of Palermo.

It had been understood that the fleet had left Syracuse in Sicily for Tripoli, but their detention at Palermo appears to be the result of a decision on the part of the Italian Government to await Turkey's final determination concerning a lease of Tripoli under the terms of which that country would remain under the sovereignty of Turkey, and Turkey would receive an annual sum of money from Italy.

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—Although Germany has not offered formal mediation, it is learned that she is exerting her best endeavors at Rome and Constantinople to bring about a peaceful settlement of the controversy between Turkey and Italy over Tripoli. Germany regards hostilities between those two countries as a menace to European peace, since it would probably be followed by an outburst in the Balkans, into which Austria-Hungary and the other powers might be drawn.

Germany advocates as a solution of the question Turkish recognition of Italy's special interests and her abandonment of opposition to the economic development of Tripoli by Italy, and also of the recognition by the latter country of Turkish sovereignty.

Germany's position is a delicate one, as she is bound by an alliance to Italy and by friendship to Turkey.

LONDON HOPES FOR PEACE.

Expects Italy to Try First to Force a Diplomatic Settlement.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—According to the latest dispatches received here, no overt act has occurred which would be likely to precipitate hostilities between Italy and Turkey, and the hope is held that peace will be maintained.

It is pointed out that it is to the interest of all the powers to avoid reopening the Near Eastern question.

The friends of Italy do not believe that she proposes to take Tripoli with force without having first attempted to settle the differences through diplomatic channels, although it is admitted that she has serious grievances, including the boycott of Italian goods in Asia Minor and Tripoli; the danger to Italian subjects in Tripoli through the return of the agitator who was before expelled from the country for stirring up the people against the Italians, and in the matter of concessions in Tripoli granted to non-Italian firms.

However, from all sources comes the information that Italy is preparing to force a compliance with her demands by the mobilization of her army and navy and the movement of ships toward Tripoli.

The Turkish force at Tripoli is variously estimated at from 20,000 to 30,000 men, described as badly equipped and unable to offer serious opposition to Italian landing parties who would be protected by the guns of the navy.

Turkey's only reply could be the enforcement of a boycott of Italian shipping in the Levant and the expulsion of Italian subjects who have large interests in the country from Turkey.

France, it is expected, will not interfere in any way with Italy, while Great Britain would also be an interested spectator. Germany would be most seriously affected, as she would be in the position of having to choose between two irreconcilable friends on a matter which is the direct result of her Moroccan enterprise, and which will neutralize entirely the naval advantage which she expected from a careful nursing of Turkey, the reconciliation of the Turks and the Austrians, and the encouragement of Turkish and Austrian naval ambition. Germany, therefore, is likely to attempt a settlement.

AMERICA NOT TO INTERFERE.

Silent So Long as Our Treaty Rights with Tripoli Are Respected.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Unless it should appear that the participation of the United States is desired in another international conference similar to the Algeciras Conference, which adjudged the relations with powers interested in Morocco, it is improbable that there will be any American interference between Italy and Tripoli. Americans have considerable trade with Tripoli, and an American exploring expedition is operating on the Tripoli coast, but it is said at the State Department that so long as existing treaty relations are left unimpaired there will be no ground for intervention.

The United States has an ancient treaty with the Bey of Tripoli guaranteeing to American traders the usual rights in the country, but it has been asserted by the Turkish Government that this treaty has lapsed since Turkish assumption of control over Tripoli. The State Department has not found it necessary to take issue with this claim, as the Turks have accorded to American merchants all the privileges that they enjoyed under the old treaty.

TURKS HERE NOT TO GO HOME.

Few of the 50,000 former subjects of the Ottoman Empire who are residents of this city expressed any determination yesterday to return to Turkey and take up arms in case of a war with Italy. Many of them, indeed, came to this country to escape having to do, compulsory military duty, they said. Nine-tenths of the former Turkish subjects here are non-Mohammedans.

While they did not seem to be particularly interested in the outcome of the Italian-Turkish imbroglio, Vahan Cardashian, counsel for the Ottoman Chamber of Commerce in this city, expressed the opinion yesterday that the dispute may mean the gradual dismemberment of the Ottoman Empire, with the tacit consent of the European powers.

"There is no just excuse for Italy's desire to establish a protectorate over Tripoli," said Mr. Cardashian. "But there has been a large Italian influx into Tripoli during the last thirty years, especially since the collapse of Italy's territorial plans in Abyssinia in 1898, and Italy has from time to time demanded equality with other nations from Turkey for her subjects in Tripoli in the matter of mixed courts, Post Offices, and the like. In 1908 Turkey was forced to allow Italy to maintain her own independent Post Offices in certain Mediterranean cities and to extend to Italian subjects the right to acquire title to property in the Turkish Empire. Part of Italy's policy of territorial expansion has been to encourage her subjects to emigrate to those parts of the Turkish Empire which were not yet exploited by other nations.

PLANNING LOAN TO CHINA.

Conference of American, British, and Other Foreign Bankers in Berlin.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 25.—From Berlin, where he represented American interests at the international conference of bankers to consider a proposed currency loan for China, Henry P. Davison, accompanied by W. D. Straight, arrived here last evening. When asked for details by the correspondent of THE NEW YORK TIMES to-day, Mr. Davison stated that a conference of the American, British, German, and French groups was held in Berlin Saturday last.

The representatives present were H. P. Davison, who presided; E. C. Grenfell of London, Dr. Carl Melchier of Hamburg, W. D. Straight, who represented the American group; C. S. Eddis, and E. G. Hillier, representing the British group; F. R. Urbig, C. Erich, E. Rehders, and H. Cordes, representing the German group, and E. Simpson, representing the French group.

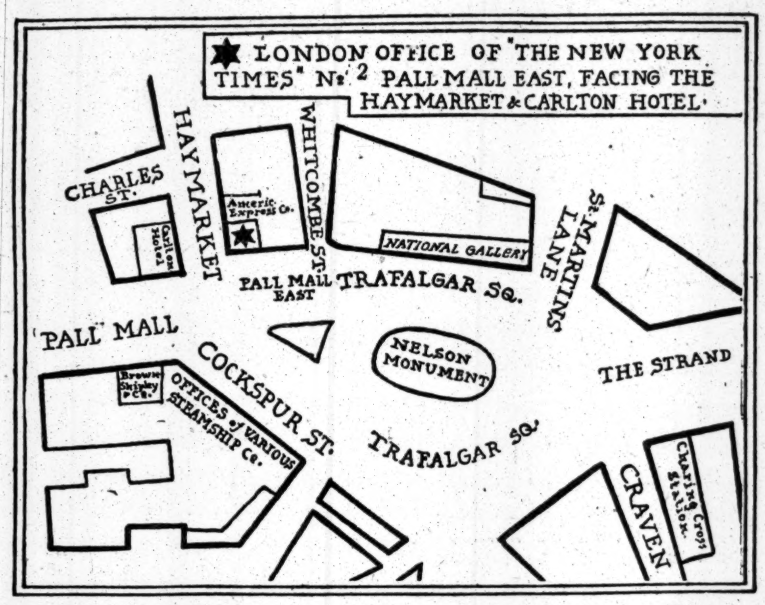
"Although," added Mr. Davison, "it is understood that the conference was satisfactory, it is not expected that definite results will be accomplished nor an announcement made before the middle of October."

Mr. Davison declined to say any more or discuss business conditions in general.

PEKING, Sept. 25.—The Chinese Government has refused the terms of a salary of $50,000 and a single year contract made by the Dutch banker Vissering, who was proposed for the post of Financial Adviser to China, and has asked the United States to select another Financial Adviser.

It is stated that the question of the Foreign Adviser's power still delays the final conclusion of the $50,000,000 currency reform loan.

NEW YORK TIMES OPENS NEW OFFICES IN LONDON



At 2 Pall Mall East, in the Heart of the Club and Theatrical District—Offices in Fleet Street Also Retained.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—THE NEW YORK TIMES to-day opened new offices in the West End of London, in addition to those it already occupied in Fleet Street. Just as the latter are in the centre of the newspaper publishing and printing business, so the corner of the Haymarket and Pall Mall, where THE NEW YORK TIMES's new bureau is situated, is in the very heart of the district in which the life and interests of the West End of London pulsate most strongly. Particularly is this the case, at certain seasons, of American life in this metropolis.

Across the Haymarket is the Carlton Hotel. Alongside are the offices of three leading American express companies. The well-known American banking firm of Brown, Shipley & Co. is on the other side of Pall Mall, and facing THE NEW YORK TIMES's office entrance, 2 Pall Mall East, are the International Mercantile Marine Company's building and the West End passenger offices of the other leading transatlantic steamship lines.

Clubland, the leading theatre section, and the principal shopping district of London are all around, with the National Gallery, fronting on Trafalgar Square, within a stone's throw.

The building in which THE NEW YORK TIMES's offices are situated is a fine four-story edifice, at one time the residence of Addison and in later years the chief West End offices of Barclay & Co., one of the oldest-established banking firms in England.

NATIVES KILL ENSIGN HOVEY.

Three Others of Gunboat Party Wounded in the Philippines.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Ensign Charles E. Hovey, commanding the little gunboat Pampanga, was killed by hostile natives yesterday at the Basilan Islands, which form part of the Philippine Archipelago.

J. H. Catherwood, ordinary seaman, was severely wounded; J. H. McGuire, hospital apprentice, and G. F. Henreichen, machinist's mate, second class, were slightly wounded.

Commander Fahs, in charge of the naval station at Olongapo, cabled to the Nevy Department the brief report from Commander Schoenfeld of the gunboat Quiros, cruising in Southern Philippine waters. The report stated that there had been an action yesterday between the force from the gunboat Pampanga and hostile Yacans on the Basilan Islands, which lie just south of the town of Zamboango and between Mindanao and the Jolo group.

Naval officials expressed the belief that the party was on an exploring expedition in the interior of the Island of Basilan and suddenly met the Yacans, who are a primitive Malayan tribe and fanatical adherents of the Moslem faith. The Yacans are very poor, and their principal weapon is the famous "sumpitan," or blowgun, with which they project poisoned darts to great distances.

Ensign Hovey was graduated from the Naval Academy in the class of 1907. His mother, Mrs. Louise S. Hovey, lives at 57 State Street, Portsmouth, N. H.

Catherwood has been in the Naval Service about three years. His mother is Mrs. E. J. Catherwood, 621 West Washington Street, Springfield, Ill.

McGuire has had two years' service. His mother is Mrs. Jennie McGuire, Gordonville, Mo.

Henreichen has been in the navy two years, and is a son of John B. Henreichen, 449 Capital Avenue, Hartford, Conn.

The first announcement said that Ensign Haller Belt was the officer killed, but a correction was received later in the day. The error was made in the transmission by cable of the officer's code number. The Navy Department promptly notified Ensign Belt's family, at Galveston, Texas, of the mistake, and assured them of his safety.

STOLYPIN'S SLAYER HANGED.

Not Allowed to See Rabbi Without Witnesses—Jews Return to Kieff.

KIEFF, Sept. 25.—Dmitry Bogroff, the assassin of Premier Stolypin, who was condemned to death by court-martial, was hanged to-day.

Before his execution the young man asked that he might see a rabbi, but refused this consolation when informed that the interview must be in the presence of officials.

Three thousand Jews who left the city after the assassination of M. Stolypin, fearing that they might be the victims of racial riots, have returned here.

ULSTER DECIDES TO FIGHT.

Unionist Leaders Meet—Home Rule Not to be Acknowledged.

BELFAST, Sept. 25.—A conference of Unionist leaders was held to-day and resolutions were adopted declaring that the Unionists would not acknowledge the authority of any Home Rule government.

A committee was appointed to devise a provisional government for Ulster, to become operative on the day that the Irish Home Rule bill is passed.

Sir Edward Carson, ex-Solicitor General and now Member of Parliament for Dublin University, was chosen as the leader of the movement.

WOULD LET JAPAN BUY THE PHILIPPINES

Denver Post Suggests That Purchase Price Be Used to Reclaim Arid Lands.

AFTER THE PEOPLE'S VIEWS

Sends Out Letter to Governors and Editors—Islands Declared a Burden to America.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, Col., Sept. 25.—The Evening Post declares there is a sentiment among the people that something should be done with the Philippine Islands. To crystallize this sentiment and to get at the opinions of the representative people of the whole country The Post has written a letter to the leading men of all the country proposing that the United States shall sell the Philippine Islands to Japan, the price to be paid in annual installments, and that this money, along with the money saved each year when the Philippine Government is no longer carried on at our expense, be devoted to the development of arid lands in the West and land subject to overflow in the South.

This propasal has been made to the Governor of each State and each Representative and Senator in Congress and to the editors of the daily newspapers. Each has been requested to indicate whether or not he approves the suggestion of The Post, and to give his reasons if he desires. The letter sent out says:

"It has been thirteen years since the United States, in the course of war with Spain, was compelled to take charge of the Philippine Islands. It was from the first the avowed intention of the United States to turn over the islands to the Filipinos themselves as soon as order was restored and a stable government assured. But by degrees it was realized that the Filipino is not sufficiently civilized to conduct a responsible government on his own account, and all efforts to graft a Western civilization on an Eastern people have failed. After more than twelve years of work, costly in both blood and treasure, the Filipino is as little as ever fitted for self-government.

"The Post desires to suggest a solution to this problem. The United States does not want the Philippines—never did want them. It is against the American policy to own colonies or to rule any people beyond the seas. The Filipino does not want to be ruled by the American, yet is unfit to rule himself until he is civilized, and he cannot be civilized by the American. The obvious solution is to turn the islands over to some nation which does want them and whose civilization is fitted to the mind and character of the Filipino.

"That country is Japan. The little island empire is badly overcrowded, and the Japanese must have room for expansion. They have already overrun Korea, and year by year are crowding more heavily on Russia and China. Now the Philippines are at their very door, as convenient to them as they are inconvenient to us. They need them and want them, and if war should come would take them in spite of us, and it would cost untold millions to recover them. The Filipino and the Japanese would readily understand each other, which the Filipino and the American never will.

"The Post wishes to propose that the United States sell the Philippines to Japan, the purchase price to be paid in annual installments; and both this purchase price and sum now annually expended in governing the islands (which would then be saved) be applied to the reclamation of arid lands in the West and of lands subject to overflow in the South. Thus we would bring under cultivation an enormous area within our own borders, which is now barren; we would be rid of an over-seas possession which is both expensive and dangerous; we would make a friend forever of Japan, and we would help both the Japanese and the Filipino."

Half of It to Bring the Castle Here—It Was the Scene of Puritans' Meetings.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—The famous fireplaces from Tattershall Castle, Lincolnshire, which is said to have been bought by W. R. Hearst, were to-day loaded into locomotive wagons for removal by road to London, whence, it is stated, they will be shipped to America direct.

The chimneypieces are described as resembling chunks of sandstone hewn from a quarry. They were lifted into carts under the castle walls by ropes lowered from an upper window. Their removal was watched by a number of indignant spectators, who freely expressed their disapprobation.

The price paid for the castle and the land is stated to be £7,000, ($35,000,) while the cost of taking down the castle and re-erecting it in America is estimated at another £7,000.

It is pointed out by The Times that Tattershall Castle possesses peculiar interest for Americans. The castle was the place of meeting for the promoters of the Puritan movement which culminated in the exodus of 1630 and the following years and the founding of the Massachusetts settlement. To Tattershall Castle, one of the seats of Lord Lincoln, came for conference John Winthrop from Groton, Roger Williams and John Cotton, the Puritan vicar of the Lincolnshire Boston, after which the American Boston was named. To Tattershall also Cotton used to retire as Lord Lincoln's guest when broken down in health under the heavy strain of his ministerial life at Boston Church.

Though Lord Lincoln himself did not go out to North America, two of his sisters did—Susan, who married John Humphrey, and Arabella, wife of Isaac Johnson. Thomas Dudley, Lord Lincoln's steward and confidential adviser, and Simon Bradstreet, who succeeded him in that office, were both, like Winthrop, future Governors of Massachusetts. They were associated with this movement, as was also Richard Bellingham, Recorder of Boston and afterward Governor. Bellingham was drawn by Hawthorne in "The Scarlet Letter." William Coddington of Alford and of Rhode Island, James Thomas Leverett, Alderman of Boston, and Atherton Hough, Mayor of that town in 1628, resigned office at the same time and emigrated to America.

SUGAR TRUST TRIALS.

Cases of Thomas, Parsons, and Others Set for the November Term.

The trial of Washington B. Thomas, President of the American Sugar Refining Company; John B. Parsons, and the other defendants indicted for the closing of the Philadelphia Refinery of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company, has been set for the November term of the Criminal Branch of the United States Circuit Court. Charles H. Senft, a former Vice President of the American Sugar Refining Company, who was named in the indictment, died on Aug. 23 at his country home, the Beeches, Whitestone, L. I.

The alleged conspiracy in restraint of trade was called to the attention of the Government by a suit for treble damages under the Sherman anti-trust law by the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company against the American Sugar Refining Company. This was withdrawn after a settlement had been made, but the Government refused to permit the matter to be dropped there and took action on its own account.

William S. Rodie's Will Filed.

The will of William S. Rodie, manager of the Presidential campaign of Alton B. Parker in 1904, who died several weeks ago, was filed for probate yesterday in the Surrogates' office. The petition accompanying the document says the estate is valued at more than $10,000. Mr. Rodie bequeaths to his widow the house and lots owned by him at South Orange, N. J., for her lifetime, together with the contents. His stock in the North River Coal Company is left in trust to his executors and trustees, for his mother; sister-in-law, Anna B. Maine, and his children. The residue is left to the widow.

NEW STEEL RAIL ORDERS.

Carnegie Mills Working to About 74 Per Cent. of Capacity.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Sept. 25.—Industrial conditions in the Pittsburgh district are growing better daily. It is stated that there are at present about 74 per cent. of the Carnegie mills in operation, and that the independents are doing as well, if not better. The American Tin Plate Company Mills at Sharon and South Sharon are working steadily and new orders are being received.

Two large contracts were awarded the Carnegie Steel Company to-day for the rolling of standard steel rails. The first order was for the rolling of 6,500 tons of standard rails for the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. The rails are to be used in improvement work to be done early in the Spring, and it is said the order will shortly be followed by an even larger one if the extensive improvement scheduled, and now being worked out by the engineering force of the railroad, is carried out.

The second contract calls for 4,500 tons of rails. This order came from the Buckhannon & Maine Railroad, and the rails are to be delivered as quickly as possible. A number of inquiries for rails were also received this morning by the Carnegie Steel Company, but the names of the companies are not given out.

STRIKE IS CALLED ON ILLINOIS CENTRAL

Clerks and Other Employes Go Out in Memphis, Paducah, and Mississippi Districts.

PREDICT IT WILL BE GENERAL

Assistant General Manager Says: "So Far as I Know, There Is Nothing for Us to Negotiate About."

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 25.—Five hundred railway clerks and other employes went on strike in the local offices of the Illinois Central Railroad here to-day. The strike order includes machinists, boilermakers, and other shop employes.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 25.—Between six and seven hundred railway clerks employed by the Illinois Central and Yazoo and Mississippi Valley railroads walked out shortly after noon to-day. It is said the strike resulted from the failure of the railroad officials to reopen negotiations with the clerks' organization.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—T. J. Foley, Assistant General Manager of the Illinois Central Railroad, said to-day that the railroad had had no requests from the clerks for any negotiations to settle union disagreements.

"The officials of the Illinois Central know nothing of any negotiations, or any grievances that the clerks may have," he said. "There are much fewer than 600 men employed as clerks in and around New Orleans, where, I have heard, a few men have quitted work. So far as I know, there is nothing for us to negotiate about with the men."

Special to The New York Times.

PADUCAH, Ky., Sept. 25.—Folloging the strike of sixty clerks at the Illinois Central shops, freight house, and in the yards here this afternoon at 3 o'clock, a great mass meeting of the Illinois Central shop employes was held to-night at Central Labor Hall, at which a number of addresses were delivered. It was reported at the meeting that the clerks were out all over the system and that the laborers and machinists at Memphis, Tenn., had struck in addition.

The situation at Paducah is tense and there was great excitement at the meeting. That a general strike at the Paducah shops will follow to-morrow or Wednesday is the opinion of local labor leaders, and that it will extend over the entire system is regarded as probable. The railway clerks employed here say that their action is in sympathy with that of the striking clerks at East St. Louis and Mounds, Ill.

OFFICIALS MINIMIZE STRIKE.

General Manager of Illinois Central Says It Is of Local Origin.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Illinois Central officials here to-night denied that there was fear of a general strike of Federated Shop Employes all along the line, or that Chicago would be affected by the walk-out to-day of shopmen and clerks in the South. None of the men in the Burnside shops struck, and the unionists seemed to be surprised to hear of the walk-out, declaring that strike talk around Chicago had about died out.

While President C. H. Markham said that the strike was called suddenly and was considered of small consequence, he was non-committal when asked whether the men in Chicago might not join the walkout.

"I guess this is just a sort of aftermath of the federated shop employes' controversy," he said. "I understand that a few clerks walked out at New Orleans, Jackson, and Memphis, and that at Memphis the shopmen went out in sympathy. That is the only place, however, where shopmen struck. None of the men in Chicago went out, and those in the South gave no ultimatum."

When asked if he were positive that the men in Chicago were not likely to take similar action, he laughingly replied: "You never can tell what they are going to do."

Assistant Manager T. J. Foley was more emphatic in his statements that the strike was of little consequence.

"We heard this morning that there was some trouble among the clerks down there," he said, "because of the refusal of the road to recognize a clerks' union recently organized in New Orleans. The trouble is not far-reaching, and as far as I can see has no connection with the general demands made recently by the federated shop employes. There are not altogether 200 shop employes at Memphis and a few of these went out, I understand, in sympathy with the clerks. The trouble seems to have started in New Orleans among the clerks, and I guess the rest is just a sympathetic strike."

CUSTOM TAILORS STRIKE.

About 8,000 Go Out To-day for More Pay and Less Work.

By a referendum vote the Custom Tailors Union decided yesterday to call a strike at 3 P. M. to-day against all employers who have not signed the new agreement, submitted to them. The old agreement expired on Sept. 15, and the employers had until yesterday to sign the new one, which calls for a 53-hour working week, and better pay.

Only 75 out of 600 employers had agreed up to last evening to sign the agreement, and while more may sign at the last moment, the union leaders believed the strike would involve about 8,000 workers. The strike order, which was issued yesterday afternoon, was printed in Yiddish, English, and Italian.

The Strike Committee also issued a call to non-union workers to join the strike.

The downtown strikers in Manhattan will meet in Casino Hall, 85 East Fourth Street and the uptown strikers at 145 East 103d Street. The strikers in Brooklyn will meet at Liberty Hall, 143 McKibbin Street.

For some time the unions have been preparing for a strike of all garment workers in all the large cities of the country. It is the intention to have this National strike next Summer.

Edison Workmen Out on Strike.

A change from a time rate to a piece rate for unskilled workmen in the Edison Storage Battery plant at West Orange caused yesterday 200 men to walk out on strike. They concluded it amounted to a cut of about 30 per cent. The Superintendent of the factory, however, says he failed to make clear to the men that they would receive a guarantee of 25 per cent. over the old time rate, provided they turned out a given amount. Notices have been posted to that effect, and it is expected the men will be back at work to-morrow.

THUGS HOLD UP SALOON.

Six Armed Men Get All the Cash in a Williamsburg Place.

Four white men and two negroes entered the saloon of Abraham Harawitz at 233 Moore Street, Williamsburg, late last night and told him to hand over all the money in the cash drawer. Three of the men pointed pistols at Harawitz's head and the gave them $75, all that he had on hand. Then with a parting injunction that he keep quiet the men went away.

EXPORTERS PREPARE A WORLD CAMPAIGN

Cargoes of Samples to be Sent From Port to Port for Exhibition or Sale.

TWO SHIPS WILL GO OUT

Manufacturers' Convention in the Astor Told That Russian Corruption Hampers Our Trade There.

The second annual convention of the American Manufacturers' Export Association, which comprises in its membership about 300 of the leading exporters of the country, began yesterday in the Hotel Astor. The association will discuss to-day a world-wide campaign for the extension of American commerce by facilitating the means of transportation, adjusting tariffs, and eliminating other evils now existing in the field.

In connection with the convention and indorsed by the association an exposition is being held at the Hotel Astor by the United States Marine Association, which plans to send out next Spring two vessels of its own of 7,000 and 10,000 tons, laden with samples of American manufactures, for exhibition and sale in all the chief ports of Central and South America.

The first ship, in charge of J. J. Finnell, President of the association, and representatives of many firms, will make a six months' trip from New York to San Francisco by way of the Strait of Magellan, stopping at each large port for three or four days, to introduce, exhibit, and sell American manufactures. The second ship will leave San Francisco late for the Orient.

At the session of the convention yesterday, W. B. Campbell of the Perkins-Campbell Company, presided. A. H. Baldwin, Chief of the Bureau of Manufactures of the Department of Commerce and Labor, told the delegates what the Government is doing to help them in their export work, by means of its Consular reports of trade conditions abroad, the reports of its special commercial agents—"trade scouts" who travel over the world for American interests—and the distribution of trade reports to more than 18,000 manufacturers daily. He said there is a need of more such Consular and commercial investigators.

The same need was urged by A. J. Wolfe, manager of The Russian-American Messenger, a paper devoted to fostering trade between Russia and this country, who declared that owing to the present dependence of American manufacturers on German agents in Russia, they were being discriminated against in favor of German competitors. Russian customs officials, he said, well bribed by German and British manufacturers, use their wide discretionary powers in interpreting tariff regulations invariably against American goods and allowing the very same goods of foreign competitors to enter under a different classification with lower duty.

The effect of drawback of duties on American export trade was explained by Leonard Hall Jerome, who declared that because of this refunding of duty paid on imported raw material put into manufactures here and later exported, American manufacturers are able not only to undersell foreign competitors abroad, but very frequently to sell goods cheaper in foreign countries than in the United States.

William Harris Douglas, for forty years in the export and commission business, urged the restoration of an American merchant marine. He declared that in addition to freight charges, 30 per cent. of American trade is being lost through the failure to carry American goods in American ships. The hands of all foreign nations, he said, are against American manufacturers. He condemned the practice of substitution of orders and of trading on prices, charged against commission merchants by the manufacturers, but added that it is the manufacturers themselves who ask commission merchants to substitute their goods for those of other manufacturers.

Irving T. Bush, President of the Bush Terminal Company, extended to the manufacturers an invitation to visit to-morrow morning the docks and terminals of his company. The delegates accepted his invitation, and will leave Manhattan in a special steamer from the foot of West Forty-second Street to-morrow morning at 9:30 o'clock.

From Edward A. Keith of the George B. Keith Company, who recently returned from a trip around the world, the convention delegates heard a description of the progress American manufactures were making in various parts of the world, and suggestions concerning the reliability of different nationalities as concerns credit payments, which, in countries of the Near and Far East, did not seem, according to his reports, to stand very high.

The convention will end with a dinner this evening, at which the speakers will be Charles Nagel, Secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor; Señor Don Crespo y Martinez, Mexican Ambassador to the United States; Congressman William C. Redfield, John Ball Osborne, Chief of the Bureau of Foreign Relations in the Department of State; John Candler Cobb, President of the National Tariff Commission Association; Robert P. Skinner, American Consul General in Hamburg, and Prof. John L. Stewart, head of the Department of Business Administration in Lehigh University.

ORIENTAL RUGS at lower prices than they are now to be bought for in the wholesale market

This is a sale to bring Oriental Rugs within the reach of people who might not otherwise think of buying them.

Strange as it may seem, there are thousands and thousands of people who do not really know what high-grade Oriental Rugs look like. When they see them—and when the price is not prohibitive—they buy. It is difficult to resist buying.

The grandeur of coloring in the perfect Oriental Rug has taxed the descriptive powers of the most graphic masters of language.

Even great painters have failed in attempting to reproduce the slumberous fires and the subtle atmosphere of these masterpieces of the weaver's art. Almost diabolical is the ingenuity with which one delicate tint is made to merge harmoniously into another, producing a total scheme which transcends any mental conception, and before which one stands awed and exalted.

It is really indescribable. The Oriental "effect" in domestic rugs, so far from doing justice to the theme, "illustrates" its model as a street organ "represents" grand opera.

Of course, there are failures. The artistic Oriental mind sometimes lapses. It was as much to guard against ineffective or only partially effective designs being foisted upon us as to cut out the importer's usual profit that we decided to import our own rugs. So whatever happens to the failures—and, of course, they find their way into the retail market (usually for sale purposes)—they do not come to Macy's.

Every rug offered at reduced prices this week is from our regular stock.

An idea of the value (if it is possible to judge without seeing the Rugs) will be formed from the fact that in some cases the saving is as much as $300! It is people who understand Oriental Rugs best who will best appreciate these values.

The space, that our regular business and the output of our factories demands for the proper display of the absolutely new designs of Sterling, Huntington and Mendelssohn Pianos and Playerpianos compels us to make prices far lower than necessary in the ordinary course of business. We cannot too forcefully emphasize the fact that the

Prices Are the Very Lowest
Ever Given for Pianos of Quality

With a guarantee that covers your purchase to the fullest extent and gives the same privileges you could get if buying an absolutely new piano.

There are many magnificent sample pianos from our factories, handsome designs and new, but not included in this year's catalogue. Studio-used, artist-used, concert-used, returned rentals and pianos taken in part payment for the famous Sterling Pianos and Playerpianos. Many of these pianos have only been used a very short time and would not have been exchanged except for the additional advantages gained by having a piano that can be played either by hand or by means of the music roll. Every piano has been put in the very best order by us and will be taken back without any argument if for any cause it proves unsatisfactory.

Our Business Is Exclusively Devoted to Manufacturing and Selling Trustworthy Pianos

Our prestige in the piano and financial world is the outcome of over half a century of service to the public; a service that gives a confidence in us that absolutely protects you in every way. In a business of our proportions it cannot be unusual to sometimes find it necessary to quickly move certain instruments. The quickest way is extraordinary low prices, and hence this sale.

Monthly Payment Plan, Simple, Easy, Reasonable

If you do not wish to pay cash, you may purchase on our liberal monthly-payment plan, which is as fair to the buyer as to the seller. To those to whom we extend credit we give a purchase agreement (not a rental agreement). Under our plan of buying a piano on monthly payments, you become an actual owner of the piano to the full extent of your payments. We do not ask you to sign a note or mortgage, nor do we investigate your private or business affairs. Any honest person can purchase a piano here by signing a simple agreement to pay a certain amount at our store each month, until the purchase price is paid.

COURT HOUSE SITES TO BE SHOWN PUBLIC

Conference Committee Decides to Have an Exhibition, Probably in the New Public Library.

A DOZEN PROPOSALS OPEN

One Attracting Most Attention Fits In as Part of a Plan for a Great Civic Centre.

An exhibition to determine the sites which have been suggested for the new County Court House is to be held, probably in November, in order that the Board of Estimate may receive the criticisms of the public on the various ideas put forward by private citizens. It is not unlikely that the exhibition will be held in the exhibition room of the new Public Library, but neither the place nor the date have yet been definitely settled.

The advisability of holding this exhibition was agreed upon at a meeting last night at the City Club of the sub-committee of the conference of societies which considered the Court House site during the early Summer. The sub-committee consisted of Job Hedges, Chairman; John De Witt Warner, Bert Hanson, and William H. Boring. The societies which took part in the conference were the Architectural League, the Bar Association, the New York County Lawyers' Association, the Civic Union, the City Club, the Municipal Art Society, the National Sculpture Society, the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, the Society for Improving the Condition of the Poor, the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society, the Parks and Playgrounds Association, the Merchants' Association, and the Fine Arts Federation.

The action of the sub-committee was taken in consequence of the practical certainty that in the next few days the Legislature will adopt the latest Stilwell bill. This provides that the Board of Estimate should have power to select a site for the Court House during the six months after the passage of the act, and if it fails to act, then the Court House Commission will have power, provided that it does not select any site in City Hall Park.

It is believed that it is certain that the Board of Estimate will select a site during the six months granted to it, and it is desired that it shall have the guidance of the most enlightened public opinion. Many sites have been put forward, some south of City Hall Park, and consequently, in the opinion of the committee, inadmissible.

The committee is guided by certain resolutions passed by the conference last Summer. These declare that the final responsibility for the selection of a site ought to rest with the Board of Estimate as the elected representatives of the people, and no legislation should be adopted that does more than spur them on. Secondly, it is recommended that the site should be to the north and near City Hall Park, and thirdly, it should be selected in such a way as not only to emphasize the administration of justice as the first essential of a city's greatness, but also to make a building fitting for the courts the focus of what should become the most dignified and beautiful civic centre in the world.

None of the committee would express last night any opinion as to which of the dozen or so proposals that have been received has seemed to them the best. One of them which has received a good deal of attention is for the placing of the County Court House immediately behind the new Municipal Building on what is known as the Duane Street site, stretching from Centre Street to Park Row.

At present part of this site is owned by the city and a considerable area in the process of building the loop subway has been denuded of buildings and excavated to a great depth. Few of the buildings that remain are of any great value, with the exception of one modern office and loft building. It is believed that the entire property could be condemned for a much less sum than any site of similar size anywhere in the neighborhood of the present Court House.

Moreover, it has been suggested in connection with this site that it may be worked into an impressive civic centre, which would redeem from squalor a peculiarly neglected area. It has been suggested that all the irregular buildings now running from the junction of Centre and Lafayette Streets behind the Hall of Records as far as the Tombs Prison should be removed and a fine park established in their place. Along its eastern side would be found convenient and comparatively inexpensive sites for the Federal courts and Post Office. It is an open secret that as soon as the city is prepared to act in the matter the representatives of New York in Congress will be ready to urge on the United States authorities that they should remove the present unsightly, inconvenient and insanitary Post Office and court building from the southern end of City Hall Park to another site.

In this way it is hoped that the City Hall Park would be restored to its former dimensions, that the Municipal Building would stand revealed in all its fine proportions, and that a new north and south thoroughfare would be provided. Elm Street, the present southern continuation of Lafayette Street, would be widened and that broad highway would be made really available for traffic from Astor Place to Chambers Street. Moreover, the chain of fine municipal, State, and Federal buildings, starting with the Hall of Records and running up the eastern side of Centre Street would stand in the midst of a succession of green spaces, beginning with City Hall Park, continuing with the park to be created, and stretching as far north as the end of Mulberry Bend Park. It is suggested that such a line of fresh air spaces close to the crowded wholesale business section, and the still more-congested tenement house district, would be of inestimable benefit to the city and would be surpassed by few urban park areas in the world.

CUBAN CHILDREN HELD UP.

Sent to Ellis Island While on Their Way to School in This Country.

Mariano Rocafort, Cuban Consul General in this city, has written to Secretary of State Manuel of Cuba asking that children under 16 years old coming to this country not accompanied by their parents obtain certificates of consent, attested before the American Consul in the town in which they reside.

This action follows the holding up of nine Cuban boys by an overzealous immigration Inspector. The case at one time threatened to attain international importance, but the Cuban Government was mollified by the prompt discharge of the lads.

Cuba sends each year more than a thousand boys to this country to school. This is encouraged by the Government of the island, for our institutions here are better than their own and the students learn to speak English. It remained for the immigration authorities to put the first check upon this. The story of the hold-up of the boys has just become public.

When the steamship Alleghany arrived here, about a week before the opening of the school season, she brought seven young Cuban boys. They were coming to schools in New York, Long Island, and Pennsylvania. Their ages ranged from 14 to 16 years and they were accompanied by Miss Alvarez, an agent of the Cuban schools. The immigration authorities do not permit the landing of children without parents, a regulation put into force to check the Italian and Syrian padrone system. Boarding Inspectors were instructed to use discretion in enforcing it, yet the Inspector ordered the seven boys to Ellis Island, though the Principals of some of the schools were at the pier to meet them. They protested against this action, as did a representative of the Cuban Consulate, but it was no use. The children were sent to the island.

As some were the sons of wealthy and influential Cubans, things began to happen. The immigration authorities openly regretted the action of the Inspector, but said that, having come to the island, they must remain there until their case was reached. Everything was done for their comfort, but it necessitated a visit to Washington by a representative of the Cuban Government before the lads were allowed to proceed to their schools.

Later two boys arriving in the Prinz Joachim were detained four days on the island before an official order was issued to the immigration Inspectors instructing them to use a liberal discretion and setting the children free.

The Cuban Consul said yesterday he knew the officials here were within the letter of the law, and to avoid further trouble he asked his Government to see that school children be properly certified.

MANHOLE COVERS GO SOARING

20 Are Blown High in Air When Gas Explodes in East Side Sewers.

Twenty explosions at intervals of a few seconds caused much excitement yesterday between Third and First Avenues, Forty-second and Forty-fourth Streets. The explosions were in the sewers, and each was followed by the hurling of a manhole cover into the air. Some of the big iron covers were thrown more than fifty feet up.

The first explosion occurred at Forty-fourth Street and Third Avenue at about 7:30 in the morning. A few seconds later there was another at Forty-third Street, and at short intervals the explosions followed, like a cannonade. Those in the street sought shelter. Only one person was injured, and he only slightly. The unfortunate was John Murray, a street car Inspector. He was standing at Forty-second Street and Third Avenue when a piece of a broken manhole cover hit his knee.

The police and officials of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity believe the explosions were due to sewer gas and gasoline vapor, the gasoline coming from Fifth Avenue garages. No damage was done by the explosions.

WALSH'S PAROLE HELD UP.

Banker Must Take His Turn with Other Applicants at Leavenworth.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Sept. 25.—R. V. Ladow, Chairman of the Board of Parole at the Federal Prison, arrived from Atlanta, Ga., to-day, and began to hold sessions of the board relative to the expected pardoning of John R. Walsh, a former banker and railroad builder of Chicago, and others.

It had been reported that the Chairman would bring a parole paper already approved and signed by Attorney General Wickersham for John R. Walsh, the Chicago banker, but Ladow denied this and insisted that Walsh would have to take his turn the same as other prisoners. As there are about fifty applicants ahead of Walsh, the banker will have to wait until these are all disposed of before he can appear to make his plea.

It is thought the board will be ready to take up Walsh's case Tuesday, and it is generally believed action in his case will be favorable.

SHOT PHYSICIAN DEAD BEFORE A BIG CROWD

Tragedy on a Virginia Court Day Caused by a Long-Cherished Grudge.

ASSASSIN INDICTED AT ONCE

Hubbard, Slayer of Dr. Pettit, Is Taken in Haste to Another County, for Fear of Lynching.

Special to The New York Times.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Sept. 25.—Nelson County, the scene of several terrible tragedies during the past decade, was stirred again this afternoon by the murder of Dr. James T. Pettit, a prominent physician of that county and a member of Gov. Mann's staff, by Benjamin Hubbard, who is also well connected in Virginia.

Hubbard, who is 50 years old, was immediately locked up, and has been removed from the jail at Lovingston, the authorities fearing mob violence. The cause of the shooting has not been ascertained, as Hubbard has refused to make any statement, and no one can throw the slightest light upon it, excepting that the assassin is alleged to have threatened a year ago to shoot Dr. Pettit.

The regular Grand Jury of the Circuit Court had been discharged before the murder, but Judge Gordon immediately issued an order for a special Grand Jury, and in less than three hours from the time of the shooting Hubbard had been indicted for murder, bail being refused him. The case was set for trial on Oct. 6, the present term being prolonged for the purpose.

The murder took place in front of the Virginia Hotel, in full view of hundreds of country folk who had congregated there, it being court day. Dr. Pettit was settling an account with a client, when Hubbard approached from behind and shot him in the head. Hubbard then walked up to and almost over his victim an dfired five more shots from a .38-calibre automatic gun. Five of the six shots took effect in the head. Any one of them would have produced death.

The six shots were fired so quickly that no one in the crowd could stop Hubbard, but when he had finished shooting a farmer came up and pinned his arms behind him and took the weapon from him. Then a crowd surged around him and the excitement was intense. Cooler heads realized that there was imminent danger of mob violence, and Hubbard was rushed to the jail, only a few paces away. The county authorities at once placed a strong guard of special deputies around the jail, but there was no demonstration after that.

Dr. Pettit was 45 years old, and had been practicing ten miles from Lovingston, only a short distance from the Hubbard plantation, for years. His practice was large and he was immensely popular. It was for this reason that Hubbard has been hurried out of the county.

Hubbard is the son of Col. James L. Hubbard, a prominent citizen and large land owner. He is a nephew of R. T. Hubbard of Buckingham County and a cousin of Edmund Hubbard, Commonwealth's Attorney of that county.

The assassin was brought here at 10 o'clock to-night by two Deputies and lodged in jail. He refused point blank to make a statement. He appeared to be greatly agitated. It is said by persons who were in Lovingston to-day that the trouble grew out of a grudge which Hubbard had against Dr. Pettit, who was called in to attend Hubbard's wife eighteen months ago by Hubbard's father against the prisoner's desire. He is alleged to have declared then that he would kill Pettit, and left home this morning, it is alleged, vowing that he would kill him if he was at Lovingston during the day.

SEEK TRACE OF GOODNOW.

Missing from Wayne County Seven Years, Reward Is Now Offered.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, Sept. 25.—Chief of Police James Crowley of Newport received a letter to-day from George D. Peck, special guardian for his son, at Canandaigua, N. Y., asking the Chief to find Willis Goodnow, possibly called William A., or Willie, or Willis A. Goodnow, who disappeared more than seven years ago from North Rose, Wayne County, N. Y. He has a wife and son living at Sodus, Wayne County, N. Y.

If living, Goodnow is about 49 years old, and is wanted in connection with the distribution of his uncle's estate. A reward is offered for information of his whereabouts, if living, or of time and place of death. He is said to have been in Rochester, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, East Chicago, and St. Louis.

LEITER SUED FOR $300,000.

This Sum and $450,000 More Represent Notes Given to Hold Famous "Corner."

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—The famous wheat corner of June, 1898, in which Joseph Leiter lost $7,750,000, was recalled to-day when it became known that suits for the recovery of money on matured notes aggregating $750,000 held by his creditors are to be filed in the course of a few days. Attorneys for F. H. Peavey & Co. of Minneapolis, holding company of the Peavey Grain Company of Chicago, filed a suit against Mr. Leiter on Saturday for the recovery of $300,000, but were unable to obtain service.

A Deputy Sheriff heard that Mr. Leiter was about to leave the city suddenly on the Twentieth Century Limited last Saturday and hurried to the La Salle Street Station, where he boarded the train for New York. He was unable to find the millionaire, however, although at the Blackstone Hotel it was said that Mr. Leiter had settled his account and had left for New York on that train.

The $300,000 suit is based on notes given by Leiter for $198,000 for cash wheat stored in the Peavey elevators in Minneapolis. The notes were for four years. The statute of limitations for notes in Illinois being ten years from the date of maturity, the company was compelled to press suit at this time to prevent their being outlawed. The suit is filed by Elmer G. and Asa Adams, who represent other Leiter creditors and have other suits in preparation involving an additional $450,000.

According to the lawyers, Leiter has always promised to pay the notes, but has kept putting the creditors off until legal action became imperative.

BALLOT CONSPIRACY CHARGED

Court, on Grand Jury's Petition, Orders Primary Election Recount.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 25.—The investigation of charges of fraud at the recent primary election in this city, when candidates for Governor and a full State ticket were voted for, was resumed to-day by the Grand Jury. In a petition, which asked permission of the Criminal Court to recount the ballots cast in the Fourth Ward, the statement was made that testimony had been given that "Democratic organization sample ballots to the number of approximately 50,000 were distributed throughout the city; that these ballots constituted, so this jury believes, one of the steps in a gigantic conspiracy to nullify the will of the people as expressed at the polls."

The further statement was made that conditions presented to the jury "warrant the inference that organized gangs of repeaters operated with shameless publicity throughout the entire city, wherever the conditions would permit."

Following the issuance of a court order, the ballots in four precincts of the Fourth Ward were counted this afternoon and the count will be continued to-morrow. It is said that no discrepancies were discovered in the precincts counted.

State Senator Arthur Pue Gorman won the Democratic nomination for Governor in the primary election.

The Grand Jury, it was announced, will ask the court to-morrow to issue orders that none of the ballot boxes and ballots of the Mayoralty election of last Spring be destroyed. This is taken as an indication that an investigation of that election will also be made.

RUN WITHOUT FRANCHISES.

Commissioner Thompson Complains to Mayor About Electrical Companies.

Mayor Gaynor received a letter yesterday from Commissioner Thompson of the Water Department setting forth that nine fire alarm, district messenger, and stock quotation companies which have extensive wire systems running through the city streets, were doing business, so far as he could ascertain, without any franchise from the city. These companies are: American District Telegraph Company, Holmes Electric Protective Company, Stock Quotation Telegraph Company, Bankers' and Brokers' Messenger Company, Automatic Fire Alarm Company, Consolidated Fire Alarm Company, Manhattan Fire Alarm Company, National District Telegraph Company, and Special Fire Alarm Electrical Signal Company.

Commissioner Thompson also wrote that he had been investigating the authority of these companies to use the city's streets, and that, while his investigation had been limited, he had not been able, from the records available in his department, to find that the companies had any lawful right in the streets. Some of the wires of these companies are in the Subway under the control of the Empire City Subway Company, and others are overhead. The Mayor directed that the matter be brought before the Board of Estimate on Thursday for investigation.

Four Fever Cases in African Ship.

Four of the crew of the steamship Chicago City, which arrived four days ago from the west coast of Africa, were removed yesterday to New York Hospital. Two had been ill for ten days, and the development of fever in all cases led the ship's surgeon to recommend their removal. The hospital surgeons would make no definite diagnosis, but thought they had nothing more serious than malaria or at most typhoid. A Health Department Inspector took specimens of blood for examination. Their report will be ready this morning.

RICH BROKER KILLED BY WIFE IN DENVER

Matrimonial Troubles of C. A. Patterson of Chicago Culminate in Quarrel at Western Sanitarium.

CHICAGO CLOTHIER INVOLVED

Patterson Had Sued Emil W. Strouss for $25,000 for Alienating Mrs. Patterson's Affections.

DENVER, Col., Sept. 25.—Charles A. Patterson, formerly a wealthy broker of Chicago, was shot and killed to-day by his wife, Mrs. Gertrude Patterson. Threatened divorce suits and other marital troubles are given as the cause. The shooting took place in Montclair, a suburb. Two shots were fired, both striking Patterson in the back. Mrs. Patterson, then thrust the revolver under her husband's body and informed bystanders that her husband had shot himself. She later confessed to the police.

Months of matrimonial disagreement culminated in Mrs. Patterson filing suit for divorce in the Denver courts on Sept. 1, 1911, charging cruelty. Patterson brought suit in Chicago last week against Emil W. Strouss, a wealthy clothing manufacturer of that city, asking $25,000 damages for alienation of his wife's affections. Patterson charged that four months after his marriage on Oct. 1, 1908, Strouss and Mrs. Patterson spent several months traveling in Europe.

Seven months ago, accompanied by his wife, Patterson came to Denver on account of his health. The couple lived together until last Friday, when Patterson entered a sanitarium for consumptives. Mrs. Patterson called at the sanitarium to-day and the couple left for a walk. That the pair engaged in a heated argument just before the shooting is declared by a person who is said to have watched them.

Patterson's mother is Principal of one of Chicago's public schools, and a brother, Harry S. Patterson, is one of counsel for the International Harvester Company. Mrs. Patterson, it is said, comes from a prominent St. Louis family.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Suit, charging Emil Strouss with having alienated the affections of Mrs. Patterson and asking $25,000, was filed here last Friday by Charles A. Patterson, who was shot and killed by his wife near Denver to-day.

According to the bill of complaint, the Pattersons were married at Carmel-by-the-sea, California, Oct. 1, 1908. Four months later, Patterson alleged, his wife went to Europe with Strouss. They were in Paris for some time, he averred. Patterson also charged that his wife was with Strouss in St. Louis in May, 1910.

Strouss is President of a wholesale clothing company, and is rated as very wealthy. When told Mrs. Patterson had killed her husband, he denied any knowledge of the couple.

J. J. STORROW GIVES BAIL.

Shoe Machinery Man Says He Did Not Violate the Law.

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—James J. Storrow, a heavy stockholder in the United Shoe Machinery Company, and a former Director, who was indicted with five other officials by the Federal Grand Jury last week, furnished $10,000 bail in the United States Circuit Court to-day.

Mr. Storrow made the following statement:

"It was a complete surprise to me to learn on my arrival at the steamship pier in New York on Saturday that I had been indicted by the Government in the Shoe Machinery case. I resigned from the company nearly two years ago, and for a considerable period before that had not been active in the company's affairs. I certainly never had the slightest idea or intention of violating the Sherman law, and, so far as I know, neither I nor any of the officers or Directors of the company committed any violations of the law during the time I was conversant with its affairs."

McNamara Lawyer Must Testify.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 25.—Judge Bordwell late to-day ordered John R. Harrington, one of the attorneys in the McNamara defense, to answer the questions put to him by the Grand Jury. Immediately after the ruling Clarence Darrow, chief counsel for the McNamaras, announced that the court's decision furnished ground for a motion for change of venue.

STATE LIBRARIANS HERE.

Twenty-first Annual Conference to be Held This Week.

Librarians of New York State opened their twenty-first annual conference last night with a reception at the Park Avenue Hotel. This is the first time the conference has met in this city. The meeting was set for New York to give the librarians of the State an opportunity to inspect the new library opened last May in this city. In addition to this, it was pointed out that this city has all told forty-seven libraries of a public character, and that nowhere in this country could such opportunities for the study of libraries be found as this city affords.

All the heads of the large libraries as well as more than 200 of their assistants will attend the conference. The Universities of Yale, Princeton, and Columbia are represented. Addresses will be made by the President of the National Library Association and by the best-known librarians and bibliographers of the country.

Last night's reception was given to the visiting librarians by the New York Library Club. E. H. Virgin, librarian of the Union Theological Seminary and President of the club, made the welcoming address. Meetings for the rest of the week will be held at the New York Public Library, City College, New York, and Columbia Universities, and Brooklyn Institute Museum. That the week will not be all work was shown by the liberal supply of tickets to the Hippodrome in the Secretary's office last night, and there was talk of a trip to Coney Island on Friday.

Mayor Gaynor will welcome the delegates this morning at the Engineering Societies Buildings in West Thirty-ninth Street.

Mashed Potato Affront Was Too Much

For other reasons also, but largely because he threw a dish of mashed potatoes in her face, and that, too, in the presence of guests, Mrs. May Weinberg wants a judicial separation from Joseph Weinberg, who has a glazing business which, his wife says, nets him $5,000 a year. The couple have been living apart for some time, but Mrs. Weinberg alleges that Joseph had not supported her properly, and she has taken the matter into the Supreme Court.

HOMESICK FOR BROOKLYN.

Two Youngsters Travel Back from Washington on Funds.

Fourteen-year-old Robert and thirteen-year-old Nathan Brown, sons of Max Brown, a grocer, who moved his family from Brooklyn to Washington eight years ago, recently decided they wanted to get back. So, three days ago, Robert took $14 from his father's cash drawer, and with it the two boys journeyed to Baltimore. They spent the night there, seeing the sights until they were too tired to see any more. The next day they journeyed on to Philadelphia, and looked for sights there until they, too, fell asleep—disappointed. Then they came on to this city, and, having no money left, drifted to the Newsboy's Lodging House in New Chambers Street, where, after a good meal, they thawed out and of their own accord told their story to Supt. J. M. Fisher. They were taken to the Children's Society until their parents can be communicated with.

Another boy, 14-year-old James Carr of 21 Comet Street, Salem, decided that he would make his fortune if he came to New York. He took free passage here on a freight car and started to make his fortune by selling papers. He was on a fair way toward making it, he says, when the description of him sent out by the Salem police reached the Newsboy's Lodging House, and he was sent to the Children's Society. He'll return to Salem today to help his father, James, Sr., make shoes.

Later in the evening Detectives Slevin and Rafter of the Charles Street Station arrested two more runaway boys at the corner of Charles and Greenwich Streets. The boys, who answered a description sent out by the Boston police, said they were William Foley of 8 Pope Street, East Boston, and Francis Henry of 19 Chancher Street, East Boston, each 14 years old. They said they left Boston a week ago to see New York. Their money gave out when they were half way here, and they completed the trip on freight cars. Last night, penniless and ragged, they decided that the world didn't look half so pleasant in New York as in Boston, and said they'd be glad to get back to their parents and their beans.

Columbus Park Now.

Mayor Gaynor signed yesterday the resolution of Alderman White, which has already passed the Board of Aldermen, renaming Mulberry Bend Park Columbus Park. On Oct. 12, Columbus Day, the Mayor will officially attend and speak at the renaming celebration.

FEEL RIGHT
When You Feed Right.

You know one always feels "very fit" when the head and nerves swing along peacefully and with that certain sense of power that is unmistakable.

But when overwork or anxiety breaks down the soft gray matter in the brain and nerve cells (anxiety will do it quicker than overwork) faster than the food you have been using replaces it, then to save yourself from that horror of darkness, nervous prostration, you must change food and take on some sure rebuilder.

That's the mission of Grape-Nuts, made of the selected parts of wheat and barley containing the natural Phosphate of Potash which combines with Albumen in the human body and makes the soft gray filling of the brain and nerve centers.

Another thing to be considered is that Grape-Nuts is "proceed" in making and the starchy parts converted into a form of sugar, exactly as the process of digestion in the body. So Grape-Nuts has really passed the first act of digestion and therefore the food is quickly assimilated in the most perfect manner by babe or athlete.

FLAGG, FREE, SAYS HE'S PERSECUTED

Declares He's the Victim of a Conspiracy and Vows He'll Make Disclosures.

MORGAN BAILED OUT, TOO

Postal Inspectors Search in Vain for His Girl Stenographer, Who Promised to Surrender.

Jared Flagg, head of the brokerage firm in the Tilden Building, which was raided by Federal officials last Saturday, and five of his associates, including former United States Treasurer Morgan, were bailed out of the Tombs yesterday. Two of the prisoners, F. Tennyson Neely, said to be a promoter for the Flagg concern, and Henry A. Jackson, a broker, for whom Flagg expressed great concern, remained in the Tombs in default of bail.

A ninth man for whom a warrant had been issued, Elbridge C. Sewall, whose name appeared on the firm's literature as Treasurer of the concern, but who later told Commissioner Gilchrist that he was its cashier, was arrested in the Pennsylvania Station in the afternoon. He came hurrying into the station just five minutes after the 3:52 train for Quogue, L. I., his home, had left the station. Post Office Inspectors Kincaid and McQuillan arrested him and took him to the Federal Building. On the way he telephoned to his wife. In default of $10,000 bail he was taken to the Tombs.

Sewall was in the habit of going to Flagg's offices every Friday to sign the weekly checks and was not in the Tilden Building when the raid was made on Saturday.

The most exciting chase of the day, however, was after a tenth person for whom a warrant had been obtained. Post Office Inspectors admitted that this was Miss Madeline Russe of White Plains, said to be Flagg's private secretary. Inspector Kincaid said he had been in telephonic communication with Miss Russe on Sunday and that she suggested giving herself up voluntarily yesterday morning. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Russe, the Inspector said, had promised this, but when a Deputy Marshal appeared at the Russe home early in the morning they found that the nineteen-year-old secretary was not there. All day the search was continued without success.

Just what Miss Russe's duties in the Flagg concern were is not certain. According to Inspector Kincaid, she can tell more about the business than any one else. Flagg, however, when seen at the restaurant where he used to give his weekly dinners to his "prospectives," denied that Miss Russe was an important person in his business affairs and said she had been harried by the Federal officials, who obtained information from her under duress.

Girl Gave Stock Orders.

"Miss Russe is not my private secretary," he said. "She was employed as a ten-dollar-a-week telephone clerk. At her side she had a list of thirty leading stocks on both Exchanges, and had orders to instruct my fourteen brokers to buy when any stock dropped a point or unload when the stock went up a single point.

"To-morrow," he continued, "my attorneys will begin drawing up papers in a conspiracy suit, which will involve eight men who instigated this raid on me. Among the papers seized by the Federal authorities are seven affidavits which show this conspiracy without doubt."

Inspector Kincaid admitted that the seven affidavits were in the iron chest found in Flagg's offices and now held by the postal authorities, along with a dozen bags of literature also found there. He said he could not show them, but that United States District Attorney Wise might do so. The District Attorney would not do so, however, and it is expected that Flagg will make them public to-day.

One of the affidavits, according to Flagg, is that of the Russe girl, who after her alleged statements to the postal authorities concerning Flagg's business affairs is said to have run crying to Flagg and told him everything. This was several weeks before the raid was made, Flagg said, and he immediately asked the girl to make affidavit to everything that had happened.

Another of the seven affidavits, according to Flagg, the minute after it is published, will force a prominent member of the Consolidated Exchange to resign. Flagg said that he would mail copies of some of the affidavits to members of both the New York and Consolidated Stock Exchanges.

"Every transaction I ever made is shown on my books," said Flagg, "and I defy any one to prove that anything that was not bona fide was ever done in my offices. The Government charges that I did not have enough transactions to gain the amount of money I have paid to my clients. Let them prove that and I will give $100,000 to any charity they care to name.

"Any one can make money by being satisfied with one point gain. For example, look up the fluctuations in Steel during the twelve months closed Saturday. You will find that the highest point reached was 95 and the lowest 60—a fluctuation of 35 points. On the rises and falls in Steel alone during the last year I have turned 517 points for my clients. Any one can win if they don't tie up all their capital, so that they don't have to sell if they don't want to, and are satisfied with a ten-dollar bill for $1,000 invested on one transaction.

A Plot, Says Flagg.

"I have known of this investigation of my affairs for two months, and I know what I am talking about when I say that it was prompted by my refusal to transfer my business from one chain of brokers to another."

District Attorney Wise would not say much about the case, but appeared prepared to rush it as soon as all the arrests are made. Postmaster General Hitchcock dropped in to see the District Attorney and to commend him on his action.

"The case is one of the most important that the Post Office Department has handled for years," Mr. Hitchcock said. "I want to express my gratification to the Inspectors here on the manner in which they have handled it."

"I want to say," declared District Attorney Wise, "that I personally went over all the evidence in this case before I would consent to the issuance of warrants. We have a perfect case. In all similar prosecutions that we have undertaken we have transferred the get-rich-quick gentlemen from New York to the Federal Prison in Atlanta."

At the District Attorney's office it was said late in the afternoon that the warrant for the eleventh person wanted in connection with the charge of fraud by use of the mails had been canceled.

Alvin M. Higgins, a lawyer, of 200 Broadway, who is said to have been legal adviser for Flagg, was the first of the prisoners to be released, the Illinois Surety Company furnishing the $10,000 bond.

Flagg, who was held in $25,000 bail, produced his brother, Ernest Flagg, architect of the Singer Building, as bondsman. The brother gave property at 109 and 111 East Fortieth Street, valued at $250,000, as security.

Burton S. Castels, a cotton broker, furnished $2,500 bail for Joshua Brown, alleged to have been one of the "cappers" for Flagg. Flagg then qualified as bondsman for Edward L. Schiller, his confidential $50-a-week clerk, held in $5,000 bail.

It was not until late in the afternoon that Daniel N. Morgan, former United States Treasurer, was seen in the office of Commissioner Gilchrist. He was bailed out by the Illinois Surety Company.

"Were you the Treasurer of Flagg's concern?" he was asked.

"I was not," he replied.

To Inspector Kincaid, however, Morgan said that he had all the time felt assured that Flagg was running a legitimate business in a legitimate way. He said that he believed in Flagg to such an extent that he advised his relatives and friends to invest money in the concern.

"But I will be willing to shift my point of view," he said to Inspector Kincaid, "if it can be shown that Flagg's business was as crooked as you say it is."

The National Surety Company furnished bail of $2,500 for the Rev. Mr. Schock, the Plainfield pastor. According to Flagg, Schock was his private secretary, opening all the firm's letters and distributing them to the various stenographers.

One of the things found in Flagg's offices and held by the Post Office officials is a booklet written by Flagg, bearing the title "How to Take Money Out of Wall Street," in which Flagg asserts that "it is on the rock bottom of mathematical certainty that my system for taking money out of Wall Street is founded." The booklet is filled with tables showing the greatest decline and greatest advance in various railroad stocks. A section headed "Flagg's Philosophical Wall Street Directory" says that an account is a "monthly reminder of what an ass you have made of yourself."

Flagg's "philosophical" definition of a "bucket shop" is "a place where you can bet $5 or $5,000 on any stock." He says further: "You can bet that it will go up or you can bet that it will go down. It is immaterial to the proprietor. You may do your own guessing. He will take the money. If you win, sometimes you will get your money back, and sometimes you won't."

It was learned that some of Flagg's customers had sought counsel, and Inspector Kincaid said that action to tie up the thousands in deposits which Flagg is known to have in various banks of the city will begin soon.

OFFENSIVE HAT CHECKING.

Suit of Concessioner at College Inn Discloses Significant Facts.

More light was thrown yesterday on the mysterious ways of an offensive business when Robert P. Murphy, manager of the Albany Hotel, filed his answer in the Supreme Court to the suit for an injunction restraining him from ejecting George Abrams, who has the hat-checking concession in the College Inn.

Mr. Murphy explained that he had had frequent complaints from patrons of the restaurant concerning the manner in which the hat boys followed them about, apparently only seeking an opportunity to snatch a hat or coat and rush with it to the checking room. With his answer Mr. Murphy filed several affidavits from patrons of the restaurant in support of this contention.

Cameron Spear, who lives in the hotel, related how he had left his hat on a chair while he went to answer a telephone call, and how he had returned to find the hat gone. He hunted around the restaurant before he discovered that it had been checked, and in this search he lost, he says, much valuable time.

Walter A. Wells said that he had been bothered so much by the hat boys that he had frequently complained to the hotel management, and finally had laid down the ultimatum that he would never again enter the restaurant until the tactics of the hat boys were changed.

John J. Wohltman of 339 Ocean Parkway, Brooklyn, said that he had never been so bothered in any other restaurant and that he frequently had complained to Abrams of the conduct of his hat boys. Charles E. Walker said that his refusal to check his hat occasioned disagreeable comments, only partly concealed, on the part of the disappointed hat boys, and that the incident hurt his feelings so much that he kept away from the College Inn for a year.

Abrams contends that the hotel management wants to get rid of him so that it may let the privilege at an advanced price. He says he pays $1,500 a year for the concession and that the man who would succeed him has offered $6,000 for three years.

GAS CO. DENIES WAGE CUT.

Consolidated Says All Employes Are Getting the Usual Pay.

Wages of employes of gas companies have not been reduced since the eighty-cent gas bill has been in effect, according to a statement made yesterday by the Consolidated Gas Company. In denying the statement of American Federation of Labor agents in yesterday's papers regarding the gas workers' reduced wages a representative of the gas company said:

"On May 1, 1906, a general increase of 10 per cent. was made in the wages of all Consolidated Gas Company employes who were receiving $2,000 or less. This increase was made voluntarily by the company, and no decrease has since been made. The eighty-cent gas law went into effect on Dec. 1, 1906, seven months after the increase in wages."

KITCHEN ENGINEERS TO AID WOMANKIND

Wives at the Domestic Science Show Hear About the Labor-Saving Hope.

MUST IMITATE BUSINESS MEN

Average Servant's Stay in a Household Is Now Two Weeks—Housework, Minus Dirt and Fatigue.

There were groans at the Congress of the Pure Food and Domestic Science Show in the Madison Square Garden Concert Hall yesterday afternoon, when one of the speakers, Mrs. F. A. Pattison of New Jersey told the women that the average time which the servant of to-day spends in one household is just two weeks.

That made the servant problem seem worse than it is to the women listeners, but Mrs. Pattison says that the women have degraded household labor and those who perform it, so that the only thing now is to get rid of the present serving class. They are getting out as fast as they can, but every woman should help, and they will get as near heaven in the home as possible when they try out new methods and machinery.

It is labor-saving household machinery that Mrs. Pattison advocates. She is an ex-President of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs, and over there they have been making experiments which show that housework can be done without dirt or fatigue. "It means the success of the first women engineers," Mrs. Pattison said. "Women have never been interested in engineering, because it had nothing to do with the household, but now that machinery has been brought into it, domestic engineers must be developed. They will develop peace of soul and domestic independence."

A big fireless cooker with electric attachments was dragged to the front of the stage for the women to look at. Mrs. Pattison, who is pretty and wore a smart gown and hat, showed the cooker herself.

"The paper bag is not in it with this fireless cooker," she said, "and I assure you it works, for I have worked it myself."

Miss Sara J. Lovejoy told the women that they must reorganize their households, and, just as men in their different lines of business plan by convenient methods to conserve the energy of the workers, so women must do in their households.

"Arrange your kitchen and laundry so that the cook and laundress will not have to take so many extra steps. Have your cooking table and your supplies near the oven where the baking is to be done."

"Well, there is no lack of having things at hand in the kitchen of my flat," said one woman in the audience.

The first cooking was done down stairs in the Pure Food Show itself yesterday. The "navy bean," which the Navy Department advertises as the favorite food of its man-of-warsmen, was cooked in the big oven in the navy exhibit. It will be ready for breakfast this morning, little out of season, for Wednesdays and Sundays are mornings for bean breakfasts on board ship. A pretty little blind girl, Rachel Askknus, who belongs in one of the other exhibits, was "looking" at the different kinds of cooking apparatus with her fingers, feeling the different parts, as the men explained them.

Up in the army camp they cooked a big menu. Fishballs, made of a certain pure food form of shredded fish, were first on the list, and they looked and smelled good, as they came smoking hot out of the deep fat. They had several different kinds of soup, mock turtle and chicken, with clam chowder, and the last thing in the afternoon they were making "fried cakes" (crullers) to eat with the coffee they had in their big railroad train-cooker. In the Associated Clubs of Domestic Science booth, they were making tea biscuit, the cook being the teacher whom the clubs send down to show east side women how to feed their families.

One of the most popular souvenirs of the show is a little pocket mirror with a bright-colored picture on the frame, which advertises a pure-food beer. The dispenser has a gallant way of handing them out.

"You don't need it," he will say with an ingratiating smile to the woman who is passing, "but you can have it."

JUSTICES PASS ON FOOD.

Musty, Adulterated Provisions Prove Costly to Their Providers.

Material for an elaborate dinner was laid before Justices Deuel, O'Keefe, and Mayo of Special Sessions yesterday, when sixty-five grocers, bakers, and butchers were arraigned for violating the pure food laws. Assistant Corporation Counsel Stieffel presided over the board, assisted by Assistant District Attorney Willmont.

The first course was canned soup, rather aged and somewhat musty. It was furnished by Israel Michelan of 310 Henry Street, who was fined $15.

Milk furnished by Mrs. Jennie Carlip, Mr. Stieffel said, was only chalk and water, but as she took issue on this point her case was put over until next Friday.

David Moore of 3,295 Third Avenue contributed chopped meat seasoned with formaldehyde, and was fined $100. Rachel Levy, who furnished 150 pounds of beef, fifty pounds of pork, and much veal, runs a store at 456 West Forty-second Street, and the Justices suspended sentence. Joseph Hauptman of 62 Avenue B, who also contributed chopped meat at the request of the Inspectors of the Board of Health, was fined $25.

GIRL BURGLAR CLAD AS BOY.

Miss Smith, Arrested in Indianapolis, Had Milwaukee Career.

Special to The New York Times.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 25.—Marian E. Smith, 18, is under arrest for burglary in Indianapolis, Ind. Her picture was published in a newspaper here and Capt. Jacob Laubenheimer of the Police Department recognized it. So did other persons in Milwaukee who had been robbed by the girl, for whom a warrant is out in this city. She is wanted here on a charge of burglary.

Last April Miss Smith came here from her home in Albany to live with an uncle, a well-known contractor. A few weeks later she secured employment as a domestic. One night there was a wedding at the house. The next day the employer and his bride departed on their honeymoon. When night came the girl filled three suitcases with about $600 worth of wedding presents, jewelry, and clothing and disappeared. The police were notified, but could find no trace of her.

Prior to her arrest in this city, Detective Serhauer had been working on a number of burglary cases. About 10 o'clock one night he was sent for in a hurry to a house on the east side, word having come that burglars were in the place. On arriving there the detective searched the house, but found no one. He was about to depart when suddenly it occurred to him to look under the porch. He found there a young fellow about 16 years old.

When brought to the police station a patrolman approached to search the prisoner. There was a scream and the police learned that their burglar was a girl. It was Miss Smith.

NEW BIRD IN CENTRAL PARK.

Presented by Sailors Who Captured It on the North Dakota at Sea.

Chief Boatswain Ellis and two sailors of the United States battleship North Dakota took a bird to Keeper Snyder of the Central Park menagerie yesterday. They said it flew aboard ship as they were coming from Hampton Roads and when the vessel was about forty miles off shore.

The bird is black as a raven. It measures forty inches from wing tip to wing tip and fifteen inches from the floor to the top of its head. It weighs fourteen pounds. The sailors had never seen one like it. Keeper Snyder says he'll find out what it is.

BAR A PORTER FROM PIERS.

Hotel Belmont Employe Accused of Taking Money from Incoming Tourist.

Having stopped the tipping of Customs Inspectors for their services in examining passenger baggage, the customs officials have discovered another practice which it is said has begun on the steamship piers. The Surveyor believes that hotel runners, porters, and other persons are now extorting money from passengers on the ground that they will pass the money on to the examining inspectors.

An Inspector was completing the baggage examination for James A. O'Reilly, a druggist of Kansas City, who got in yesterday on the North German Lloyd liner Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm, when he heard O'Reilly ask a porter from the Hotel Belmont whether he should tip the Inspector.

"He is not allowed to take the money now, as a watch is kept on him. Give me the money and I will hand it to him quietly in a few minutes," is his alleged reply.

The Inspector waited until he saw some bills passed and then informed the Deputy Surveyor in charge on the pier. As a result O'Reilly and the porter were taken to the Custom House. After hearing the story, Deputy Surveyor George Smyth sent for the manager of the Belmont. He told him what had happened, and warned him that never again could that porter go on a steamship pier on the arrival of a liner.

NEW U. S. HUMANE SOCIETY.

Incorporated for the Preservation and Prolongation of Life.

Charles F. Murphy, Jr., a nephew of Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy, is one of the incorporators of the United States Humane Society for which Supreme Court Justice Gavegan signed a certificate of incorporation yesterday. Other Directors are Henry E. Mason, August B. Schoenherr, Charles Snyder, and David L. Sollins.

The object of the society is stated to be "the prevention of loss of life and the prolongation of duration of life by inspiring and encouraging the public to rescue all persons in danger, whether on land or sea." This is to be done by instructing the public in the best methods of rescue and in first aid to the injured, and the society will supply the necessary appliances for this kind of work.

Only Negro Patrolman Fined.

Among six patrolmen fined yesterday for various violations of the department rules was Samuel P. Battle, the city's only negro policeman, who joined the force three months ago and has been attached to the West Forty-seventh Street Station. He was found guilty of being absent without leave, and was fined two days' pay. This was Battle's first violation.

Visions of Loveliness---
These Dinner and Evening Gowns for Women

However, prices are conservative, as many of these Costumes are reproductions of Paris models.

When a woman who has just returned from Paris selected several gowns in our Salons the other day, she remarked that she had never seen such beautiful gowns in Paris at such prices. Certainly not. Because these gowns are American reproductions of Paris models—but they are as near perfect as it is possible to make them. And as for prices—there is no comparison.

Yes, it is difficult to imagine that an Evening Gown of dainty chiffon over crepe meteor with beautiful crystal bugle fringe around the tunic (which reaches almost to the foot), around the slightly high waistline, and the neck and sleeves, and also appliqued with crystal beads on the bodice—is only $39.50. These dresses are in white, pink, and blue. Quality of materials is exquisite, and the workmanship is dainty in every detail.

Another lovely Gown is the one illustrated. Although its design is charming, the color effect is even more beautiful—deep heliotrope chiffon over ivory white satin, and the deep silver embroidery band around the foot is edged with silver fringe. A corsage bouquet of grapes gives the final artistic touch.

Prices range thus—reproductions, $25 to $150; original Paris models up to $450.

Crepe Meteor Dresses, $25, $35, $45, up to $150.

Special Collection of Mourning Costumes

Only the best qualities of dull black Crepe de Chine, bengaline and French Serge were used in the making of the gowns, which are fashioned after Fashion's latest and most conservative ideas. Trimmings are generally of crepe or faille silk. Prices range from $16.50 to $65. Third Floor.

From the "Evening Sun," September 20

Topics of the Household

The tin wedding is tin only by name nowadays. The invitations may go out on glittering tin cards, but the returns are aluminum in almost every case. And the aluminum shower is one of the practical sendoffs of girl friends to the prospective bride.

One girl was the happy recipient of an entire kitchen outfit from an aluminum shower. The outfit included three saucepans of as many sizes, tea kettle, double boiler, griddle, waffle irons, and there were the various knives and spoons needed for cooking.

The clipping from the "Evening Sun" which we reprint herewith, is of particular interest because the kitchen outfit referred to in it is THE GIMBEL SPECIAL WEDDING OUTFIT OF WEAR-EVER ALUMINUM WARE.

The outfit, which, as one of the notable offerings of the September Housewares Sale, has made a sensation with the public and the trade, is an idea of our own that has "caught on" wonderfully well.

There are only five more days in which these splendid outfits, as well as the separate pieces of Aluminum Ware, may be bought at the special September prices. We are coming to an Aluminum Age in the kitchen, as housekeepers learn for themselves the great merits of this ware—its cleanliness, indestructibility, lightness, and, above all, its helpfulness. Good supplies, still:

CONFORMING TO THE LAW.

If what the chief men of the United States Steel Corporation say is true, if what they have always said is true, they have no reason to stand in fear of any suit that Attorney General Wickersham can bring against them. President Taft declared the other day that corporations doing business unlawfully "must be changed to conform to the law." If the Steel Corporation is now and has been doing business in conformity with the law there is no reason on earth why it should, by voluntary dissolution or otherwise, seek to escape a prosecution it has not provoked and penalties it has not incurred.

The men of the Steel Corporation know whether, with the intent to destroy competitors, they have resorted to those unfair and always unlawful practices condemned by the Supreme Court in the Standard Oil and Tobacco cases. The public has never believed the Steel Corporation guilty of such practices. It has the Government's assurance, given by the Bureau of Corporations, that it is so far from being a "monopoly" that it controls now a smaller percentage of the whole trade than when it was organized. If it has not violated either the first or the second section of the Anti-Trust act—and save possibly in its ownership of railroads or of ore beds the public has no reason to assume such a violation—why should it fear prosecution or prepare for dissolution?

Speculators may thrive on rumors and alarms, the investing public suffers by them. It is not exactly a healthy condition of the Government business or of private business when a few remarks by the Attorney General or a speech by the President can become the cause, or even the pretext, of a great decline in security quotations. If Mr. Wickersham thinks he can convict the Steel Corporation, why doesn't he draw his indictment? The result of that prosecution would be far more illuminating than the result in the Oil and Tobacco cases. The statement issued by the Attorney General last evening means nothing, and does not meet the requirements of the situation.

CANADA'S FRIENDSHIP FOR THE UNITED STATES.

The Canadian journals which last week were overflowing with denunciation of President Taft and his "criminal conspiracy" are now eloquent in professions of good will for the United States. In effect they advise us to cheer up, because Canada has merely returned the engagement ring, and will always be a sister to us. Our grief is assuaged by observing that Canada is also preparing to be equally sisterly to the motherland. Development of Canada's trade with the United States may be treason to the Empire, but Canadian trade with England is treason to Canada itself, and both sorts of trade call for rigid repression. Accordingly it is not surprising to hear that the woolen manufacturers of the Dominion are pressing the new Premier for an elevation of the duty on woolens. They regard themselves as insufficiently protected against British competition by a 30 per cent. duty, and want 50 per cent. at least.

Before the great renunciation by Canada of the boon we offered her the suggestion was sometimes heard that the tariffs of Canada and the United States might be brought together by a gradual reduction of our tariff. But since Imperialism has triumphed over Continentalism the assimilation is to be accomplished, it seems, by the gradual elevation of the Canadian tariff to our own. Either method of showing Canadian loyalty to England suits us. Clearly the more difficult it is made for English manufactures to enter Canada the easier it is, comparatively, for us to compete with England in the Dominion market. England may have an indifferent liking for this sort of loyalty, and Canada itself can hardly grow fonder of it with experience of it. There is no other country in the world which is clamoring for more and higher taxes, but there are several countries where there are poverty strikes against taxes. Sooner or later there will be a revulsion in Canada against the result of this election which will advance the cause of freer trade further than was possible in the agreement now rejected.

The surest sign of this is the reception in Canada of the interpretation put upon it by the British tariff reformers who declare the recent election a triumph for their idea of preference within the Empire. The increase of the Dominion duties on British manufactures will be the earliest shock to this interpretation, and is clearly forecast by the coolness of the reception in Canada of the British applause for Canada's decision. The effect in Canada is what the Canadians are thinking of. The rejection of the agreement with the United States, in the words of The Montreal Gazette, a leading supporter of Mr. Borden's opposition to the arrangement of the Laurier Government, > will constitute an argument against any agreement that mixes up other countries' interests with the Canadian system of customs taxation. It might not make for imperial unity to have a British preferential tariff agreement submitted to such an ordeal of discussion as that which the Taft-Fielding agreement has passed through.

"Other countries," indeed. That is a note less of "Canada for the Empire" than of "Canada against the rest of the world, including the Empire." The frigidity of that loyalty is hardly up to the sisterly affection promised ourselves. Canada may have saved her soul, in the words of the poet of Burwash, but the idea that she has saved the Empire by her sacrifice, or that she has pulled any chestnuts out of the fire for the benefit of the British tariff reformers whom the British electorate has thrice rejected, can hardly long retain any firm place in the slow but sure perceptions of the British people.

DR. MACARTHUR'S PLAN.

The Rev. Dr. MacArthur has proposed to the wealthy congregation of Calvary Baptist Church, of which he has been the pastor forty-one years, a plan to obtain a new preacher to fill the place from which he is retiring which seems practical and is assuredly novel. The ordinary way to fill a vacant pulpit is to invite candidates to occupy it on trial. Dr. MacArthur boldly says "it is humiliating, it is degrading to a preacher thus to be exhibited like a sample of dry goods." He urges the congregation to send its Pulpit Committee to hear the man they have in mind preach in his own pulpit. This method of selecting a new preacher, it seems, has always been Dr. MacArthur's favorite method. It requires harder work and better judgment on the part of a Pulpit Committee, and places a larger responsibility upon the members, but the result is likely to be more satisfactory.

The effectiveness of a trial sermon or two may be misleading. Moreover, the man to fill the place in which this Baptist clergyman has exerted so great an influence must be a man of exceptional attainments and promise. Such men, in any walk of modern life, are not going about seeking positions. The office must seek the man. There is, in these days, no surplus of great preachers who have also the skill and discretion and tireless industry of efficient pastors. Doubtless there are men well qualified to fill Calvary's pulpit who would gladly accept a call to a post so influential, but would decline to enter into a competition for it.

The higher professions are not quite so overcrowded as they used to be, and there is a well-recognized deficiency of leaders in thought and action in many professions. There are still plenty of ordinary men, but Calvary needs an extraordinary man. The church must seek for him diligently and patiently, and in the way the retiring pastor points out. In that way he can be found, eventually, and the example of so powerful a congregation in discarding the old method of trial candidates will doubtless be followed by other churches.

SECRETARY WILSON'S SUCCESSOR.

The news that ex-Congressman Charles F. Scott of Kansas "is the man regarded as most likely to succeed Mr. Wilson as Secretary of Agriculture if there should be a change in that department" is unwelcome.

Secretary Wilson has admitted that he loaned out his Government experts to aid private companies in their attempt to overthrow the food law of Indiana. He aided and abetted Solicitor McCabe, who "abated" 2,977 separate prosecutions recommended by the Bureau of Chemistry against companies and individuals for violating the Federal Pure Food and Drugs act. His responsibility for these things makes him unfit to retain his portfolio. But it was Chairman Scott of the Committee on Agriculture who helped Mr. McCabe smuggle through a "joker" in the Appropriation bill for 1911, which reads: "And hereafter the legal work of the Department of Agriculture shall be performed under the supervision and direction of the Solicitor."

The provision seems innocent enough. But the pure food law had provided, in Section 4, that when the Bureau of Chemistry reported a food or drug to be misbranded or adulterated, and a hearing had sustained the report, the Secretary "shall" turn the case over to the "proper District Attorney." Under the Scott "joker" a departmental rule was forthwith issued that, after hearings, the cases and summaries prepared "at the direction of the Solicitor" shall be submitted to the Solicitor "for recommendation to the Secretary as to whether the case shall be reported to the Department of Justice for prosecution." In this way Mr. McCabe gained the power to abate the thousands of cases prepared at great expense by the bureau charged with the gathering of evidence against poisoners and adulterators. The Congressional Record, Vol. 45, Part II., records that the "joker" in the Appropriation bill was not read for debate, Chairman Scott explaining that the bill was practically identical with the old one:

> There is no new legislation of importance. There is no change of language which alters in any way the scope or character of the work the department is doing.

Again, in the Appropriation bill for 1909, Chief Chemist Wiley found that Chairman Scott had struck out this provision:

> To investigate the character of food preservatives, coloring matters, and other substances added to foods, to determine their relation to digestion and to health, and to establish the principles which should guide their use, and to publish the results of such investigations when thought advisable.

That excision cut off Chief Wiley's "poison squads," and with them his experimental tests of the effects upon the human stomach of such preservatives as sulphur dioxide and sulphurous acid, alum, borax and boric acid, formaldehyde, saltpetre, sulphate of copper, and salicylic acid. Mr. Scott had previously been instrumental in establishing Mr. McCabe's irregular and unauthorized position. But in the two matters here specified he quite satisfied the powerful and selfish interests that had sought to defeat the purposes of the act safeguarding the purity and quality of foods and drugs. It is inconceivable that President Taft can for a moment consider ex-Congressman Scott as Secretary Wilson's successor.

REFERENDUM'S ROCKY ROAD.

In the opinion of the progressives, when any of their happy thoughts are contrary to the Constitution, why so much the worse for the Constitution, which must be amended accordingly and forthwith. That is a beautiful working theory, but it collided yesterday with a disillusioning fact. This very year the Indiana General Assembly ordained a referendum upon a new Constitution, but an aggrieved taxpayer secured an injunction forbidding the taking of such a vote. Now the Circuit Court holds that a Constitution must be framed by a Constitutional Convention, and cannot start with an act of the Legislature. Accordingly, the Indiana referendum is unconstitutional.

This is merely a State decision under a State Constitution, and remains to be tested upon appeal. Another case involving both the initiative and the referendum has already reached the Supreme Court from Oregon, and a decision is now awaited. In this case the Legislature enacted a tax which was proposed by the initiative, and those who disliked the tax challenged the validity of that form of enacting it. The State courts upheld it, and the appeal is on the square issue of unconstitutionality under the Federal Constitution, as being inconsistent with a republican form of government. The States of Oregon, Colorado, Montana, South Dakota, Missouri, Indiana, Oklahoma, Kansas, Maine, and the near-State of Arizona now enjoy the initiative and referendum, and California, Washington, Nebraska, and Wyoming are trembling with the delights of anticipation. It is said that eight millions are living under a form of lawmaking which perhaps is invalid, while Congress itself is dallying with the reform. In the circumstances the decision of the Supreme Court can hardly be rendered too quickly.

THE ABUSED UMPIRE.

Though public interest in the National game does not abate, the league championships are practically settled. The New York team, in the National League, and Philadelphia, in the American, are so far ahead of all competitors that only a series of unheard-of accidents could now displace them. Yet a Sunday American League game in Cleveland, when the Philadelphians defeated the home team almost as a matter of course, was turned into a riot because some of the Cleveland folks got angry with the umpire. The decisions they objected to in no way affected the score, but they were dispirited and cross, and the umpire had to suffer. Some good folks may infer that rowdyism is a natural feature of Sunday sport, but we do not follow them so far. We have no Sunday baseball here, and we do not believe it is needed, but where it is permitted, by the will of the community, there is no reason why it should not be as fair and orderly as weekday baseball. The sense of fairness was lacking in the Cleveland crowd, for the time being, and the sense of humor, too.

The umpire joke is getting very stale. The more intelligent supporters of baseball, and the game appeals to no restricted class, are tired of it. The umpire is as useful in his way as the man in the box. If the vociferous spectators yell at him, that is his small share of the glory. The understanding has been that they do not really detest him. His work must be done or the rules must be changed. We had hoped that baseball had become so highly developed that the time for assaulting umpires when the game does not go to suit the prejudices of the crowd had passed. How can we continue to regard any game as truly expressive of our National spirit when one of its most useful, if humble, participants is obliged to fight to preserve himself from injury if not from annihilation, and to escape from the playing field in a disabled condition? Let the managers of baseball unite to suppress the ancient umpire joke. If they cannot do that, they should get along without umpires, and submit every delicate disputed question to the referendum—the voice of the multitude in the bleachers. The umpires are competent and careful. If they are to be subject to the recall, it should be between games.

THE LONDON OFFICE OF THE TIMES.

The Times has opened in London a new business office and reading and reception room for visitors at 2 Pall Mall East, a quarter more frequented by American tourists than any other part of London.

The new office is in the Barclay Bank Building, formerly the residence of Addison. It is but a step from the booking offices of the Atlantic steamship lines and from leading banking houses issuing letters of credit, and just across the street from the Carlton Hotel. Subscriptions and advertisements for The Times will be received at the Pall Mall office and files of American papers will be kept in the reading room.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

But Baggage Really Isn't Cargo.

When a Customs Inspector has worked all day, it is only natural that he should expect extra pay from somebody when ordered to work the greater part of the night as well. There is, however, no particular reason for making the steamship companies pay him for his nightwork, and it certainly should not be done if the effect were to be the refusal of the companies to bring their ships to the docks after sunset. Of course, it is convenient and profitable for them to land their passengers at whatever hour in the twenty-four the chances of the voyage may bring them to their destination, but it is equally profitable and convenient for not a few of the passengers to get ashore without a long detention at the very time when their impatience to land is greatest.

That it will be easy to convince the legal authorities in the Treasury Department that personal baggage is part of a ship's cargo in any strict sense of that term seems doubtful. As a matter of common understanding, of course, baggage and cargo are distinct things, and very different, but the law is queer and nobody ever knows whether it is going to stand by the usual definition of a word or make one to suit its own mysterious purposes.

The fact is, however, that there is no way of making the steamship companies pay the Inspectors for extra work, or, indeed, for any work. To make them hand over the money would be easy, but inevitably they would first collect that money—and probably a little more—from the passengers. That the companies would really abandon night landings if this charge were imposed on them is most unlikely. There are too many economies in getting the passengers off the ships promptly and in the immediate preparation for another voyage.

As for the Inspectors, their present grievance is a reasonable one, and with it protectionists ought to have a special sympathy. An Inspector who works from 6 o'clock in the morning till 1 or 2 o'clock the next morning is not likely to be very efficient toward the end of his labors or when he resumes them next day, and he might fail to treat the incoming travelers with the severity which their evil habit of buying things abroad instead of at home so fully justifies.

They Can Doubt No Longer.

As soon after the sinking of the Maine as a Board of Inquiry could be convened, its members themselves examined the parts of the wreck that remained above or near the surface of the water and they sent down divers to find out what they could about the portions deeply submerged. From the information thus obtained the board reported that the Maine was sunk by an exterior explosion, probably followed by that of one or more of the ship's own magazines, and gave, among other convincing reasons for reaching this conclusion, the reason that a part of the keel had been driven up through the decks.

There was never any excuse for questioning the accuracy of this report, but it did not satisfy certain European critics, who, from one or another motive, wanted to believe that the destruction of the Maine was due to the carelessness or incompetency of her officers. Certain Americans, too, had, or at least expressed, grave doubts of the exterior explosion theory, with no justification so far as other Americans could see, except their conviction that the war with Spain was unnecessary and that the seizure of the Philippines was a mistake. Later these foreign and domestic contradictions of the original report found support of a sort in the failure of our Government to "raise the Maine," and as the years went by the charge that the navy was afraid of what the uncovering of the wreck might disclose did acquire something of plausibility—for those who wanted to believe its truth.

At last, however, Congress made an appropriation for beginning the long-delayed work. A caisson was built about the ship—a slow and expensive job—and six months or so ago enough of the concealing water had been pumped out to reveal more of the Maine than anybody had seen since the fatal night in 1898 when she went down. Again every indication pointed to an exterior explosion, but so much of the shattered hulk remained covered with wreckage and mud that the absolute proof was still missing.

Now, according to the dispatches from Havana, that absolute proof is at last available. Beyond any question, it seems, the bottom of the vessel was blown inward and upward in a way and to an extent that only an outside bomb of large size could make possible. As soon as this news takes official form the long controversy will end. Then perhaps those who have kept it up will realize that there rests upon them an obligation, not, of course, to abandon their conviction as to the war or the Philippines, but to apologize to their own navy and their own Government for imputing to both the meanest sort of lying that could be imagined.

Arrest Is Hard to Avoid.

People who have in some bureau drawer at home a pistol bought long ago with the vague notion that with it burglars could be shot or frightened, have generally approved of the new Sullivan law as to firearms. Very few of them, however, have been moved to get the permit which that law requires. This was partly because they felt that there was something wrong about a law that bothered persons as well-intentioned and harmless as themselves, and partly because they considered the annual fee for registration unnecessarily large and burdensome. Nevertheless, the sense of being lawbreakers has worried them.

They will be more worried now that a woman, who did what they have neglected to do, has as reward for her conscientiousness been put under arrest and sent to a cell. She took her husband's pistol to a police station for the purpose of complying with the provisions of Senator Sullivan's statute, and by doing this she convicted herself of possessing the weapon unlawfully.

Of course she did, and so will anybody else who seeks permission either to keep or bear an arm which he bought when the purchase was entirely legal. The dilemma thus created is difficult.

THE CANADIAN VOTE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The result of the Canadian elections appears to have occasioned widespread surprise. Since to me it was expected, and since I am an American who formerly spent many years in Canada and visited the Dominion immediately before the election, I submit to you what I believe to be the causes which led to the rejection of reciprocity.

Your own editorial comments upon the event have correctly shown some of the contributing causes. But not even the cheerful braying of Champ Clark or the unfortunate and misunderstood figures of speech of the President were responsible for the result. Not Kipling's versifying, not the cash freely spent by Canadian manufacturers, not altogether the natural weariness of the voters for a Government already seven years in power and of late burdened with the weight of ugly administration scandals, not even the annexation bogy. Not these, although each had its modicum of influence. The real causes lie deeper.

Who are these Canadians? Their leading families are descendants of the United Empire Loyalists, driven out of our country when the British fleet sailed out of New York Harbor at the close of the Revolution. Their fathers were Americans, and not altogether the least distinguished of our citizens. The histories still taught in our public schools do not record the fact, but it is nevertheless true that these Loyalists represented a large proportion of whatever wealth, good blood, and distinction we then had in the country. This was to be expected when it is remembered that in all revolutions those citizens who already possess social position and wealth are naturally unwilling to risk losing these advantages, while those who possess nothing naturally can lose nothing, but may gain in the general shake-up and rearrangement. The so-called patriots of those days dealt hardly with the defeated Loyalists, and while they spared their lives in most cases, yet they despoiled them of their lands and personal property and drove them away from the land of their birth penniless.

The Loyalists sought another land. But the deep resentment that burned in their hearts they carried with them and transmitted to their sons. It is there to-day. It was apparent in many of the election cartoons and placards; it muttered in the press.

The cold academic question as to whether reciprocity was or is best for Canadian pockets had little, if anything, to do with the result. To think so is to make the mistake of believing that the majority of men are governed by their real interests, or even by what they deem their interests. Chesterfield knew better. He tells us that they are rather governed by their personal likes and dislikes, their pride, their self-love, or their pique. It is an absurdity of our system of democratic government that we assume that a voter, as such, can offhand determine where his real financial interest lies, although the question may be one which would require a year's close study of a scientist to solve.

Canada is just entering upon manhood. Absolutely without parallel is her advance in wealth in the past ten years. To the golden stream which Alberta and Saskatchewan each Autumn pour into her lap is added the steady gain from Cobalt and other Ontario mining centres. She is beginning to number her millionaires by the scores. Is it strange that her young men dream dreams? W. S. G.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I was going to write you on this subject, but John Jerome Rooney has done so in your to-day's issue so much better than I could that I only wish to indorse every word of his letter, which is a masterpiece.

In another column you refer to the labors of the customs officials on Saturday examining the baggage of 3,000 passengers! Think of the cost and annoyance to individuals involved in such inquisitorial work.

W. H. BLATCH.

Canadian Wheat Lands.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I read with great interest the story in your Sunday edition entitled "100,000 of Our Farmers Are Coaxed to Canada Yearly," in which you tell how the Government, railroads, and land companies are trying to attract a desirable class of immigrants by exhibits, lectures, writing to the newspapers, &c. Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has offered $1,000 in gold for the best wheat grown on either continent of America during either 1910 or 1911. This prize is to be awarded at the American Land and Irrigation Exposition in Madison Square Garden next November. The judges are to be all Americans, but they are satisfactory to Canada. If this wheat prize stays on the Canadian side of the border, will it not go far to demonstrate that they have something worth while to attract desirable settlers? James J. Hill, who offers a $1,000 cup for the best wheat grown in the United States in 1911 under the same conditions, recently stated that the total arable land in Canada is equal to only about four times the size of the State of Iowa. How much room has Canada left? ROY MASON.

New York, Sept. 25, 1911.

Stolen Pictures as Dramatic Themes.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In Anthony M. Ludovici's unusually suggestive book on "Nietzsche and Art" (Constable, 1911) there is an interesting gloss to The Times's editorial article on "Picture Stealing." Ludovici cites as rare instances of devotion to art the case of Pope Leo X., who fell on his knees and sobbed at the deathbed of a great artist, and the case of the Taiko's Generals, who, when Teaism was in the ascendancy in Japan, preferred the present of a great work of art to a large grant of territory as a reward of victory. Then he quotes from "The Book of Tea," (no connection with 5 o'clock Souchong,) by the Japanese writer, Okakura-Kakuzo: "Many of our favorite dramas in Japan are based on the loss and subsequent recovery of a noted masterpiece." This, to be sure, throws no light on the cur or the quomodo of the "Mona Lisa" theft. Yet good is so persistent that some good may come out of even this. Possibly in due time "Mona Lisa" will be found in Reikiavik, or Smolensk, or Terracina, or Perth Amboy, or somewhere else, and then some modern Oehlenschlaeger will be inspired to dramatize its recovery, just as Euripides, Seneca, Marbach, and Grillparzer were dramatically inspired by the mystically removed Golden Fleece, or as too many to mention have been inspired by the meanderings of the Holy Grail, or as "Guglielmo Scala" was inspired to novelize the unstolen smile.

ALLEN WILSON PORTERFIELD.

PRAISE FOR THE TIMES.

Congratulations from the Press on Its Sixtieth Anniversary.

From The Editor and Publisher.

The New York Times was 60 years old on Monday. Sixty years is not a long period in the life of a nation or of a people, but it is quite a while in the career of a newspaper, because the newspaper is a comparatively modern institution, and every year of its history is an epoch.

The Times has always stood for high ideals in journalism. There are no soiled pages in its history.

From The Fourth Estate.

With the congratulations and well wishes of President Taft and many of the best-known public men and publishers in the country, besides countless readers and advertisers, The New York Times on Monday celebrated its sixtieth birthday. The event was not the occasion of any especial celebration on the part of The Times's publishers, outside of an anniversary supplement of eighteen pages, replete with pictures, articles, and advertisements showing the growth of New York City and newspaper making, which The Times in its long career has witnessed. A feature of the special supplement was a section given over entirely to the business announcements of local firms in existence as long or longer than The Times.

From The Montgomery Advertiser.

The New York Times's sixtieth anniversary number, published on the 18th inst., is a magnificent piece of work. The Times is a great newspaper, and deserves the prestige it maintains.

From The Waterbury American.

Its sixtieth year finds The New York Times strong in character, influence, resources of all kinds, and popular confidence. It is clean, complete, interesting, and honest. We enjoy it for its news and opinions and value it for its editorial guidance and inspiration.

From The Columbia State.

Last Monday one of the great American newspapers, The Times of New York, celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of its establishment, and it is receiving congratulations from all parts of the English-speaking world upon the increasing success that it enjoys as the fruit of clean living and honest working. As a well-rounded, proportioned, and balanced newspaper, its equal would be hard to find. Probably it might be allowed to paraphrase what one of the leading companies manufacturing motor cars advertises and describes itself as the second choice of all other newspaper producers of New York City.

From The Passaic News.

Colored News Man's Congratulations.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Allow me, along with my white co-workers in the journalistic field, to congratulate The Times on reaching the sixtieth year of its existence and to have maintained such an eminent place in the journalism of the times. The Times has stood the test and is without a doubt one of the strongest and most influential of the large modern dailies. The clean and conservative policy of the paper editorially and the up-to-dateness of its news column make it a welcome guest in the homes of the most refined and learned of all walks of life. The Times is essentially the people's paper, and all through its long and uncheckered career has stood loyally for the fundamental principles of the Republic. For that reason, on behalf of the colored citizens of the city and country, whose interest The Times has advocated, I congratulate the great journal on reaching its sixtieth year.

CLEVELAND G. ALLEN,
Manager Allen News Bureau.

The Sixtieth Anniversary.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As one of its readers I send my hearty congratulations and good wishes to The Times on its sixtieth anniversary. May it long continue to be the clean, honest, and independent factor in journalism that it has been in the past. ARTHUR C. HUMPHREYS.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 23, 1911.

The Times's Birthday.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Please accept my hearty congratulations and best wishes on The Times's birthday. It stands—without a peer—for all that is best.

Tariff Reports and the Waste Basket.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The tariff board is the cyclone cellar of the protectionists. We all know what happened to the house which was built upon the sand.

Nothing is more unstable than the cost of materials and wages. The price of cotton a few months ago was about 15 cents, and now it is about 11½ cents. Other staples, such as coffee and sugar, have had similar fluctuations in a shorter period.

Suppose President Taft's tariff commission recommends a reduction and Congress agrees and a law becomes effective, what will be the result? All prices will be changed and the tariff commission's report will be a back number. So the tariff commission will have to begin all over again, and so on, ad infinitum.

Another common error in tariff calculations is the omission to take into account the cumulative effect of the cost of duty on imports. If the dealer bases his profits on foreign cost alone he would soon be bankrupt. The importer adds his profit to the duty and so also does the wholesaler and the retailer. So an article costing $1 in Europe is usually sold to the consumer for $3.

The writer considers the present tariff system to be a grievous handicap on domestic industries and that a radical reduction of the tariff would be in the end a positive benefit to all concerned, the manufacturer as well as the consumer.

The coming tariff report will be a novelty and will attract attention, but reports thereafter will have little attention and become food for the waste basket. THOMAS FIELD.

House Where Andre Was Tried.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have always been much interested in the case of Major Andre and have visited most of the places connected with his career in America. A series of etchings of mine is well known among collectors. I was, therefore, somewhat surprised at a statement in to-day's Times regarding a desk made from timber taken from the house where the Major was tried. This house is said to be in the vicinity of Tarrytown.

It is well known that Major Andre was tried in the church at Tappan, which stood on the site of the church now there. When he was tried only few dwellings stood in Tappan—the Seventy-six stone house, or Mable house, where he was imprisoned, being one, and the De Wint house, Washington's headquarters, being another. On account of the size of the board of officers by which he was tried the trial was held in the church. I am puzzled to know what house near Tarrytown can be meant.

The Trains at Malba.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There is an article in to-day's Times headed "No One Lives at This Stop," asserting that Malba, L. I., "is not on any map nor in any pronouncing gazetteer. After Nov. 1, however, it will be on the Long Island Railroad time table."

If the writer of that statement had taken the trouble to look in Bullinger's Monitor Guide he would have seen that there are at present ten week-day trains each way between Malba and New York and seven trains on Sunday.

But apart from those few inaccuracies mentioned I have no reason to doubt that the article is correct. CHARLES FORDER.

THE REV. MR. HORNE TALKS TO MINISTERS

PRAISES THE ROMAN CHURCH

She Was Right, He Says, in Asserting an Imperial Sway and All Churches Must Come to Her Ideal.

The Rev. C. Silvester Horne of London, who describes himself in "Who's Who" as an "impenitent radical and advocate of modern puritanism," was the guest of honor at a luncheon given yesterday by Protestant ministers of nineteen denominations at the National Arts Club in East Nineteenth Street. The Rev. Mr. Horne is also Mr. Horne, member of Parliament for Ipswich, as well as the pastor of Whitefield's Church, Tottenham Road, London. He fastened the attention of the preachers upon his speech from the first line yesterday and gave the strongest proof of his claim to being an impenitent radical and a champion of puritanism, though he did appear to enjoy a cigar afterward. He spoke strongly for the liberal doctrines, for the "plain and simple people" of both England and America, and called himself the only surviving disciple of Calvin.

"I agree with Mark Pattison that the least important thing about Calvin was his doctrine," said Mr. Horne with emphasis. "The important thing about Calvin was the way he ruled Geneva. He believed that the Church is the final judge of all human things and to that we must return. If the Church does not take the leadership in international brotherhood and the leadership in social and political reform, then some one else will. The greatest opportunity in the history of the world is before the Church to-day."

All the Ministers present were Protestants, and a hush fell over the room when he finished the part of his speech that follows:

"The Church of Rome was right when she claimed imperial sway. Though I think she sought to gain her ends through means often unjust and far from praiseworthy, her glorious ideal was exactly right, and to it all Churches must come. It was the ideal that there was nothing outside the sweep of the Church, and that all government and all law must come to the Church as the court of last resort. Whatever we think about the history of the Roman Catholic Church, we must admit that her aim has been the only true one, for it aimed at authority."

This puzzled the ministers for a few moments, and then there were some faint cheers.

Mr. Horne made most of his remarks on the subjects of the inactivity of the Church. In London, he said, he had difficulty in finding many people of the different neighborhoods who knew even where the Protestant churches were.

"Every London 'bobby' in my neighborhood knows where the Nithingale and the Bush is, they know where the Red Lion and where every public house is, and can direct you to every music hall, but they don't know where my church is. The same is true everywhere. It is because we are afraid to act, afraid to let ourselves be known. We cannot even stir up a controversy. It is all indifference. The Church has become insipid, and the last vice of Christianity is insipidity.

"There are two texts from which, I think, I shall never tire of preaching. One is, 'Ye are the salt of the earth,' and the other is about faith as a mustard seed. Salt and mustard, the two things that the Church absolutely lacks to-day and what the world needs more than anything else. We are suffering from the respectability that has kept the Commandments and has missed the beatitudes. We have fallen into a fatal groove, and the only difference between a groove and a grave is a matter of depth.

"In politics I am a Radical. I trust in the common sense of the plain and simple people. They are more to be trusted that the weighed conclusions of the academicians. The plain and simple people of America and the plain and simple of England will redeem both countries where all other agencies will fail."

Dr. Ensor Walters, a noted Wesleyan minister of London, now on his way to the conference of Methodists at Toronto, also spoke.

"My claim to fame is that I was at one time a London vestryman and my fellow-vestryman was Bernard Shaw," he said. "When I mention the name of Shaw I see you all smile. But, I assure you, he is the most serious man in the world. He is aflame for righteousness. It wasn't Ibsen that made Shaw. It was his experience as a London vestryman."

Chinese Warship Off to Cuba.

The Chinese cruiser Hai-Chi after a two weeks' visit to New York sailed yesterday morning for Havana. Rear Admiral Chin Pih Kwang expressed his own and his men's appreciation of the many courtesies extended to them during their stay. After visiting Havana the cruiser will go to Vera Cruz. In about six weeks she will call at New York for a day or two on her way back to China by way of the Suez Canal.

Trust Decisions and Labor.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The fiat has gone forth from Washington that great monopolistic corporations must dissolve. The logical conclusion is, therefore, that the most powerful, the most tyrannical combination of all, the Labor Trust, will be proceeded against. Will the Department of Justice and the Attorney General dare to take this step? We await events with some interest. J. B. JAMES.

THE MAINE WATER-WAGON.

See Me!
I am the Maine Water-wagon—
On the road or in the ditch,
Just yet I don't know which,
But I do know, by heck,
That I be mighty nigh a wreck.
By gum
The Demon Rum
Has put me almost on the bum,
And if the State
Goes dry or wet,
As hasn't been decided yet,
What's left of me
Won't sell, I think,
For quite enough to buy a drink.
Some Water-wagons have attacks
As I have had, but, say,
It's only local and in time
They run along the way
As good as ever; but with me
It ain't the same, I'm sure,
For mine is constitutional
And not a thing to cure.
I've got it, and I've got it bad,
I know by how it feels,
And though they patch me up to go,
I'll wabble on my wheels,
And never, never track again,
And people will not fail
To say, when seeing where I've gone,
That snakes have made the trail.
Gee whiz,
What a tough job mine is!
Wow,
Wouldn't Neal Dow
Raise a row
If he could see me now?

NEW COHAN SHOW IS BEST OF ITS KIND

Entertaining Blend of Farce and Musical Comedy, with Many Original Touches.

Some Highly Original Lyrics, with Good Tunes to Carry Them—A Wedding Done in Dance.

THE LITTLE MILLIONAIRE, a musical farce in three acts, by George M. Cohan. Cohan's Theatre.

Henry Spooner	Jerry J. Cohan
Robert Spooner	George M. Cohan
George Russell	George Parsons
Bill Costigan	Tom Lewis
Roscoe Handover	Sydney Jarvis
Danny Wheeler	Earl Benham
Edward Plumber	Donald Crisp
Rudolph	Donald Crisp
Starter at the "Beaux Arts"	William Ford
Mrs. Prescott	Mrs. Helen F. Cohan
Goldie Gray	Lila Rhodes
Berdina Busby	Julia Ralph
Bertha Burnham	Josephine Whittell
Miss Primper	Maud Allan
Mary	Amy Mortimer
Policeman	Dore Rogers

George M. Cohan, like necessity, knows no law. Which is one of the reasons, perhaps, why a George M. Cohan show is like nothing else in the heavens above (presumably) or on the earth below. But that is not the principal reason. The success of such an entertainment as "The Little Millionaire"—and of its success there is no doubt—is due to the fact that Mr. Cohan knows his little book from the first page to the last and, as he might say, then some, maybe.

And so "The Little Millionaire," written by him, acted by him, and produced by him after a more or less protracted absence from the stage, represents him at his very best, and a best which is considerably ahead of what he has done in his earlier shows. Of their kind, these shows had much the same go and zip which kept last night's audience keyed up to concert pitch. But there was often in them something of bad taste, something which made sensitive people just a little sorry to see them as popular as they were. Exception of this kind cannot be taken to this newest entertainment. The best proof of the fact is that the one single broad line in the piece, and a line which will probably come out, did not get a laugh. The audience had been put into an entirely different kind of mood.

"The Little Millionaire" is in three acts, the first and third being musical comedy, the second carrying on the story in farce form without any musical accompaniment, and for the most part carrying it on very briskly and satisfactorily. This story, involving a youth who is in love with a chorus girl, but must forfeit his fortune if he marries without his father's consent, is treated by Mr. Cohan seriously now and then, and, again, in a vein of burlesque. Some big laughs come from the introduction of two characters, supposedly the villains of the piece, who repeatedly announce that what they are doing is "dirty work," eventually describing their presence on the stage in a duet, "We Do the Dirty Work," which, like almost every song in the piece, is remarkable for the cleverness of the lyrics, the adroitness of the word combinations, and the descriptive quality of the melody and accompanying orchestration.

Best of all, perhaps, Mr. Cohan makes his people get the lyrics over intelligently.

Again through the piece garnering laughs with every entrance comes another figure, big Tom Lewis, without whom no Cohan show would seem complete, and for whom the author has written a better part than his own. It is Lewis, who as Bill Costigan, a wine agent, always "on edge," dogs the hero's heels, follows him into his home, selects his own room, changing from a blue to a pink, and ultimately to a red one, and always for the sake of persuading the youth not to marry—as he, Costigan, already knows what it means to pay $1,000 alimony monthly.

Again in a capital ensemble number the same charge to remain single is impressed upon the young man, this time by his friends of the chorus, who have been called in to "foil the villians" in an attempted blackmailing scheme. These friends must hear the joyfully sung announcement of the coming marriage, but come back in minor key to beg the hero not to do it. Finally the marriage ceremony itself is performed in a capital pantomimic dance, with the best man first dancing on, the maids of honor following, the bride and bridegroom toeing it to the altar, and even the minister with book and ring entering in the same festive song and dance style to make it all complete.

Before this happens, however, there have been developments. For the little millionaire's father, returning from abroad, is anxious to announce his own engagement. He fears what his son will say as much as the latter has feared him. And the farce situation in which mutual misunderstandings alternate with mutual rejoicings at glad tidings is so well handled that it seems almost like fresh material. Of course the woman for whom father "has fallen" is the very one to whom Costigan has been paying alimony, and at sight of the wine agent she drops her handbag and runs. Costigan, presently picking up the bag, opens it, extracts from it a large roll of bills, and says, "Welcome home." Then the curtain falls.

Another act is required to straighten out the complications, but it is more important in respect to the fact that it brings the best song numbers of the piece.

Previously, of course, there had been a rollicking one about the flag, with a military drill, and a delightfully swingy one, "Come With Me to My Bungalow," while Mr. Cohan himself has had opportunities for his characteristic dancing alone, and with his cousin, Lila Rhodes, a near-Cohan, who is piquant, graceful, and dances like a sunbeam. Then the Cohans—father and son—do a step or two together. And the keynote of the show has been struck in a sparkling lyric sung by a chorus of chauffeurs, while a group of very pretty smaller dancers have flirted in any out, keeping up the general lively pace.

Now the stage is given over to the "big" song number, "The Musical Moon," satirizing very cleverly the most popular of numbers, and followed by a richly melodious song, "Oh, You Wonderful Girl," which might be a satire of all the lovers in the world. In another vein is "Barnum Had the Right Idea," sung by Mr. Cohan. It might be described as the hymn of all showmen, and should form a part of the ceremony at the dedication services of all new theatres. And then, "The Dancing Wedding," already referred to, which brings the final note of novelty to an entertainment in which novelties abound.

In addition to himself, his clever father and mother, his charming little cousin, and the ever-present Tom Lewis, each of whom contributes materially to the success of the entertainment, Mr. Cohan's company contains other very capable people. Of these Julia Ralph, George Parsons, Sydney Jarvis, Earl Benham, Josephine Whittell, Amy Mortimer, and Maude Allen are each entitled to a word of praise.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Two hundred visiting librarians of the New York Library Association, now in convention here, will attend the performance at the Hippodrome to-night.

Eugene O'Brien has been engaged by Henry W. Savage for the character of Ramon Andrade in Leo Ditrichstein's adaptation of "A Million." For the last three seasons Mr. O'Brien has been with Ethel Barrymore, Kyrle Bellew, and Fritzi Scheff.

The tour of "Madame X" will begin at Bridgeport, Conn., next Saturday night, and will include the principal cities through to the Pacific Coast. The cast includes Byron Douglas, Harry Mainhall, Robert Payton Gibbs, Charles Stanley, Edward Fosberg, Helen Lutrell, Caroline Leonard, and Adeline Dunlap, who will play the title role.

A. H. Woods has engaged Sallie Fisher for an important role in his production of "Modest Suzanne." The play will open in November in Chicago, and come to New York after Christmas. H. H. Frazee is interested with Mr. Woods in the production.

Hugh Ford, general stage director for Liebler & Co., will have entire charge of the production of "The Garden of Allah," and the play's author, Robert Hichins, will act in an advisory capacity during the rehearsals and look after the interests of his play.

SOCIAL NOTES.

In the list of débutantes coming out this Winter is Miss Katharine M. Rising, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Rising of 34 East Thirty-fourth Street.

Col. and Mrs. J. Wray Cleveland will give a tea at their home, 131 East Sixty-fourth Street, for their débutante daughter, Miss Marjorie Cleveland, early in December.

The dance which Mrs. James Remsen Strong of Short Hills, N. J., is to give at Sherry's on Dec. 29 is for her daughter, Miss Margaret Strong, and her niece, Miss Frances W. Henry, both débutantes of the coming season.

Miss Anna Sands is closing her Newport season this week.

Mr. and Mrs. I. Townsend Burden, Jr., (Miss Florence Sheedy,) who returned from their bridal trip to Europe on Saturday, are at the Plaza. Mr. Burden came down from Newport to join his son and daughter-in-law here.

Mr. and Mrs. George Livingston Nichols plan to close their country home, at Katonah, N. Y., and come to town for the season about the middle of November.

Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., has sailed from Europe for New York, and will arrive here the latter part of the week.

Mrs. Lorillard Spencer, accompanied by Miss C. C. Young, motored down from Newport and are at the Hotel Gotham.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Baker of Montclair, N. J., who have been spending the Summer abroad, are sailing on the steamship Victoria Luise, which is due here on Oct. 2.

Two big dances will be given in October. The annual ball for the Nassau Hospital is scheduled for Oct. 13 in the assembly rooms at Mineola, L. I. On Oct. 27 the annual ball will be given at the Tuxedo Clubhouse, Tuxedo Park.

Mrs. C. P. Williams and Miss Williams of Stonington, Conn., are at the Belmont, previous to closing their Summer home.

Among the well-known people on board the Kaiser Wilhelm II., due to-day, are Mr. and Mrs. George J. Gould, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Murray Butler, Mr. and Mrs. V. Everit Macy, Mrs. Rutherfurd Stuyvesant, Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Strauss, Sir Edgar Speyer, Princess Leopoldine von Ratibor, and Count von Moltke.

The marriage of Robert L. Strebeigh to Miss Katharine B. Waring will take place on Oct. 11. On Oct. 6 Mr. Strebeigh will give his bachelor dinner at Delmonico's. Richard Ely has been chosen as his best man and Kenneth C. Faile and William K. Ludlam will act as ushers at the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Delafield have closed their cottage at Westhampton Beach, L. I., and before opening their apartments at 33 West Twelfth Street will spend October with Prof. and Mrs. William M. Sloane at their country residence, Stanworth, Princeton, N. J.

Dr. and Mrs. William C. Boone have closed their Summer home at Nantucket, Mass., and are now visiting in the Berkshires.

YOUNG ASTOR BEFORE POLICE

With Oelrichs and Warren, He Is Lectured on Careless Auto Driving.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 25.—Vincent Astor, Hermann Oelrichs, and George Henry Warren, Jr., were reported to the police for careless automobile driving by a member of the Summer colony, whose identity is not known, save to the police. The two first named were summoned to Police Headquarters. After being lectured on automobile laws and rules and told what might happen if the careless driving of their automobiles did not cease they departed with their promise that they would not give further trouble on the road. To-day Mr. Astor was driving his racing machine very carefully.

Mrs. J. Fred Pierson, Jr., of New York passed safely through a slight automobile accident in front of the Casino to-day. As her car stopped a large touring car numbered 76,408, New York, struck Mrs. Pierson's machine in the rear, inflicting slight damage.

Evidently the confines of Wall Street and the ticker returns were not pleasing to many men in the Summer colony, who raced to New York Sunday night and others early this morning to be near the disturbed scene of action. There were fewer men in Newport to-day than on any day this season, and Wall Street was the cause. Those who did remain in Newport were close at the stock market board during the greater time.

'NEVER HOMES' IS LAUNCHED.

Lew Fields's Musical Production a Satire on Woman Suffrage.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 25.—Lew Fields's production of the "Never Homes" had its first performance on any stage at Harmanus Bleecker Hall to-night before a large audience, which included Gov. and Mrs. Dix, Lieut. Gov. Conway, most of the State officials, and a majority of the General Assembly.

The story concerns itself chiefly with the government of the City of Lilydale, which has been carried by the suffragettes, who run the local government. The efforts of the women to conduct the Fire, Police, Street Cleaning, and Judicial Departments of Lilydale are very amusing and filled with inoffensive satire. The book is by Glen MacDonough, the music by Baldwin Sloane, the lyrics by Ray Goetz, and the scenery by Arthur Voegtlin. Ned Wayburn staged the production and drilled the fourscore singing and dancing girls.

The principals include George W. Munroe, Jess Dandy, Al Leech, Lilian Herlein, Bessie Clifford, the Courtney sisters, Will Archie, Vera Finlay, Denman Maley, Joseph Santley, Edward Adams, Helen Hayes, Maude Gray, Norma Brown, May Maloney, Nan Brennan, Hazel Allen, Elsa Rinehardt, Grace Gilbert, and Mabel Woodrow.

Miss Thompson Weds Calvin C. Hill.

Special to The New York Times.

NYACK, N. Y., Sept. 25.—Frances Mary Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred S. Thompson of New York City, was married at noon to-day at their Summer home in Hillside Avenue, South Nyack, to Calvin C. Hill of Boston. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Sartell Prentice of the Nyack Reformed Church. The bride wore a gown of duchesse lace over white satin, and a veil caught up with orange blossoms. Mrs. William Bradford Green of Hartford, Conn., was matron of honor, and F. M. Samson, a Boston banker, was best man. Guests were present from several States. After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Hill will make their home in Boston.

Farmer-Morrison Wedding on Oct. 26.

The wedding of Miss Natalie Morrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David M. Morrison of this city, to Allan B. Farmer, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis G. Farmer of Boston, will take place on Thursday, Oct. 26, at the home of the bride's parents, 20 East Forty-ninth Street.

Miss Morrison is now with her parents at their Summer home, Grove Cottage, York Harbor, Me. She is a sister of Mrs. William Tingue, Jr., and of Miss Abby Putnam Morrison and Putnam Morrison.

L. J. Grumbach Gives Bachelor Dinner.

Louis J. Grumbach of this city, whose marriage to Miss Edna Reckendorfer is to take place on Thursday at Elberon, N. J., gave his bachelor dinner last night at Delmonico's.

Miss Reckendorfer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Reckendorfer, and the wedding ceremony will be performed in the home of her parents at Elberon. Her attendants will include her sister, Miss Adelaide Reckendorfer, and the Misses Marion and Edith Reckendorfer, granddaughters of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Lewisohn, and Miss Audrey Loeb, another cousin. A bridal breakfast and reception will follow the ceremony.

Among the guests at Mr. Grumbach's dinner last night was Phineas Sondheim, who will act as best man at the wedding; also Bernard Gimbel, Morton Schellenberg, John King Reckendorfer, and Herbert Dreyfus, who have been chosen as ushers.

TIM DONOHUE DIES; FOE OF SMUGGLERS

KEPT EYES AND EARS OPEN

Worked His Way Up from a Stone Cutter and Became Rich by His Seizures—Death Came Suddenly.

After being ill for a short time with diabetes, Timothy J. Donohue, one of the best-known men in the Customs Service in this port, who had seized more smuggled goods than any other man in the Government employ, died yesterday in his home, 151 Harrison Street, Brooklyn. Donohue was known to thousands of ocean travelers, and in more than one case their acquaintance with the quiet-appearing man began while he was searching their pockets. No other man ever held his position in the local Customs Service, and no man will take his place, for Donohue practically created his position, and filled it in such a way that it became a saying in the service that he worked by instinct, not by rule.

Donohue was assigned to special duty and this duty consisted principally in circulating among incoming passengers with eyes and ears open. A traveler leaning over his trunk would be surprised by a clumsy individual stumpling over him, catching at his coat. The clumsy man was Donohue, whose trained hands made an inventory of the things carried by the other. "Tumbling Tim," they called him sometimes, but in this way many a transfer of undeclared goods from a passenger to a friend on the pier was detected. A man high in the customs service said yesterday Tim Donohue had saved to the Government over a million dollars in duties.

Donohue was born in County Kerry Aug. 29, 1846, and came to this country when about 17 years old. His entering the Government employ came by a rather peculiar chance. He was working as a marble cutter and polisher, and his ambition did not extend beyond becoming a good worker in stone, when a strike was called, and he was forced to search for other employment.

A position was offered him in the customs service, and in 1869 he was appointed a tally clerk in the Weigher's Department. In 1871 he became a packer and opener, and later in the year a night Inspector. This gave him opportunities to develop his ability as a detective, and he did such good work that in 1879 he was made Inspector by executive order.

Donohue's first work was to stop the smuggling of cigars and tobacco into the port, and he was instrumental in breaking up the ring that then existed. The customs force was not organized as now, and Donohue had to go out from Staten Island at night in a rowboat to watch incoming vessels.

The practice of the smugglers was to throw the cigars overboard in rubber bags, to be picked up by accomplices, who put them on the market. Donohue found himself in many a tight place, and there were times when he had to fight his way out. He used to say that he knew every nook and corner on a vessel where smuggled goods could be hid, and the results of his work proved it.

In his early work on the piers Donohue was assisted by Thomas Brown, another character who made history for the department, but Brown was killed in 1901 by a fall from a window, and no one was found to take his place. The last big seizure of cigars made by Donohue was 100,000, which he found in a liner running to Cuba in 1882.

One of the tight places in which Donohue found himself while performing his duty is still the subject of a story told among customs men. One steamship was a principal offender in the bringing in of smuggled cigars, and the smugglers used a spare boiler in which to conceal the contraband.

Donohue learned that a big consignment of cigars was coming in the ship, and when she docked he searched her from keel to pilot house, but without success. He was sure the tobacco was on board, but could get no trace of it. Finally he noticed that although the firemen were free to go ashore, several were hanging around, grinning behind his back at his discomfiture. It gave him an idea.

Taking a hammer and a lantern he went to the boiler room again and hit each boiler a smart rap. One sounded hollow.

"Take off the manhole cover of this boiler," he ordered.

The men hesitated, but Donohue was not to be gainsaid. Off came the cover, and, lantern in hand, Donohue descended into the iron cavern. There piled up he found 100,000 cigars awaiting removal to the shore; but while he was exploring, someone clapped on the manhole cover and the Inspector found himself a prisoner. He pounded the sides of his prison and tired his lungs with shouting. Finally the lantern went out. Still he pounded and shouted, but it was several hours before a watchman making his rounds discovered and rescued him.

The last important seizure was made by Donohue on May 19 last. Dr. F. P. Martinez of Mexico City, who came in on a German steamship, attempted to bring in $7,682 worth of jewelry. Donohue, stumbling against him, felt the package in Martinez's pocket, and the physician was halted as he was leaving the pier.

On May 29 last year Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Lyons arrived here in the Amerika, and neglected to declare some valuable jewelry. Donohue detected the attempt to smuggle, and the Government was richer by $10,000. William Bodenschatz was another who fell under suspicion when he got here on Sept. 11, 1910. Donohue followed him to a hotel in Hoboken, and a search of the man resulted in the finding of two valuable rings pinned inside the band of his trousers.

Capt. Gillette, Commander of a French line steamship, also came to grief some years ago through Donohue when he attempted to bring ashore dutiable goods. The vigilant Inspector got him.

These are only a very few of the cases which he brought to successful issue. His work fills many pages in the record books of the department. He was many times commended by Secretaries of the Treasury and Collectors. Up to a few years ago the officer making seizures received a percentage of the money realized by the sale of property seized and in this way Donohue became prosperous.

Donohue was married and had one daughter. After a service in St. Peter's Church, Brooklyn, on Thursday morning, he will be buried in Holy Cross Cemetery.

YESTERDAY'S WILLS.

JANE CLAVIN, died March 30, leaving no real, but $4,700 personal property; $500 each to her nephew, James Wall, and her niece, Mrs. Mary Keenan; $100 to her goddaughter, Julia Whalen, all the rest to her niece, Jennie Wall.

GATES TO WED IN UNIONTOWN

Miss Hopwood Is There, Although Uncle Said She Had Left.

Special to The New York Times.

UNIONTOWN, Penn., Sept. 25.—Although her uncle, Robert F. Hopwood, County Solicitor for Fayette County, stated last night that she had been in Uniontown and had departed for her home, in Minneapolis, Miss Florence Hopwood, who is to become Mrs. Charles G. Gates, did not arrive in Uniontown until this morning. According to an announcement made to-night, the wedding will occur Wednesday.

Miss Hopwood was accompanied by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Hopwood, and two brothers, G. G. and Warren Hopwood. They are guests of Robert F. Hopwood, at whose residence the ceremony will be performed.

It was announced this morning by Robert F. Hopwood that it had been the desire of John W. Gates, expressed shortly before his death, a few weeks ago, that the wedding should not be delayed in case of his continued illness or death. The bridegroom will arrive in Uniontown Wednesday morning, when other guests at the ceremony from Chicago and Minneapolis are also expected.

Although such is not known to be the case, it is surmised that an effort was made to keep the fact that the wedding was to be performed here a secret.

THEIR WEDDING A SURPRISE.

Paul Hays and Miss Marshall Then Wed Again in Catholic Church.

Paul Hays, a young New York stock broker, and Miss Esther Deering Marshall, niece of Thomas A. Nevins, a Wall Street banker, and resident of 109 Harrison Street, East Orange, N. J., were married civilly last Thursday without the uncle's knowledge.

The uncle was very much surprised on Saturday night when he learned that the young people had gone to a Newark Justice of the Peace. Being himself a devout Catholic and member of the Church of Our Lady Help of Christians, East Orange, he suggested that the young couple should proceed at once to the rectory of the Church of Our Lady Help of Christians and be wedded by a priest. Accordingly late Saturday night they applied to the Rev. John P. Callaghan, rector of the church, who tied the knot of matrimony and gave the young people his blessing.

The former Miss Marshall is one of the most popular young women of East Orange. Mr. Hays is not so well known in the Oranges, but he is well liked by the relatives of his bride, who admit that the match is quite satisfactory. Mr. and Mrs. Hays are now living at the Nevins home.

R. G. CONRIED, BRIDEGROOM.

Son of Late Heinrich Conried Married to Miss Margaret Levy.

DEAL, N. J., Sept. 25.—Miss Margaret Levy, daughter of Mayor and Mrs. William Levy of Deal, was married this afternoon to Richard G. Conried, son of the late Heinrich Conried of the Metropolitan Opera House, New York. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Silverman of the Temple Emanuel of New York. The wedding, which took place at the Levy villa on Jerome Avenue, was celebrated quietly owing to the death recently of the bridegroom's mother.

About 100 persons witnessed the ceremony, some of whom came from New York. The maid of honor was Miss Dorothy Levy, a sister of the bride, and the best man was Frederick Sperling of New York, an uncle of Mr. Conried. A repast was served by Delmonico. Mr. and Mrs. Conried will spend their honeymoon in the Berkshire Hills. On their return they will make their home in Manhattan.

SCOTCH ACTORS ARRIVE.

"When Bunty Pulls the Strings" Company Here from Glasgow.

The Scotch company that is to present "When Bunty Pulls the Strings," under the direction of the Shuberts, this season, arrived in New York yesterday on the California of the Anchor Line from Glasgow. The company consists of Molly Pearson, who played the slavey here in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," and the Misses Cadell, Singleton, Nybloe, and Davidson, and Messrs. Gullan, Ingleton, Beresford, Joxone, and Sanderson Moffatt. Sanderson Moffatt is a brother of Graham Moffatt, author of the play, who is also acting in the piece at the Haymarket, London.

The company will open out of town next Monday. Very soon the piece will be brought to New York.

H. Henry Bertram's Bachelor Dinner.

H. Henry Bertram of this city, who is to marry Miss Ella Lawrence Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Leon Lewis of New York and Allenhurst, N. J., on Oct. 7, will give his farewell bachelor dinner at Delmonico's on Oct. 3.

The wedding is to take place at St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, Allenhurst, and will be followed by a reception at Roselawn, the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis. After their bridal trip the young couple will live in Montclair, N. J.

Miss Mayer to Wed Samuel Brill.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Joseph Mayer of 23 East Seventy-fourth Street have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Josephine Mayer, to Samuel Brill, at their residence, on Tuesday evening, Oct. 17. Mr. Brill is the senior member of the firm of Brill Brothers.

WEEK'S BILLS AT THE THEATRES

The stock company at the Academy of Music began a week of Bronson Howard's old play, "The Banker's Daughter," yesterday afternoon.

"The Country Boy" is the week's offering at the Grand Opera House, with Ethel Clayton, Maurice Dale, Carolyn Eberts, H. Dudley Hawley, George Wright, and Joseph Kaufman, prominent in the cast.

Marguerite Clark and most of the original "Baby Mine" company are appearing at the Manhattan Opera House in Margaret Mayo's farce this week.

"Pomander Walk" is the attraction at the West End Theatre this week, with all of the company from Wallack's Theatre in their respective roles.

"The Three of Us" is the attraction at the Prospect Theatre in the Bronx, played by the resident stock company there.

"Tony Pastor's Anniversary Week" began at Keith & Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre yesterday afternoon, with a bill made up entirely of old time vaudeville performers, who gave, in most cases, the numbers that helped to make them famous. Among the entertainers were Maggie Cline, Mrs. Annie Yeamans, Lottie Gilson, Ward and Curran, Gus Williams, Lydia Yeamans-Titus, Fields and Hanson, Bob Winstanley, Col. Sam Holsworth, and Luke Wilson.

William Rock and Maud Fulton made their vaudeville reappearance in New York yesterday at Hammerstein's Victoria Theatre, presenting a new singing and dancing specialty, assisted by a company of twelve people. Others on the programme were Montgomery and Moore, Edmund Hayes and company, Ray Cox, Charles F. Semon, Merrill and Otto, Oscar Loraine, Morris and Allen, Van Hoven, Copeland and Payton, Hall Brothers, Joe and Ella Dondlier, and Harrison and Buckley.

Princess Rajah in her Egyptian dances headed the programme at the Colonial Theatre. Paul Dickey and company appeared in "The Come Back," a college comedy, and others on the list were Cliff Gordon, McConnell and Simpson, Smith and Campbell, the Big City Four, the Four Bards, Arthur Froehlich, and the Daleys.

At the Alhambra Theatre the bill was headed by Irene Franklin, in her singing specialty, in which she is assisted by Burt Green. "A Night in an English Music Hall," with Billy Reeves, was another feature of the programme and other entertainers were Joseph Hart's company in "Honor Among Thieves," Simone de Beryl, Hoey and Lee, Avery and Hart, and the Sayton Trio.

"Everywife," played by Joseph Hart's company, was the feature of the bill at the Bronx Theatre, and Sam Chip and Mary Marble appeared in the sketch, "In Old Edam." Others on the programme were Clarice Vance, Luciano Lucca, the Harvey de Vora Trio, Meehan's Dogs, and the Musical Craigs.

"Madame Sherry," with Lina Abarbanell as the star in the role she originated, began a two weeks' engagement at the Broadway Theatre, Brooklyn, last night.

The Montauk Theatre, Brooklyn, has for the week's attraction Blanche Bates in "Nobody's Widow."

"The Lottery Man" is the offering of the Crescent Theatre stock company in Brooklyn.

"The Apple of Paris," a pantomime sketch, headed the bill at the Orpheum Theatre, Brooklyn, and other numbers on the programme were Frank Fogarty, Edgar Atchison-Ely and company, Joseph Hart's "Bathing Girls," and Stepp, Mehlinger and King.

At the Bushwick, Brooklyn, the programme consisted of the Four Mortons, the Thomas J. Ryan-Richfield company, Barry and Wolford, Jones and Deeley, the Six Musical Spillers, the Hanlon Brothers, and Ollie Young and April.

Swift & Company's sales of Fresh Beef in New York City for the week ending Saturday, Sept. 23, averaged 8.95 cents per pound.—Adv.

JOIN MORDKIN'S COMPANY.

Lopoukowa and Volonine, Who Left Miss Hoffmann, Are Rehearsing.

Lydia Lopoukowa and Alexander Volonine, who recently left Gertrude Hoffmann's company, have been engaged to appear as members of the Russian company which is under the direction of Max Rabinoff, and which includes Mikail Mordkin. The season will open at Hartford, Conn., on Monday, Oct. 9.

The répertoire will include Tschaikowsky's "Le Lac de Cygnes," Delibes's "Coppelia," Adam's "Giselle," two divertissements arranged by Mordkin, "The Legend of Azyiade" and the "Russian Wedding," and Glazunow's "The Seasons."

Active rehearsals of the ballets began yesterday at the Metropolitan Opera House. Several of the dancers have not yet arrived, but are expected this week and next. Vittorio Podesti will begin rehearsals of the orchestra on Monday.

THRONG AT MURPHY FUNERAL

Prominent Officials at Services for Brother of Charles F. Murphy.

The funeral of John J. Murphy, acting Democratic leader of the Twelfth Assembly District and brother of Charles F. Murphy, was held yesterday morning from his late residence, 309 East Seventeenth Street. The streets for blocks around were thronged with persons, all paying homage to the dead man. Hundreds of persons passed by the bier.

From the residence the body was taken to the Church of the Epiphany, Second Avenue and Twenty-first Street. The body was followed by a delegation of the members of the Anawanda Club and a line of carriages. A solemn requiem mass was said by Mgr. McMahon as celebrant, who was assisted by Fathers Ryan, Phelan, and Ludlow. There were three other Monsignors present—Edwards, Wall, and Lavelle.

There were many floral pieces, that filled four vehicles, among them pieces from the General Committee of Tammany Hall, the Anawanda Club, and many other social and political organizations with which Mr. Murphy had been associated.

In the first carriage were the three children of the dead man, John Murphy, Katherine Murphy, and May Murphy. They were accompanied by Charles F. Murphy.

From the church the body was taken down Second Avenue past the Anawanda Club, which was draped in black, to the Williamsburg Bridge, and across to Brooklyn and Calvary Cemetery.

There were many prominent persons present, among them Col. Edward Duffy, Percival Nagle, Police Captain Zimmerman, Judge Joseph F. Mulqueen, ex-Sheriff Griel, Commissioner of Charities Whitney, Deputy Commissioner of Records Samuel Prince, Police Captain Gannon, ex-Sheriff William J. O'Brien, Supreme Court Justice Giegerich, Judge Crain, Deputy State Fire Marshal Acritelli, Senator Timothy D. Sullivan, Larry Mulligan, Fire Commissioner Johnson, Deputy Fire Commissioner Olvany, Charles P. Dillon, Secretary to the State Highways Commission; ex-Police Chief Devery, Supreme Court Justice John J. Delany, Francis J. Lantry, ex-Fire Commissioner; former Borough President John E. Ahearn, ex-Senator Fitzgerald, ex-Senator Plunkett, Edward Boyle, Assemblyman Smith, Assemblyman Herrick, Justice Michael F. Blake, Thomas E. Rush, and Thomas Smith, Secretary of Tammany Hall.

The honorary pall bearers were Michael J. Cruise, ex-Sheriff Thomas Foley, Justice E. B. La Fetra, ex-Deputy Police Commissioner Thomas F. McAvoy, Frank Goodwin, Assemblyman James Foley, Philip Donohue, Justice Joseph F. Moss, James E. Gaffney, and Alderman William P. Kenneally.

Eustace de Cordova of the Stock Exchange firm of Ballard & De Cordova died yesterday morning at his apartments in the Hotel Ansonia, Seventy-third Street and Broadway, after a long illness. He is survived by four children, Cyril, Arthur, and Ethyl de Cordova, and Mrs. Edwin S. Brickner. The funeral will take place at the Ansonia to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock. Mr. de Cordova was a well-known figure in Wall Street for the last thirty years. Before the formation of his present firm three years ago, he was a member of the firm established by his late brother, Alfred de Cordova. Mr. de Cordova was well known in charitable circles and had a large acquaintanceship in New York. He was born in Kingston, Jamaica, sixty-two years ago.

Clarence E. Sherin.

Clarence E. Sherin, head of the C. E. Sherin Advertising Company, died on Saturday at St. Elizabeth's Hospital after an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Sherin was 47 years old and was born in Canada. He entered the advertising business in St. Paul, Minn. He was business manager of The Dispatch, and later purchased The St. Paul News. In 1894 he came to New York and founded the advertising agency. He was also the proprietor of the Repetti candy stores and a stockholder in other concerns. Mr. Sherin was a member of the New York Athletic Club and the Knights Templar. His home was in Bound Brook, N. J. He leaves a widow and two daughters, Mrs. Arthur Hetherington and Miss C. Eloise Sherin of Bound Brook.

Westchester's Oldest Woman Dead.

Mrs. Nicey Ann Coles, the oldest woman in Westchester County, died yesterday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jacob Smith of 54 Winchester Street, White Plains, aged 101 years. Mrs. Coles was born in Gooslin County, Va., Nov. 13, 1810. She was born in slavery and was a slave up to 1861. She had smoked a pipe nearly all her life. She recalled war-time scenes and could entertain cleverly with stories of the South before the days of the war and reconstruction. She is survived by two daughters.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 25.—The Giants waved the season's farewell to the Reds to-day at League Park, subjecting the home team to a 2 to 0 whitewash bath. It was the brilliancy of Otis Crandall on the mound and Arthur Fletcher at shortstop that pulled New York through the fray. The Giants' defensive work was sensational at times, but on the attack the team was uncommonly slow. On eleven healthy hits off Suggs New York was able to collect only two runs. They ran the bases with lead in their shoes. Three times with a runner at second, a hit carried them only to third base instead of to the plate.

Crandall pitched one of the best games of his career. His specialty in the past has been as a rescuer, and he hasn't been a reliable man to start a game. He was master of control and curves to-day and had the Reds rolling the ball along the carpet most of the time. Several times Cincinnati threatened trouble and then Crandall became as reliable as Gibraltar reinforced with concrete. He fanned two Reds and gave one pass. Cincinnati got five scattered hits, pummeled at times when they were of little use. Fletcher, at short, cleaned up his part of the infield like a vacuum cleaner and accepted nine chances without a slip. His most brilliant work was on his throws, hurling the ball time and again at Devlin, on first base, with cannon-ball speed and unerring marksmanship.

Larry McLean was one reason why the Giants' score was held so low. The big catcher made his first appearance in the series and his arm was never better. New York never had a chance to steal a base. Doyle, Murray, and Herzog tried it boldly enough, but were caught red-handed. Suggs kept the hits scattered fairly well, but Giants on the bases were forever falling into traps. Devore, one of the fleetest of the Giants, tried to score from second base on a single in the third inning, but was caught on Bescher's great throw. It required three resounding blows to give the Giants their first run in the third inning, and two hits and a sacrifice gave them the second run in the ninth inning. The other nine hits were worthless.

Suggs fanned five of the Giants during the eight innings he was in the game. He was taken out to let Marsans try his hand as a pinch hitter, but the Cuban fell victim to one of Fletcher's deadly throws. Fromme pitched the ninth inning and two raps off him by Snodgrass and Herzog, with Murray's sacrifice, gave New York its second tally.

Some fancy fielding by Herzog saved trouble for the Giants in the first inning. He knocked down hoppers by Bescher and Bates and threw them out at first base on lightning fast throws.

New York got into the running in the third inning. Fletcher chopped a single through second base and beat out Egan's toss. Meyers fanned and Suggs threw Crandall out. Fletcher went to third on Devore's smash to centre. Doyle cracked a single to short left field, scoring Herzog. Devore tried to score on the hit, but Bescher threw him out at the plate.

The Giants lost a rosy chance to count in the fifth inning. Herzog was safe on a teasing bunt and went to third base when Fletcher's grounder splashed through Almeida. Meyers struck out, and on a double steal Herzog was nipped at the plate. Crandall went down, Esmond to Hobby.

It was Fletcher's turn to save the Giants from the rocks in the sixth inning. With two out, Herzog scooped up Hoblitzel's bunt and almost threw the ball out of the league, Hobby going to second. Bates walked and slugger Mike Mitchell was up. He shot a grounder through the box, Fletcher making a fine one-handed stab and nailing the runner at first with a rifle-ball throw.

More Giant hits went to seed in the eighth inning. With one gone, Meyers smashed a two-bagger to left field. Crandall singled to left, but Meyers couldn't get beyond third base. Devore flied to Bates in short centre and Meyers was still anchored at third base. The best Doyle could do was to balloon to Bescher.

ADVANCING ON THE REAL ENEMY

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 25.—The Reds do not expect any more big crowds this season. They are already tearing down the grand stand.

Griffith's record still stands. Umpire Klem had to chase him back to the bench to-day for kicking, nipping a huge grouch just as it was budding. Never was a Giant series when Griff wasn't "tinned."

Two out of three over the Rhine from Zinzinnati satisfies McGraw. It wasn't a picnic here, though.

Rube Marquard will appear on the stage in "Way Down East." He'll play the slick city chap with the oily voice and the stylish clothes. Rube's great success as a pitcher is accompanied by a cluster of sparklers from the Kimberley mines. When he wears the stones he looks like a Lenox local.

Merkle's bad ankle began to bother him in the second inning to-day, and he had to give way to Devlin.

The Giants went to Chicago late to-night, and will have a day of rest to-morrow before tackling the Cubs.

When this Cub series is over there will be no doubt who will win the pennant.

Josh Devore's father saw him play yesterday. After the game he said Josh showed a lot more speed on the bases than he did as a boy, running errands.

After the way the Giants have been galloping the bases it doesn't look like the same team when the runners move over the paths like a lot of snails.

When the medals are being passed around pin a couple on Arthur Fletcher. Nothing like his work has been uncorked here this season.

Cubs Beat Boston in Close Game.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Chicago gained one point on New York to-day in the pennant race by defeating Boston 6 to 5. The deciding run was the result of Boston's lone error, a stolen base, and a single. The other runs made by the locals were the outcome of two bases on balls, a sacrifice, and bunched hits. Richie started to pitch for Chicago, but his wildness resulted in two runs, one of which was forced home. Cole succeeded Richie, and three singles and a wild pitch gave the visitors two more runs. Another single and a base on balls resulted in Brown being called upon to pitch. A sacrifice off Brown gave Boston another run. The game was featured by sensational fielding by Sweeney, Doyle, and Miller, Kirke carrying off the batting honors. Cy Young, the veteran pitcher, worked for Boston, pitching his first game on the West Side grounds, and got a warm reception from the small crowd. Two games were scheduled for to-day, but the first was called off on account of wet grounds. Score:

RUCKER CLEVER IN PINCHES.

Brooklyn's Star Pitcher Prevents Pirates Scoring Enough Runs to Win.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Sept. 25.—Brooklyn to-day, for the second time in the present series, defeated Pittsburgh, 5 to 4. Pittsburgh used four pitchers and three pinch hitters during the game. Rucker pitched the full game for the visitors. Brooklyn won in the fourth inning, when they scored three runs off Hendrix, who was relieved after two men had faced him, each getting a hit. Ferry finished the inning. Several times Pittsburgh had chances to win, but each time was frustrated by Rucker. Score:

Time of game—One hour and fifty-eight minutes.

Vice President James S. Sherman, baseball's second greatest fan, made another trip to the Hilltop yesterday in spite of what he saw last Wednesday, when the Yankees hooked up in a nightmare with the Cleveland Naps, and was rewarded with some real baseball. Incidentally, the V. P. kept score of the game and did not leave until it was over. The foghorn yells of, "Can't tell the players without a score card! Get a score card!" were never so true as during the present home stay of the Yankees, and the Vice President took no chance of getting mixed up on the players' names. The team has undergone several shifts since Mr. Sherman's last visit, even though the visit occurred less than a week ago, and even Hal Chase has to keep his eyes glued to a score card these days to remember who is playing. Yesterday the Yankee line-up was treated to its twelfth shift in as many games, and this time it proved a winner. The Yanks trimmed the White Sox, 7 to 3.

Curry, the second baseman secured by the Yankees from the Tri-State League, arrived here yesterday, just at a time when it seemed that Manager Chase had reached the limit of his shifting possibilities. The newcomer made possible at least one more change, so he was sent in to relieve Earl Gardner at second base. He took care of what came his way in the field, but had nothing of a difficult nature. He did nothing with the stick.

The Sox had a shade on the Yankees in stickwork, but their hits were not as timely, and the home team was favored by passes and errors. Every Yankee hit counted for a run. Chase's men grabbed two hits in the first inning, two in the third, and one in the fourth, seventh, and eighth innings. The score shows an equal number of runs per inning for every New York hit, and in the innings when the Yankees went hitless they also went runless. Duffy used three pitchers. Scott was ineffective, Hovlik was wild, but able to keep down the runs, and Lange did not have much of a chance to display his wares, as he worked in only one inning. Jimmy Callahan, in the rôle of a pinch hitter, crowded Hovlik from the battle in the eighth inning. Fisher went the full route for the Yankees, and had little difficulty in holding down the Sox.

The Sox got nothing in the opening chapter, although McConnell led off with a single to left. He went out on an attempted steal, and the next two batsmen were easy victims. Then Daniels gave the Yankees an auspicious start by driving the first ball pitched to the right-field fence for a home run. Dolan fouled out to Block, but Wolter was patient, and drew a pass. He skipped along to third base on Cree's slam to left and scored while Birdie was being run down by Collins, Tannehill, and McConnell after starting out for a double steal.

Both teams behaved in the second inning, and then proceeded to get noisy in the third. After Collins had been shelved in the Sox half, Block hit to right field, Scott breezed out, and McConnell hit to left, putting Block on second. Lord dropped a sizzler into centre field and Block drifted across with Chicago's first counter. Williams muffed Wolter's return to the plate, and McConnell and Lord were on third and second bases, respectively, when the ball was recovered. Matty McIntyre lost a chance to shine by loffing a foul fly to Cree.

Two more runs were picked up by the Yankees in this inning. Fisher started things with a single to right and moved up on Daniels's out, Lord to Collins. Dolan walked, and Wolter singled to right, scoring Fisher and putting Dolan on third base. On Cree's short drive to Lord, Dolan started for home, and was declared safe after a pretty slide which completely fooled Catcher Block.

The Yankees picked up another run in the fourth inning. With one out, Curry walked and Williams singled to centre. The ball trickled away from Ping Bodie, and Curry finished his journey, Williams reaching second.

The Sox got their second run in the sixth inning. Lord reached first after swinging at a wild pitch for his third strike, and took two more bases on McIntyre's drive to centre. Lord scored while Hartzell, Curry, and Knight were doubling up McIntyre and Bodie. The last Chicago run came in the eighth inning, and was the result of McConnell's third single and a triple by Lord.

A pass to Dolan, steals of second and third bases, and a single by Cree gave the Yankees a run in the seventh inning, and they picked up another in the eighth. Knight got two bases on errors by Tannehill and Collins and scored on Williams's single.

Detroit Bunches Hits and Wins.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Sept. 25.—Detroit won the second game of the series here to-day, 6 to 3. The visitors scored all their runs in two innings by mixing four of their five singles with four passes, a double steal by Gainor and Stanage, and two sacrifice flies. Mullin, who received perfect support, kept the home players' hits scattered to one per inning, and Philadelphia's total was kept down despite the fact that the seven safeties included a home run, two doubles, and a pair of triples. The batting of Crawford and Collins featured the hitting. McInnis left the game after being hit on the wrist by a pitched ball, but he was not seriously hurt. Score:

210 TIGER FRESHMEN OUT.

Half of Entering Class Answers Call for Major Sports at Princeton.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 25.—Two hundred and ten freshmen, representing half the entering class at Princeton, to-day answered calls for football, track, and baseball. Sixty freshies, more than the entire 'Varsity squad, reported for football, and "Nubs" Harland, '08, freshman coach this year, was at a loss as to how to use them.

Carnegie Lake presented a sight never before witnessed there. 110 reported for the 'Varsity and 1915 crews, and 70 of these were freshmen. Dr. J. Duncan Spaeth, Bob Roche, '11; last year's 'Varsity Captain, Capt. Rauch and Higgins gave each man work, most of them at the machines.

On the diamond fifty freshmen were at work with "Bill" Clark at the coaching helm, and the youngsters were shown up in great shape with Shorty Peacock, Class President and former Lawrenceville athlete, starring at second base. Peacock led his "prep." school team in batting. Thirty-five reported for track and cross-country, Capt. Koehler leading the way over a short course.

Girls in Athletic Council.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Sept. 25.—By their enthusiasm for baseball and other outdoor sports, the girls of the Montclair High School have secured representation in the athletic association of the school. Heretofore that privilege has been denied them. Last Spring, however, the girls organized a baseball team, and having won honors at basket ball during the Winter, the male students at the opening of the term this year decided to admit them to their athletic councils. When the decision of the male students was announced there was great enthusiasm among the girls, and they elected Miss Elizabeth Smith as their delegate. Miss Constance Roosevelt was chosen manager of the basket ball team, which is expected to win honors again this season.

WOMEN GOLFERS COMPETE AT DEAL

Mrs. Barlow of Philadelphia Makes Lowest Qualification Round Score.

Mrs. R. H. Barlow of Philadelphia outplayed her field in the qualifying round of an invitation tournament at the Deal Golf and Country Club yesterday. The champion of the Women's Eastern Golf Association went out in 52 and home in 43 for a 95, eight strokes better than her closest rival, Miss F. H. Rosenheim, the Deal record holder, who took 103. Handsome prizes have been offered by the entertaining club, and the programme calls for three eights.

Because of the extreme length of the Deal course, combined with the soft nature of the turf, low scoring was almost out of the question, and the wonder is that Mrs. Barlow got around as well as she did, especially as it was the first time she had ever seen the links. Third on the list was Miss E. L. Chandler, another Philadelphian, who played with Mrs. Barlow and got around in 104. Mrs. V. M. Earle, who was runner-up to Miss Lillian B. Hyde in the metropolitan championship tournament at Scarsdale last Spring, could not do better than 107.

Mrs. Barlow went out in 52, which included 8 for the seventh hole. She also got trapped at the short eighth hole, taking 6. After a 7 at No. 10 green, Mrs. Barlow made few mistakes, her finish in 4, 3, 4 being particularly good. The card was as follows:

Out ....5 6 5 5 6 4 8 6 7—52
In ....7 5 6 4 4 6 4 3 4—43—95

In addition to the first match round to-day there will be a medal play handicap. The scores:

First Eight.—Mrs. R. H. Barlow, Merion, 95; Miss F. H. Rosenheim, Deal, 103; Miss E. L. Chandler, Huntingdon Valley, 104; Mrs. V. M. Earle, Deal, 107; Mrs. H. B. Goldsmith, Hollywood, 111; Mrs. C. W. Rendigs, Midland, 111; Miss Louise Bijur, Hollywood, 111, and Mrs. F. T. Hayes, Englewood, 112.

Second Eight.—Mrs. E. S. Bayer, Deal, 114; Mrs. E. A. Hellman, Hollywood, 114; Mrs. C. L. Greenhall, Hollywood, 119; Mrs. William Erdmann, Hollywood, 126; Miss Florence Riley, Deal, 126; Mrs. C. H. Terhune, Deal, 126; Miss J. Ferrelly, Englewood, 127, and Mrs. P. W. Kendall, Deal, 133.

Third Division.—Mrs. Henry Zuckerman, Belgrade, 133; Mrs. W. W. Vaughn, Hollywood, 136; Mrs. F. C. Clark, Deal, 152; Mrs. M. F. Smith, unattached, 153; Mrs. E. B. Davis, Deal, 154, and Mrs. J. M. Byrne, Deal, 161.

EVANS WINS GOLF CUP.

Western Crack Defeats F. A. Martin for Ekwanok Honors.

Special to The New York Times.

MANCHESTER, Vt., Sept. 25.—In the final thirty-six-hole match for the Equinox Golf Cup at Ekwanok Country Club to-day Charles Evans, Jr., of Edgewater defeated F. A. Martin of Ekwanok by three up and two to play. It was the fourth time in four years that Martin had played in the final of this event, he having won on one occasion and lost twice before.

Evans had the better of the match from the start, and at the sixteenth green in the morning event he was four up. A three at the seventeenth, which is a par four, and a five at the eighteenth left the morning result at two up for the Chicagoan.

A stymie at the first hole and another on the fifth, where Evans's ball lay so close to the hole that Martin sent it in in trying to overcome the difficulty, increased Evans's lead to four again. Martin won at the sixth green, but lost the next two, giving Evans a lead of five holes for the first time. After losing at the tenth hole and winning the twelfth hole Evans was five up again, and as the thirteenth was halved in four, he stood dormie. Martin won the fourteenth with a stroke to spare as Evans was twice in difficulty, and a par four gave him the fifteenth hole. The sixteenth was halved in bogie five and the match ended with the result 3 and 2. The summary:

Final, Thirty-six Holes for Equinox Cup.—Charles Evans, Jr., Edgewater, defeated F. A. Martin, Ekwanok, 3 and 2.

Second Sixteen, Thirty-six Holes.—F. C. Davidson, Harvard, defeated H. W. Brown, Philadelphia C. C., 9 and 8.

Third Sixteen, Eighteen Holes.—H. N. McKinney, Philadelphia C. C., defeated E. W. Fiske, Oakdale, 8 and 7.

Fourth Sixteen.—H. F. Forster, Ekwanok, defeated J. F. Wacker, Ekwanok, 1 up, 19 holes.

Losing Eight, First Sixteen, Thirty-six Holes.—George Morse, Apawamis, defeated P. Waterman, Ekwanok, 1 up.

Losing Eight, Second Sixteen, Thirty-six Holes.—J. L. Given, Ekwanok, defeated T. Halsell, Dallas, 2 and 1.

Losing Eight, Third Sixteen, Eighteen Holes.—George Orvis, Garden City, defeated R. C. Stanley, Richmond County, 3 and 2.

Eighteen-Hole Handicap.—A. M. Reed, Albany C. C., 80—0—80; F. T. Clark, Harvard, 82—plus 2—84; G. Scott, Philadelphia C. C., 91—4—87; C. M. Clark, Philadelphia C. C., 88—0—88; C. S. Pinkney, Montclair, 102—12—90; G. H. Wood, Lambton G. C., 105—12—93.

Dankelman Beats Lauderbach.

J. Dankelman, playing for New York, easily defeated Dave Lauderbach, Brooklyn's representative, in last night's game of the Greater New York three-cushion carrom billiard tournament decided at Keeney's Knickerbocker Billiard Academy in Brooklyn. The score at the end of the forty-fifth inning found the New York player in the lead by the score of 35 to 30. Dankelman had a five-point advantage over Lauderbach, he having to make only thirty-five points, while the Brooklyn player was tallying forty. Dankelman's high runs were five and four, while Lauderbach made the high run of five twice. J. M. Millette will represent Brooklyn in the game to be decided at John Doyle's Forty-second Street Billiard Academy this evening.

BURMAN'S WORLD'S RECORD.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 25.—Bob Burman established a new world's circular dirt track record for twenty miles by driving his 110-horsepower Benz car over the distance in the remarkable time of 17 minutes and 57 2-5 seconds, lowering the former record of 18:04 held by Barney Oldfield, at Milwaukee. Burman's performance was at the average speed of 0:53 3-5 for the mile.

The speed king also lowered the Michigan State record for the five miles, traveling the distance in 4:31. In the match race, with Judy Kilpatrick at the wheel of the Hotchkiss car, Burman again had easy sailing, and won handily.

Chairman S. M. Butler of the Contest Board of the A. A. A. was present and officiated at the races.

Americans' Horses Win Four Races.

MAISONS-LAFFITTE, France, Sept. 25.—American-owned race horses carried off four of the events run off at to-day's meeting here. CHURCHILL TO STOP JOHNSON-WELLS BOUT

Promoter Must Abandon Fight or He Will Be Summoned for Breach of Peace.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—As a result of the agitation conducted by the Rev. F. B. Meyer, Home Secretary Churchill to-day declared that the proposed Jack Johnson-Bombardier Wells fight, which is to be held here on Oct. 2, is illegal, and unless Promoter White voluntarily abandons it summons will be issued against him to show cause why he should not be bound over to keep the peace.

White to-night declared that he has no intention of abandoning the contest, and legal proceedings probably will be begun to-morrow. White will be at liberty to call evidence and prove that the contest is not illegal, and after hearing both sides the Magistrate will decide whether he will bind the promoter over or not. Even if the Magistrate should decide to do so and the contest is proceeded with, no subsequent legal action will be taken unless a technical breach of peace occurs. The magisterial proceedings are likely to be the biggest test case on boxing on English record. If the Johnson-Wells match is held to be illegal, hundreds of other contests conducted under similar conditions must also be considered illegal. A meeting of leading boxing interests has been called for to-morrow afternoon. Johnson has transferred his training quarters to Whetstone, but today didn't get much work done, as he was engaged in London. Most of the afternoon was taken up in signing an agreement with Wells to box under National Sporting Club instead of Marquis of Queensberry rules.

BOXING BOARD MEETS

And That's About All It Did Until Dixon Sees the Governor.

Major John Dixon, the stand-out member of the State's Boxing Commission, again held up the proceedings of the board yesterday when it met for a supposedly final decision on the case of the Madison Square Athletic Club's lease of Madison Square Garden. Notwithstanding the fact that at the previous meeting of the commission on Friday the announcement was made that the commission would meet again on Monday, when the Madison Square Garden matter would be settled, Major Dixon yesterday hadn't yet made up his mind what he would do.

In his failure to act in conjunction with his colleague, Frank S. O'Neil, Dixon ignored the expressed wish of Gov. Dix as conveyed to him by Commissioner O'Neil and the Governor's Secretary, John A. Mason, by refusing to vote at this time for the revocation of the boxing license held by the Madison Square Athletic Club. Major Dixon is not doing this in defiance of the Governor, he explained, nor does he mean to take the position that he will not ultimately vote with the other Commissioner to take away the license, but before taking any further action he wants to talk the situation over with the Governor. He said:

"I shall go to see the Governor tomorrow, and when I return I hope this question of the Madison Square Athletic Club will be cleared up and settled."

It was explained that the license of Tom O'Rourke's National Sporting Club in West Forty-fourth Street was revoked because the lease was not in conformity with the law. It is said that the club has since made a new lease and will again file an application for a license, which the commission will consider.

LEACH CROSS BEATEN.

East Sider Tries to Stall, but Tommy Maloney Makes Him Fight.

Leach Cross, the east side dentist-pugilist, was humiliated before a crowd of about 1,500 last night in the star bout of the Fordham A. C. by Tommy Maloney, the west side lightweight, who gave him a severe trouncing.

The contest was a slashing ten-round affair, and furnished spectacular boxing from the start to finish, but most of it was done by Maloney, who on more than one occasion had Leach in bad shape. Cross, as usual, tried to fool both the crowd and his opponent by attempting to stall in two of the rounds, but his work was quickly noticed, and Maloney took advantage of the opportunity by forcing him to fight back.

Maloney had the honors in six of the ten sessions by carrying the work to Cross and getting in the best punches. Cross landed several stinging left-hand jabs and pounded Maloney's head with choppy rights at one time, which threw Tommy off his balance, but never had him in real danger.

Maloney showed to better advantage in the first round by forcing the work to his opponent, and appeared to have the jump on the east sider from the start. In the third round, the second ending on even terms, Leach showed a flash of his old-time speed, and fought back in great style, getting the advantage in the round. The fourth round was slow, as both boys rested after the fast pace of the preceding round, but Maloney did the forcing and was entitled to the round. Maloney got his short left stabs working in the clinches during the fourth round, and ripped them over in the clinches, which hurt Leach, and made him try and stall in order to get a rest. He did not succeed, and Maloney kept after him during the round, landing some good short rights to the jaw in the clinches. At the close Cross broke loose and swung wild, but did little damage.

After the sixth round Leach began to hit the downward path, and after being mauled all over the ring a series of right-hand uppercuts from Maloney brought the blood from his nose. He again resorted to stalling tactics in the seventh round, but met with little success, Maloney boring right in and refusing to give him a chance.

In the last three rounds the east sider tried hard to even up the score by fighting as fast as he was able, but at all times Maloney came back and fought him on even terms, and landed the better blows in the eighth and ninth rounds. In the last round Cross made a grand-stand finish, after being on the receiving end throughout, and had the advantage of the round by a safe margin.

TROTTER KILLED IN RACE.

Pansy Silver Jumps Fence at Columbus—Driver Escapes Injury.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 25.—The Fall trotting meeting of the Columbus Driving Association to-day brought out a small crowd. The event of the day was the tragic death of Pansy Silver, the chestnut mare which won a six-heat race at Detroit last week. In the tedious scoring for the second heat she was in the bunch next to the rail on the back stretch when she suddenly jumped the fence and was killed in an instant. Her driver escaped uninjured.

The Horse Review Futurity for three-year-old pacers was the largest purse on the card, and brought out a field of four. Fred De Forest was the favorite, but his half-sister, Miss De Forest, won in straight heats easily.

Dudie Archdale was made a strong favorite in the 2:07 trot, and the Geers mare won handily in straight heats. A field of ten turned out for the 2:19 trot, with Pansy Silver a big favorite. Hanna Louise won two heats handily, and then Oakdale, which had finished far back, came with a rush and took the next three and the race. The 2:09 pace was unfinished on account of darkness. Ella M. won the first heat in the fastest mile of the day, 2:04¾. The summaries:

Bouts in Rink To-night.

The Twentieth Century Athletic Club will present at its show at St. Nicholas Rink, Sixty-sixth Street and Broadway, to-night, young Nitchie of Philadelphia, the "Quaker Cyclone," and Harry Stone, the clever west side Ghetto champion. Teddy Murphy of New England will box Frankie Callahan of New York in a ten-round contest. Artie Edwards of Jersey City will appear against Banty Lewis, the hard-hitting bantam of Newark, and "K. O." Eger of this city, who recently fought Kid Herman at Madison Square Garden, will again box young Alberts of Jersey City. Jim Carney, the new "white dope" of Ridgefield Park, N. J., will also be tried out against Sailor White.

Thompson and Papke Matched.

Special to The New York Times.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 25.—The West Side Athletic Club of New Orleans, through its representatives here, to-night offered a purse or percentage for a twenty-round championship contest between "Cyclone" Johnny Thompson and Billy Papke, at the middleweight limit. Thompson was here to-night and accepted the terms.

Daly and De Oro to Play.

Oct. 10, 11, and 12 are the dates that have been arranged for the three-cushion carrom billiard championship match, when John Daly, the holder of the title, will defend his laurels against Alfred De Oro, the Cuban expert, at John Doyle's Forty-second Street Billiard Academy. The winner of the match must make 150 points in the three nights' of play, fifty points each night. The contestants will play for $250 a side and the Lambert Trophy.

Tennis at Jamaica Estates Club.

Through the efforts of the Tournament Committee of the Jamaica Estates Club a number of tennis players of National reputation will take part in a special event on the grounds of the club Sept. 30. Among those who have agreed to take part in the matches to be decided are C. R. Gardner, G. F. Touchard, L. E. Mahan, T. R. Pell, R. D. Little, C. M. Bull, Jr., and H. C. Martin. The complete details of the series will probably not be arranged until the morning of the matches. Both singles and doubles will be decided, and handsome prizes awarded by the tennis Captain of the club, former Lieut. Gov. Woodruff.

Middies Begin Football Campaign.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 25.—Football got its real start for 1911 at the Naval Academy this afternoon with the return of fifty members of last year's squad, to which were added about twenty-five of the best men the new fourth class yielded. The old men practiced kicking, passing, and running for half an hour, and the fourth class men, who have been at work for half a month, were lined up for a lively quarter of an hour scrimmage. The team will be gradually worked into some sort of shape for the opening game against Johns Hopkins on Oct. 7, but there will be no special preparation for any game except the final contest against the Army team. Every member of the squad, including Rodes, the full back, who was not in the best of condition toward the close of last year, appeared to be in excellent physical shape.

No Sunday Baseball in Tennessee.

NASHVILE, Tenn., Sept. 25.—Tennessee's law prohibiting the playing of baseball games on Sunday was declared constitutional in the Davidson County Criminal Court by Judge Neil to-day. There were thirty-five cases on the docket. Manager William Schwartz of the Nashville team was tried on agreed statement of facts. The case will be taken to the Supreme Court.

NOTES OF THE BOXERS.

Three ten-round bouts are carded for to-night's show at the Brighton Beach A. C., Surf Avenue and West Seventeenth Street, Coney Island. The main event will bring together Honey Mellody, the former welterweight star, and Jimmy Mitchen of Brooklyn. The other bouts will be: Young Solsberg vs. Young Andrews of New Orleans, and Tommy McDonough vs. Jack Gotch of Buffalo.

Young Wagner is training at Johnson's Roadhouse for his bout with Frankie Burns at the Twentieth Century A. C. Friday night. Burns is working out at Allenhurst, N. J. The club has announced that the winner will be matched with Champion Johnny Coulon if Johnny can be brought to this city.

Knockout Brown is again in training, this time for his match with Tommy Ginty of Scranton before the Twentieth Century A. C. next Tuesday night. Ginty is training at Coney Island and seems confident of victory. Brown hopes to win decisively, and thereby settle the question of superiority which arose after the recent clash with Ginty at Scranton.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL SCRIMMAGES BEGIN

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 25.—With a stiff twenty-minute scrimmage to-day, Yale's active preparation closed for the opening match of the season with Wesleyan here Wednesday. The 'Varsity was forced to fight till the last minute for the only score of the afternoon, and this was made possible only by a careless punt by Anderson, the scrub full back, who kicked from behind his own goal directly in front of the goal posts, instead of to one side. Capt. Howe registered a fair catch and Pete Francis lifted a goal from placement neatly between the uprights.

Capt. Howe missed a beautiful try for a field goal from a drop kick at the forty-yard line. The 'Varsity was held on downs at the scrubs' ten-yard mark, and a forward pass went wrong, making three setbacks before the regulars scored.

The 'Varsity back field was shaken up, Spaulding, full back of the scrubs, being promoted to right half back on the 'Varsity and Philbin moving to full back. Reilly retained left half back. Warren was given right tackle in place of Charley Paul, whose foot was injured in the practice game with the second eleven Saturday. It is feared that Paul will be out of the play two weeks. His instep was badly lacerated when some opposing player stepped on his foot. It was not discovered till to-day that his injury was serious. Warren played guard for the freshmen last year, but has been at end most of this season.

Five elevens were formed to-day for the signal practice which preceded the scrimmage. Clarence Childs, Captain of the track team and guard last year, and Henry Merritt, Captain of the baseball nine and candidate for quarter back, reported this afternoon. New coaches to-day included Tad Jones, one of Yale's most famous quarter backs, and Clarence Olcott, the former end.

SCRIMMAGE FOR HARVARD.

'Varsity Scores Three Touchdowns—Fifty-seven Freshmen Out.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 25.—The Harvard football squad engaged in its first scrimmage of the early practice season on Soldiers' Field late to-day, nearly every candidate getting into the line-up during the afternoon. The two squads kept up the work for fifty minutes, the 'Varsity getting three touchdowns in the first twenty minutes of play. Halfback Campbell scored the first touchdown.

The Harvard freshmen came out for the first time to-day, an unusually heavy array of fifty-seven men showing up. There were many former scholastic stars among the candidates, and the material is the most promising for a strong freshman team in years.

SOCIETY "ROOTS" AT POLO.

Philadelphia C. C. Freebooters Beat Great Neck for Manhasset Cups.

Special to The New York Times.

GREAT NECK, L. I., Sept. 25.—A fast and exciting polo match was played on Grace Field this afternoon when the Great Neck team played against the Philadelphia Country Club Freebooters in the semi-final match for the Manhasset Cups. The total handicap of the teams was 12 each, which placed them on an even footing. Philadelphia won, 8 to 6½.

From the first tap of the timer's bell, the game was fast and furious. So hard did the home team work that Milburn crossed Huhn, which penalized his team a half goal. The ball was then carried up and down field for some time, neither side scoring, and it was forty-five seconds overplay before Schwartz finally scored the only goal of the period. Each side made one in the second period, and in the third the Freebooters scored the only goal made.

In the fourth and fifth periods no goals were scored, both teams playing as though their lives depended on victory. That there were few fouls was fortunate as there was much reckless riding indulged in by both sides. The large crowd of society spectators were much excited over the game, and rushed up and down the side lines shouting encouragement to the home team.

Excitement ran high at the end of the sixth period when the score was a tie. At the end of the seventh period the Freebooters had forged ahead two more goals.

In the first minute of play in the eighth period Great Neck scored twice and were looked upon as the winners, but the Freebooters scored again, and the half goal against the home team spoiled their chances.

The final will be played on Wednesday for the Manhasset Cups, and on Friday the final of the Great Neck Second Cup will end the tournament. The summary:

PHILADELPHIA C. C.	H'cap.	GREAT NECK.	H'cap.
1—A. C. Schwartz	1	1—W. R. Grace	2
2—Walter McClure	3	2—Arthur McClure	2
3—W. H. T. Huhn	4	3—H. Hadden	4
Back—C. R. Snowden	4	Back—J. G. Milburn, Jr.	4
Total	12	Total	12

Freebooters—By earned goals, 8. Great Neck—By earned goals, 7, less ½ goal for foul. Total—6½ goals. Played eight periods of seven and one-half minutes each. Referee—H. H. Holmes. Scorer—E. J. Smith.

ON THE TENNIS COURTS.

Local tennis enthusiasts will have a chance next week of witnessing the crack women players in the annual metropolitan championship for women, announced to begin on the courts of the West Side Tennis Club Oct. 2. It has been stated that among the players will be Miss Hazel Hotchkiss, the National champion. Miss Florence Sutton will also play, and it will be the last appearance in the East of the California girl. The Eastern cracks who are expected to be on hand to test the speed of the visitors are Mrs. Barger Wallach, Miss Marie Wagner, the National indoor champion, and Miss Lois Noyes, the Canadian player. Those in charge of the tournament are Miss Elsie Little, Miss Edna Wildey, and Miss Elizabeth H. Moore. Miss Elizabeth C. Bunce, who lives at 68 East Seventy-seventh Street, will have charge of the entries this year, and in order to be eligible players must have their entries in on or before Saturday. The events will be women's singles and doubles and mixed doubles.

The New York A. C. championship has made capital progress since Saturday, and the draw now shows that the semi-final round is complete. On the top section Langdon H. Roper is bracketed with L. B. Le Duc, and in the lower half Dr. Arthur G. Keane is coupled with B. S. Dennis. Each one of this quartet had the easiest sort of a time in gaining his place. Dennis smothered H. S. Lyons in two love sets, and Keane allowed Roper only one game out of the thirteen necessary to earn the verdict, the score in favor of the doctor being 6—0, 6—1. Le Duc eliminated Leon with the tally of 6—1, 6—2, and Roper's score over Chilton was 6—1, 6—0. The Class B handicap singles was won by A. E. Thomas. The summary:

Men's Singles.—Second Round—A. Leon, Jr., defeated M. Garrettson, 6—8, 7—5, 6—4; B. S. Dennis defeated L. J. Nolan, 6—4, 6—1.

Third Round—B. S. Dennis defeated H. S. Lyons, 6—0, 6—0; Dr. Arthur G. Keane defeated C. Ropes, 6—0, 6—1; L. B. Le Duc defeated A. Leon, Jr., 6—1, 6—2; L. H. Roper defeated T. Chilton, 6—1, 6—0.

Class B Handicap, Men's Singles.—First Round—Thomas, plus 15 3-6, defeated Pulley, plus 15 1-6, 6—4, 3—6, 7—5; Hines, plus 3-6 of 15, defeated Lyons, scratch, 6—1, 7—5.

Second Round—Platt, plus 15, defeated Bolton, plus 15 3-6, by default; Cowperthwait, scratch, defeated Brown, plus 30 3-6, by default; Hurtsell, plus 15 3-6, defeated Cox, scratch, by default; Thomas, plus 15 3-6, defeated Harley, scratch, by default; Hines, plus 3-6 of 15, defeated Sheehan, scratch, by default; Morchauser, plus 15, defeated Seeback, scratch, 6—1, 6—4; Garrettson, plus 15, defeated Leon, scratch, 6—4, 0—6, 6—2; Wasserman, scratch, defeated Norden, plus 15, 6—3, 6—2.

Third Round—Platt defeated Cowperthwait, by default; Thomas defeated Hurtsell, by default; Hines defeated Morchauser, 6—2, 8—6; Garrettson defeated Wasserman, 8—6, 6—1.

Semi-final Round—Thomas defeated Platt, 5—7, 6—4, 6—3; Hines defeated Garrettson, 6—1, 4—6, 6—3.

Final Round—Thomas defeated Hines, 7—5, 5—6, 6—2.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Further Big Break in Stocks Is Followed by Sudden Recovery.

TOBACCO SETTLEMENT HELPS

Evidence of Large Volume of Short Selling in Yesterday's Break.

After a dip which carried leading stocks down from 2 to 6 points yesterday, the market ended a very heavy day's trading with net losses of from 1 to 2 points extending through practically the entire list. As usual, a large number of new low prices were registered before the upward swing set in.

The opening of the market was irregular, with many issues showing net losses of a point or less. This was considered disappointing, in view of the absence of further bad news of importance, but it contained no indication of the underlying weakness which was soon disclosed. Before noon a sudden increase in activity, bringing large selling orders, caught the market unprepared and pushed prices down very suddenly. Little resistance was offered, and for a time it looked as though speculative panic was imminent. With the news of a practical agreement among the Tobacco conferrees and the expectation of a more reassuring statement to come from Attorney General Wickersham, the market made a quick turn and prices were carried back on a rally over much of the ground lost earlier in the day. There was a total of 1,456,196 shares dealt in, which proved a record in point of activity since June 30, 1910. Trading in Steel furnished a relatively smaller part of the transactions yesterday, the total for this issue being 402,950 shares.

The weakness of the Steel issues spread through almost the entire list. At the low point of the market around 11:30 Amalgamated Copper was off 4⅛ points from Saturday's close. Beet Sugar sold down 4⅜ points, American Cotton Oil 4¾, American Smelters 3¼, Consolidated Gas 2¾, Reading 5, and Steel common 4⅝. The last-named issue sold down to 51⅝. The railroad list behaved little better; Atchison at par was 2⅝ below Saturday's close, while St. Paul touched 117¾, a drop of 4 points, Great Northern 119, a drop of 3 points, Northern Pacific 111, a drop of 3¼ points, and Reading 134, a drop of 5 points. Liquidation in Union Pacific, which had been less in evidence lately, with the concentration of interest in Steel, forced that stock down yesterday to 153⅝, which represented a decline of 6⅛ points for the day. With the rally in the afternoon the largest part of these losses was made up.

It is a question as to how much of the selling in the past few days has been contributed by investors made uneasy by the business outlook and the threatened action of the Department of Justice, and how much by speculative interests who have taken advantage of the technical weakness of this market and indulged in heavy short selling. The quick upturn toward the close of the trading session yesterday was taken to mean that the short interests had begun buying to take their profits. The immediate cause of the swing was the receipt of buying orders for 100,000 shares from a large brokerage house which had previously been a heavy seller.

The threatened war over Tripoli was without influence and was more than offset by the improvement in the Moroccan situation. The somewhat premature announcement of the settlement of the Tobacco dissolution question exercised a good influence, and when Attorney General Wickersham said that he might issue a statement on his policies later in the day the traders immediately decided that he was to attempt to correct a wrong impression conveyed by his partly repudiated interview of last Saturday.

The opinion was prevalent yesterday that the organized support which is usually rendered by leading bankers when the market threatens to become demoralized has been entirely lacking so far. Commission houses are carrying fewer stocks than they have in years past, and the banks are so well supplied with money that there appears to be no reason for outside support. Yesterday's big break in prices caused much less disturbance than would have been inevitable a few months ago, and the quick rally following it was thought to indicate that a large share of the selling which broke prices came from speculators who realized the weak position of stocks.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

RECOVER FROM LOW LEVELS

Few Stocks Fall to Regain at Least Part of Day's Losses Before Close—Intercontinental Rubber at 14¾.

Curb stocks made substantial declines yesterday on heavy selling, but there were in most instances recoveries which left the prices at the close substantially above the low levels of the day. Intercontinental Rubber declined to a new low record at 14¾, after opening at 16¾. The close was at the low price. Braden Copper was one of the most active of the coppers, reporting transactions of 5,000 shares on which the price dropped from 4½ to 3 15-16. The close was at 4. Giroux sold off from 3 7-16 to 3⅛, closing at 3 7-16, even with the opening, after sales of 2,000 shares. Greene-Cananea sold off from 6 to 5⅝, and Inspiration, after selling between 6 and 5⅝, closed at 5⅞, which was the opening price. The old Heinze stocks, Ohio and United Copper, were active and weak. Ohio reported transactions of 4,500 shares, selling from 1⅝ to 1¼ and closing at the higher level, even with the opening. United sold down from 1¼ to 1, even with the low record made on Saturday.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Transactions on the Consolidated Exchange were very heavy, the sales totaling 195,890 shares, distributed over a list which included sixty different stocks. Further liquidation on an enormous scale swept prices down in the forepart of the day. After that the selling pressure slackened somewhat, and the session closed with a rally under way reflecting heavy short covering, the bears being rendered nervous by rumors that Attorney General Wickersham might overnight make a more reassuring statement regarding the position of the Government toward the trusts. Talk of Government proceedings against the great industrial combinations was the dominating influence making for the creation of pessimistic sentiment. Prices differed widely at times compared with the levels on the New York Stock Exchange.

Government, on or before November 15, 1911, will be received at this office until ten o'clock A. M., October 2, 1911. Information furnished on application. Envelopes containing bids should be marked "Proposals for Subsistence Stores, opened October 2, 1911," and addressed to Col. A. L. Smith, A. C. G., U. S. Army.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Seventy-two New Low Records.

The extent of the declines yesterday may be measured by the fact that on no previous day since the market turned downward early in August were there so many stocks at new low records. Before the brisk rally set in yesterday afternoon seventy-two issues had touched low points never before reached this year. As on the declines last week, the steel, copper, and equipment and industrial stocks generally were the chief sufferers, though there were many low records among the railroads. Scarcely an issue connected with the copper or smelting trade failed to make a new low record. A number of the iron and steel company stocks, however, remained above their recent low prices. Some of the low prices made in the coppers were: Amalgamated, 44¾; American Smelters B, 83¼; American Smelting and Refining, 56⅝, preferred, 99¼; Anaconda, 29; Chino, 16½; Miami, 16¾; National Lead, 42½; Nevada Consolidated, 15⅛; Ray Consolidated, 12, and Utah Copper, 38. In the steel and equipment shares, these low prices appear: American Car and Foundry, 42¾; American Locomotive, 33⅛; American Steel Foundries, 25; Bethlehem Steel preferred, 54; Pressed Steel Car, 25; Republic Iron and Steel, 21¼; Sloss-Sheffield, 34, and United States Steel common, 51⅝. Atchison reached par, and other low records among the important rails were: Chesapeake & Ohio, 68⅜; St. Paul, 107⅜; Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, 505; Great Northern preferred, 119; Missouri, Kansas & Texas, 27¼; Northern Pacific, 110⅜; Pennsylvania, 118⅜; Reading, 134; Southern Pacific, 104½; Southern Railway, 25⅛, and Union Pacific, 153½.

Tobacco Securities Benefit.

While the stocks of nearly all the big industrial companies were selling down yesterday as the realization of Attorney General Wickersham's statement as to the 100 companies presenting prima facie evidence of guilt was spreading, the securities of the American Tobacco Company, which has been tried and found guilty, were enjoying a spirited advance under the stimulation of the news of an early settlement of the dissolution plans. The American Tobacco 6s, after opening on the Exchange at 107, sold off to 106⅝ in the first hour. Around 2 o'clock, when the announcement came from the Federal Building to the effect that a few days more might see the reorganization plan ready for public discussion, the 6s were selling at 107⅞. In the final hour the bonds sold up to 109½, closing at 109¼, a net gain of 2⅜ for the day. The preferred stock advanced from 91½ to 93½, a gain for the day of 1 point, while the common stock made an advance of 5 points on the Curb. The only class of Tobacco securities which did not participate in the advance was the 4 per cent. bonds, which suffered a net decline of ¼ of a point. Of the $776,000 Tobacco 6s which were sold during the day, $609,000 changed hands in the last hour.

⁂

Bargain Hunters Sizing Up Declines.

Commission houses reported again yesterday many nibbles from bargain hunters. This class of investor has not yet been purchasing in anything like the volume which is usual after such heavy declines as have occurred in the past six or seven weeks, but inquiries received by many of the large commission houses over the past few days indicate that the investor is watching closely the course of prices. What seems to appeal most to the average bargain hunter is the contrast of present prices with the high levels of this year. An inquiry as to the advisability of purchasing a particular stock is usually accompanied by the statement that the prospective buyer has noticed that it is now so many points below the price of such a date. Yesterday's low prices furnished contrasts in this respect which must prove alluring to the occasional investor who aims to profit by the long swings of the market. For instance, at the low levels yesterday there were these declines from the high prices of the year in active issues: Amalgamated, 26⅞; American Locomotive, 9⅞; American Smelting and Refining, 27¼; American Sugar Refining, 10¼; Anaconda, 12⅛; Atchison, 16⅝; Chesapeake & Ohio, 18⅝; St. Paul, 25⅝; Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, 55; Great Northern preferred, 21; Northern Pacific, 27⅛; Pennsylvania, 11¾; Reading, 27⅞; Southern Pacific, 21⅞; Union Pacific, 38⅞, and United States Steel, 30½.

⁂

Buyers of Steel and Copper Hesitate.

Present conditions in the steel trade contrast sharply with developments following the cuts in prices made in 1909. Then, after the so-called "open market" had been in effect only a month or so, the steelmakers were able to refuse future business at the low levels and the volume of buying increased as the prices were gradually put higher. Just now, since the demoralization in the stock market has been apparent, the wave of improved buying which followed the cut in steel prices earlier in the Summer has been receding, and at present not only consumers of steel and iron but also of copper and other products are showing the effects of the uncertainty overhanging corporate affairs. With steel products in many cases admittedly down to cost levels and the prices lower than at any time since the organization of the Steel Corporation, buyers are fighting shy of future commitments and awaiting developments.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

A consignment of $500,000 gold was withdrawn from the Sub-Treasury yesterday for shipment to Canada.

Harris, Forbes & Co. have purchased and are offering to investors $4,951,000 San Francisco Gas & Electric Company general mortgage 4½ per cent bonds due Nov. 1, 1933. These bonds are part of an issue of $9,500,000 which are secured by a first lien on the entire property of the company, subject only to a small amount of underlying bonds.

The Trenton Street Railway Company serving under unlimited franchises a population of over 116,000 in and about Trenton, N. J., and comprising a system of seventy-two miles, has issued $300,000 general mortgage 6 per cent. bonds for the improvement and betterment of the property. These bonds have been purchased and are now being offered by C. E. Mitchell & Co., New York, at 101 and interest.

STOCKS OUT OF TOWN

Declines in Principal Markets of Other Cities in Sympathy with Slump Here.

COPPERS HIT IN BOSTON

Calumet and Hecla Breaks 20 Points in That Centre—Local Stocks in Chicago Also Decline.

The slump in the New York market yesterday was reflected sympathetically in most of the out-of-town trading centres, with the possible exception of Baltimore.

Practically the entire list in Boston slumped. Among the features was a 20-point break in Calumet and Hecla, to 360. Others prominent on the downturn were Copper Range, which fell 3 or more points; North Butte, which broke more than 2 points; Calumet and Arizona, Nevada, East Butte, Chino, Allouez, Amalgamated, Utah Copper, and United States Smelting. Amalgamated and Utah Copper touched the lowest figures in three years. A majority of the industrial group was steady, but Swift fell below 99, a decline of 2 points or more. The whole list rallied strongly during the latter part of the afternoon, following the upturn of the New York market.

Heavy selling in the Swift shares was the feature of the Chicago stock market and carried the price of the usually stable packing house shares down to 97⅞, the lowest level since the 1907 panic. A partial recovery carried the price back to 99. In company with Swifts, almost the entire list showed sympathy with the New York market and ranged lower. Sears-Roebuck, in comparison with recent performances, was fairly steady, and at the lowest scored only a 1-point loss, ending the day only a shade down. Booth Fisheries preferred, however, was down more than 2 points, Diamond Match almost 2, American Can preferred 1 point, and Illinois Brick and Can common fractions. A small gain was scored in Pneumatic Tool.

Until mid-afternoon the Philadelphia list withstood the weakness of the New York market. When Steel broke below 52, however, Philadelphia stocks began to fall back. The recessions were quite orderly and not accompanied by any material volume of trading, except in the tractions. Rapid Transit sold down to 20⅝ around 1 o'clock and Union Traction declined more than a point, to 48, at the same time. Reading and Steel were much the most active issues on the local board, the turn-over in the latter reaching, approximately, 27,000 shares. The whole list rallied at the last, when pressure was removed from the arbitrage group.

There was some demand for the better grade of investment issues and short-term notes in Baltimore. Prices are holding up remarkably well, due to the comparatively small amount of speculative holdings and the fact that buying as a rule has been for investment account.

Yesterday's transactions on the various out-of-town Exchanges, as reported to THE NEW YORK TIMES, were as follows:

San Francisco Gas & Electric Co

General Mortgage 4½% Thirty-Year Gold Bonds

Dated November 1, 1903 Due November 1, 1933

Interest payable May 1 and November 1. Denomination $1,000. Registerable as to both principal and interest.
Of bonds offered numbers between 3001 and 4000 optional, for sinking fund only, at 105 and interest.

The San Francisco Gas and Electric Company owns and operates gas and electric properties covering the entire City of San Francisco, serving a rapidly increasing population of more than 415,000.

We call attention to the following official information showing the unusual strength of these bonds:

Bonds are part of an issue of $9,500,000 (Closed Mortgage), which, in the opinion of Counsel, is a first lien on the entire property of the Company subject only to $1,661,000 underlying bonds which are secured by first liens on a comparatively small part of the property, and for the retirement of which an equal amount of the above bonds is reserved.

In the Company's report to the city, its physical property is valued at over $24,000,000, against which there are outstanding only $9,500,000 bonds, the funded debt being less than 40% of this appraised valuation.

Strong sinking fund provision, which has already retired $500,000 of the issue, and which will retire $2,700,000 bonds prior to their maturity in 1933.

Gross earnings as officially reported for the year 1910 of $5,534,592, or more than 58% of the bonded debt.

Equity back of the bonds of more than $14,000,000 on the basis of the purchase price paid for 98½% of the stock of the Company by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company.

Favorable franchise situation, the Company having, in the opinion of Counsel, the right, unlimited as to time, to operate its gas and electric properties in San Francisco under the provisions of Section 19, Article XI, of the Constitution of California.

THE ATCHISON, TOPEKA AND SANTA FE RAILWAY COMPANY.
Notice is hereby given that the Sixteenth Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company will be held at the principal office of the Company in Topeka, Kansas, on Thursday, the twenty-sixth day of October, 1911, at twelve o'clock noon, for the election of four (4) Directors to hold office for four (4) years, and for the election of Independent Auditors to audit the books and accounts of the Company at the close of the fiscal year. Said meeting has been called by the Board of Directors and is to be held for the following further purposes respectively, to wit:
To approve of, confirm and ratify the leases to this Company of the respective railways, properties and franchises of the Kings River Railway Company, of the Laton and Western Railway Company and of the Garden City, Gulf and Northern Railroad Company, and the purchase by this Company of the Capital Stock and Bonds of said Garden City, Gulf and Northern Railroad Company;
To ratify an agreement for the sale to and purchase by this Company of the railroad of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company extending from a point near the town of Needles, California, to Mojave, California, and to approve the acquisition by this Company (if said last mentioned agreement should not be made or should not be carried out) of the stock and bonds of a railroad company which may purchase and own said railroad;
To authorize the certification and delivery, pursuant to Section 7 of Article One of the Company's General Mortgage, of such amount of the General Mortgage Bonds reserved under said Section, and not heretofore certified and delivered, as will produce a sum sufficient to acquire (a) said railroad from Needles to Mojave, which railroad connects at or near Needles that portion of this Company's railway which was formerly the western division of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company with that portion of this Company's railway which was formerly the railway of the Southern California Railway Company; or (b) the stock and bonds of a railroad company owning said railroad from Needles to Mojave;
To authorize the Board of Directors to use from time to time, for the improvement of that portion of this Company's railway formerly the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad, any or all of the shares of this Company's Preferred Stock, certificates for which are deposited with the Union Trust Company of New York, Trustee under the agreement made the 8th day of March, 1898, between Edward King and others constituting the Joint Executive Committee mentioned in said agreement, this Company, and said Union Trust Company of New York;
To increase the capital of the Company One hundred million dollars ($100,000,000), such increase to be Common Stock, divided into shares of the par value of One hundred dollars ($100) each, so that the total Capital Stock of the Company shall be Four hundred and eighty-one million, four hundred and eighty-six thousand dollars ($481,486,000), divided into One million, three hundred and fourteen thousand, eight hundred and sixty (1,314,860) shares of Five Per Cent. non-cumulative Preferred Stock of the par value of One hundred dollars ($100) each, as described in the Certificate of Incorporation, and Three million, five hundred thousand (3,500,000) shares of Common Stock of the par value of One hundred dollars ($100) each;
To authorize the Board of Directors at any time or from time to time to create an issue or issues of convertible bonds of the Company, not exceeding in the aggregate One hundred million, two hundred and eighty-nine thousand dollars ($100,289,000), each of which bonds shall entitle the holder thereof to convert the same into Common Stock, such bonds to contain such terms, conditions, restrictions and provisions, and to have such benefits, if any, of future mortgages of the Company, and to be issued and disposed of from time to time upon such terms as may be authorized by the Board of Directors.
The stock transfer books will be closed at the close of business on Thursday, September 21, 1911, and will be reopened at the close of said meeting.
By order of the Board of Directors.

COTTON BELT LINE GAINS.

Substantial Increases Reported in Gross and Net Earnings.

The twentieth annual report of the St. Louis Southwestern Railway Company—the "Cotton Belt"—shows substantial gains both in gross and net earnings for the year ended June 30. Operating revenue exceeded the eleven-million-dollar mark for the first time in the road's history, the actual figures being $11,888,036, which is an increase of $901,520, or 8.21 per cent., over the total operating revenues of the preceding year.

Operating expenses were increased by higher wages and higher coal prices, rising from $8,146,056 to $8,578,155, but the larger increase in gross left a gain of $469,098 in net earnings, which totaled $3,309,881. This is an increase over the net earnings of 1910 of 16.53 per cent. Speaking of general conditions, President Edwin Gould says:

"The crop and business conditions in the territory adjacent to your company's lines are good, and the outlook for future traffic is therefore favorable."

During the year passenger revenue increased 10.35 per cent., which the report attributes to "the natural growth and healthy business conditions prevailing." Freight revenue increased 7.56 per cent., the tonnage of cotton and cottonseed products growing 21 per cent. and the tonnage of rice, "which is rapidly assuming importance as a product of the Arkansas section," increased 178 per cent. Merchandise and miscellaneous tonnage increased 15.80 per cent., while there was a slight falling off in the tonnage of lumber and forest products.

After the deduction of a deficit of $10,409 resulting from outside operations, there remained total net revenue of $3,299,411. Taxes amounting to $369,291 left total operating income at $2,930,119, a gain of $471,976 over the previous year. Other income brought gross corporate income up to $3,457,004, a gain of $453,739 over 1910.

The new Governing Board consists of Hazen Clement of Clement, Parker & Co.; Charles W. Tewksbury, Walter Jackson of Francis Henshaw & Co., Charles Hayden of Hayden, Stone & Co.; George T. Rice of Bond & Goodwin, and S. B. Pearmain of Pearmain & Brooks. The first three above mentioned are re-elected and the other three appear upon the board for the first time, taking the places of Harry H. Gay, William H. Seabury of Frank Seabury & Brother, and Charles M. Cabot of Moors & Cabot.

HOFFMAN HOUSE SCHEDULES

Liabilities Are $555,949, and Nominal Assets Amount to $173,856.

Schedules in bankruptcy of the Hoffman House, filed yesterday by Miss A. A. Caddigan, the President, show liabilities of $555,949, of which $6,427 is wages to 300 employes and $172,275 secured, and nominal assets $173,856, consisting of furniture and fixtures $106,069, acounts $10,353, excise license $1,032, cash in bank $6,316, insurance rebate $189, and a judgment for $49,895 against the estate of Edward S. Stokes. There is also $66,000 on deposit in a trust company as security for rent, but if a default occurs the landlord claims the money, to be applied upon back rents and taxes amounting to over $100,000.

In addition to these liabilities there are suits against the corporation aggregating $411,383.

Among the creditors are John B. Stanchfield, trustee, $172,275 on chattel mortgage; E. T. Gerry, $125,109, rent and taxes; Daniel J. Leary, $54,254; Acker, Merrall & Condit Company, $9,271; J. M. Bell Company, $4,361; A. A. Caddigan, $5,406; J. P. Caddigan estate, $30,528; Gorham Company, $2,930; F. Mahr & Co., $5,612; New York Telephone Company, $4,361; Park & Tilford, $8,936; Sayles, Zahn Company, $6,686; R. L. Titus, $6,332, and Wilson Distilling Company, $7,437.

DISTILLERS' PROFITS MORE.

Net Income Is $179,552 Over 1910—Balance Surplus $269,726.

The annual report of the Distillers Securities Corporation for the year ended June 30 shows gross profits of $3,043,279 against $2,723,980 in the previous year. An increase in the item "interest on loans, taxes, &c.," from $626,566 to $680,368 left a balance of $2,362,911 against $2,097,414 in 1910.

Additions, maintenance, cost of administration, and other expenses showed an increase from $526,549 to $612,495, and left net income at $1,750,416, which, however, was a gain of $179,552 over 1910. After the payment of $792,793 in bond interest there remained net profits of $957,623 against $779,217 in the previous year. The payment of $687,897 in dividends left a surplus for the year of $269,726.

Kerr Lake Mining Report.

The annual report of the Kerr Lake Mining Company for the year ended Aug. 31 shows $1,231,246 earned from ore sales and miscellaneous income, a decline of $310,948 from the showing of the previous year and of $155,298 from 1909. Costs, however, show a decline from $343,974 in 1910 to $293,866, leaving net profits of $937,379 against $1,198,220 in the previous year and $1,129,047 in 1909.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Turkish and Italian Securities Lower Owing to Threatened War.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—Money was in good demand and discounts were firmer to-day. The Bank of England will, it is expected, obtain the bulk of the £800,000 gold available in the market.

The Stock Exchange was quiet but steady. Home rails, gilt-edged securities, and Kaffirs generally improved, but foreigners were easy, on the rumors of trouble between Turkey and Italy. Turkish Unified sold 2½ points lower. Copper stocks were weak.

The market for American securities was steady early, but weakened later, on realizing and New York offerings. The general tone at the close was easy. Amalgamated Copper was weak.

Money, 1¾@2 per cent.; rate of discount in the open market for short bills, 3⅝ per cent.; for three months' bills, 3¾@3⅞ per cent.

Gold premiums are quoted at Madrid 8.85, and at Lisbon 8.00.

PARIS, Sept. 25.—Prices on the Bourse were heavy to-day, especially Turkish and Italian securities.

Three per cent. rentes, 94f 10c for the account.

Exchange on London, 25f 16½c for checks.

Private rate of discount, 3½ per cent.

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—The Boerse opened weak to-day, but later steadied.

Exchange on London, 20 marks 47 pfennigs for checks.

Money, 2½ per cent.

Private rate of discount, 4⅝ per cent.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

The United States Express Co. Disregards "Antique" Regulations.

It was decided yesterday by the Board of United States General Appraisers that as the United States Express Company has failed to comply with the regulations of the Secretary of the Treasury, regarding the importations of furniture, Sheffield plate, and other articles claimed to be free of duty as "antiques" under the Tariff act of 1909, the protests must be overruled and the decision of Collector Loeb affirmed. Judge Waite, who writes the decision for the board, says that in order to acquire exemption from duty, it is necessary to comply with the rules laid down by the head of the Treasury Department.

This the board holds has not been done in the case at issue. The regulations require that importers making entry of articles under Paragraph 717 must produce upon entry, in addition to the Consular invoice required by law, certain prescribed affidavits of the owner and the foreign shipper establishing the antiquity of the articles imported. Judge Waite says that the testimony of one of the foreign sellers was taken under a commission appointed by the board and forms a part of the record. This, however, according to the decision does not fulfill the requirements of the law. It is accordingly held that the protests must be overruled for non-compliance with the law.

Judge Cooper, for the board, has reversed Collector Loeb in his assessment of duty on towels imported from Germany by Henry Glass & Co. Duty was exacted at the rate of 50 per cent. under provisions of the Tariff acts of 1909 and 1897. The goods were claimed to be dutiable properly at 45 per cent. on the value under the provisions in the two acts for manufactures of cotton. It seems that two witnesses were called by the board, one for the importers and a former employe of the Appraiser's warehouse. Judge Cooper says that the testimony of the former Government employe is "faulty in definiteness and certainty," while the testimony of the importer's witness is just the opposite. It is held that the testimony of the importer's witness standing alone clearly contravenes the assessment as made. The protests are accordingly sustained and the Collector reversed.

Protests by Kwong Tai Chong & Co. and others regarding the classification of Chinese leather shoes was decided adversely to the contention of the importers. They were assessed for duty at the rate of 15 per cent. ad valorem, and were claimed to be dutiable at only 10 per cent. All the shoes in question were imported prior to the first day of October, 1909. Judge McClelland says that the only question involved is whether the date limitation contained in the proviso of Paragraph 450 applies to boots and shoes wholly or in chief value of leather made from cattle hides. He thinks it does, and overrules the protests. The other importers concerned include Lai Ming, Sun Kwong Company, Quong Wo Chong, Tuck High, and Wing On Wo.

FIGHTS SUBWAY BONDS.

Continental Securities Co. Objects to Interborough Issue of $11,400,000.

J. Aspinwall Hodge, representative of the Continental Securities Company, entered a protest yesterday before the Public Service Commission against the issue by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company of bonds to the value of $11,400,000 under the $55,000,000 mortgage, dated Nov. 1, 1907.

The Interborough-Metropolitan owns the majority of the stock of the Interborough and the Continental Securities Company, a stockholder of the Interborough, maintains that the voting trust, which voted the stock to approve the mortgage, was illegal. An action is now pending to declare illegal the issue of $36,052,000 under the mortgage, which has already been made.

Evidence was entered by the company to show that $10,000,000 of the bonds asked would be used to liquidate notes, and $1,400,000 to install side doors on local trains, purchase additional machinery for the main power station, and make other improvements. The hearing was adjourned till Oct. 4.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

WHEAT.—Although there were spasmodic rallies during the session, the undertone was rather unsettled, with evidence of considerable pressure at times. News was mainly against values, but the effect of the defeat of the reciprocity measure has evidently not exhausted itself as yet, and as a result there is a fair commission house demand as prices recede. This reflects the prevalence of bullish opinion, but in the aggregate outside speculation is not heavy.

Cable advices had some influence in the early depression. Reports from Argentina continue satisfactory, and conditions in Russia are favorable for movement of new wheat. Offers of Canadian wheat were cheaper at Liverpool, and there seems to be but very little in the foreign news to encourage holders. Pronounced weakness was noticeable in the Northwestern markets, Duluth and Minneapolis closing at about 2c decline. Liberal receipts of Spring wheat were not without influence, there being 1,172 cars at Duluth and Minneapolis, against 918 cars last week and 823 cars last year. Winnipeg receipts were 845 cars, against 535 cars last year, although private advices from that centre indicated that threshing and movement were being interfered with by adverse climatic conditions. Cash demand at the Northwest was fairly brisk, but latest advices from various flour centres are not indicative of a market improvement in inquiries since the recent advance in flour quotations.

Some rally occurred during the day on a smaller increase in the visible than anticipated, and also on reports that Minneapolis was buying futures and cash wheat in the Southwest, but the markets failed to reach Saturday's high levels, with offerings liberal on the small bulges, and the close was at the low. Undoubtedly the weakness in financial circles, together with liquidation in other speculative markets, encouraged pressure in wheat, but more effective is the absence of important cash or export demand. Local exporters assert that American wheats are 6c to 8c out of line, and Canadian grades about 2c above a workable basis. Claims that wheat is on a domestic basis continue insistent, but it is apparent that it will require some time for this theory to make itself evident.

The American visible supply increased 74,000 bushels, and the Canadian 762,000 bushels, against respective increases of 2,623,000 bushels and 908,000 bushels last year. The total visible is now 55,000,000 bushels, against 36,000,000 bushels last year. World's wheat exports for the week were 11,200,000 bushels, against 15,360,000 bushels last year. This week's total included 4,400,000 bushels American, against only 1,600,000 bushels last year, the deficiency being mainly in Russia. Cash wheat was quiet, with No. 2 red quoted at $1, in elevator, export basis, and $1.01½, free on board, afloat, for export; No. 2 hard, $1.06⅝; No. 1 Northern Spring, $1.18⅞; No. 1 Northern Manitoba, $1.07¾.

CORN.—A sagging tendency of corn values was again noticeable. Offerings were heavy from interests recently identified on the buying side with stimulus for fresh speculative demand lacking at this time. There are some complaints of excessive precipitation in parts of Illinois and Missouri, but these are not general, while it is thought that with another week of seasonable weather practically the entire crop will be safe from frost. Farmers' offerings are not heavy, with wet weather retarding receipts, but foreign inquiry is at a minimum and domestic cash demand limited. The visible decreased 408,000 bushels, against an increase last year of 748,000 bushels, with the total at present 6,807,000 bushels, against 4,638,000 bushels in 1910. Cash No. 2 Western quoted at 74¾c, in elevator, domestic basis, and 74¼c, free on board, afloat, for export.

OATS.—Comparative steadiness was displayed for a while on the good cash situation, but with the reactionary tendency of other grain scattered selling occurred. Country offerings were very limited. The visible totals to 22,000,000 bushels, against 19,000,000 bushels last year, with the increase this week 520,000 bushels, against a gain last year of 437,000. Cash standards quoted at 52c; No. 2 white, 52½c; No. 3 white, 52c.

PROVISIONS.—Support is still lacking, and new low records for the movement were scored. Packers were on the selling side. Receipts of hogs were liberal, and expectations are for a good movement in the near future. Cash trade is fair.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Prices moved irregularly with considerable selling early on the weakness in lard and cotton. Freer offerings of crude also caused pressure as the future market is at favorable limits at present for hedging purposes. The spot situation is easier with a further readjustment expected this week. Covering of shorts in the late trading brought about a partial recovery. Some foreign demand was reported over the week-end, but the opinion was expressed that buying is not altogether from foreign consumers. Crude quoted at 4.47 to 4.54.

COTTON.

The market was in a state of semi-demoralization during practically the entire session. Selling was general at intervals, with that from the South conspicuous, while the demand from shorts and from trade interests was readily supplied. Dealings were on an enormous scale, and declines of from 10 to 25 points at the outset were gradually augmented, with closing prices at the bottom, the rallying power being extremely limited.

The spot situation at the South continues the depressing influence, and the volume of hedge sales is more than commensurate with the demands from all quarters. Concessions were reported at many points, and prices at several localities were below a basis with the New York future market for the first time in months. The movement of cotton is heavy, with port receipts yesterday totaling approximately 90,000 bales, against 61,000 last year, although receipts to-day will probably run below those of a year ago. However, expectations are for a bearish ginning report on Monday next, with rumors current that the National Ginners' Association had issued figures showing more than 3,000,000 bales ginned and an improvement of 1½ points in crop conditions during the last ten days. Private crop advices received by The Journal of Commerce on Georgia were extremely bearish, with estimates of 2,500,000 bales for the State. No holding of consequence is reported, and damage by insects comparatively slight. Deterioration in Alabama from worms and caterpillars was reported, but this was practically confined to the top crop, there being little injury to matured bolls. Percentage condition is placed at 74.4, against 67.7 last year.

Confidence is shown by the bear forces, and it was rumored that a new set of operators are active at present on that side. Encouragement was received from this contingent by the insistent Southern offerings and liquidation by the erstwhile bulls, the decline being precipitated by the uncovering of stop-loss orders. It was anticipated in several quarters that a natural rebound was due, but the disposition to purchase cotton on this possibility was not great, and until spot markets strike a level where European inquiry and domestic consuming inquiry create a stronger impression, sentiment promises to favor the selling side.

Southern spot markets were unchanged to ½c lower. New York spot cotton was quiet, 0.30c lower, with middlings 10.55c. The ginning report by the Census Bureau will be issued next Monday at the opening, and is expected to be bearish, while at noon on that day the last Government condition report of the season will be made public.

COFFEE.

Coffee reacted 10 to 24 points at the opening, with quite active selling and poor demand, but after the early pressure there was a steady gain, and final figures were 10 to 19 points lower. During last week's operations the market had experienced an advance of 47 to 83 points. Havre was ¾f to 1f lower and Hamburg was ⅛ to 1 pfennig lower. Rio advanced 125 reis, while Santos was unchanged to 50 reis lower on the official cable and unchanged on the special. Private cable from Zerrenar, Buelow & Co. of Santos said: "Present and future crops both badly damaged by rain." Receipts at Rio and Santos were 83,000 bags, compared with 91,000 bags last year. Warehouse deliveries of Brazilian coffee at United States ports last week were 125,439 bags, compared with 130,224 bags the previous week and 196,899 bags last year. The visible supply of Brazilian coffee in and afloat for the United States was 2,206,441 bags, against 3,009,332 bags last year and 3,812,719 bags two years ago. The steamship Tremont is expected here to-day or to-morrow from Santos with 64,000 bags. Spot market quiet, but firm; 14c for Rio No. 7. Contract prices follow:

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The weather is considerably cooler over the North, from the Mississippi Valley to New England, and unseasonably low temperature was reported Monday morning from the Northwest and the Northwest Canadian provinces.

The lowest temperature reported was 20 degrees at Mendosa, Manitoba.

Over the Middle Atlantic and the Southern States and the Ohio Valley temperatures remained above the seasonal average, and over the Rocky Mountain and plateau regions a reaction to much warmer weather is in progress.

A disturbance that has moved east from the Ohio Valley since Sunday night has been attended by local rains from the Mississippi Valley into the North Atlantic States.

The disturbance is now over New England and will pass out to sea and be followed by clearing and cooler weather Tuesday and fair weather Wednesday in the Middle Atlantic and New England States.

Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate north and northwest; Middle Atlantic Coast, light to moderate west and northwest; South Atlantic Coast, light variable except moderate on the Eastern Florida Coast.

Steamships departing Tuesday for Europe from ports will have moderate west and northwest winds and overcast weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Eastern New York, New Jersey, and Eastern Pennsylvania—Clearing and cooler Tuesday. Wednesday probably fair; moderate west to northwest winds.

New England—Showers, followed by clearing Tuesday; clearing south and west portions. Wednesday fair; continued cool; light to moderate north to west winds.

	1910.	1911.		1910.	1911.
3 A. M......	67	68	4 P. M......	74	87
6 A. M......	66	68	6 P. M......	70	80
9 A. M......	71	71	9 P. M......	60	75
12 M.........	76	79	12 P. M......	67	74

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 75; for the corresponding date last year it was 72; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 64.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 70; at 8 P. M. it was 77. Maximum temperature, 83 degrees at 5 P. M.; minimum, 67 degrees at 4 A. M. Humidity, 91 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 90 per cent. at 8 P. M.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Quick Profit Shown in Forty-eighth Street Sale Near Madison Avenue—Investor Buys Fifteen Lots in Dyckman Tract—Division Street Improvement—Many Business Leases.

An important sale in Forty-eighth Street near Madison Avenue, involving about $250,000, and a big deal in the Dyckman tract, furnished an active start yesterday for the realty market of the week. The Forty-eighth Street deal is interesting as revealing the steady advance of values in that growing retail section, and it also shows that the seller has made a very neat profit within a short time.

The sale includes the two houses at 18 and 20 East Forty-eighth Street, covering a combined plot of 50.3 by 100.5 feet. It was made for Walter E. Meyer to the Advocate Realty Company by the brokerage firm of Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown & Co. Mr. Meyer bought the property in July through the same brokers, acquiring the house at No. 18 from Samuel K. Jacobs for about $122,500, averaging $4,900 a front foot, which is the record price for the block between Fifth and Madison Avenues.

The adjoining house at No. 20 was acquired from Sumner Gerard, who bought it a few weeks previous from the estate of Marshall O. Roberts. The price paid by the new owners was not stated, but recently, it is said, Mr. Meyer declined a profit of $5,000.

The houses are separated by one plot from the two lots on the southwest corner of Madison Avenue, which the same brokers sold in July to Shepard K. De Forest for Michael Dreicer, who had acquired the property in March from John T. Farley. Mr. Farley bought it from the Auchincloss estate for about $250,000, and it is said that the selling price to Mr. De Forest was $275,000.

Big Dyckman Tract Sale.

The continued activity in the Dyckman tract is indicative of many substantial building operations in that section of the city within the next few months. The past year has shown great changes in its apartment house and business development, and the large buying of the last few weeks is due to a growing confidence that it is a good section for investment and improvement.

A plot of fifteen lots was sold yesterday by W. J. Huston & Son to an investor for Dr. Leonard Adair. The property has a frontage of fifty feet on the west side of Seaman Avenue, beginning 638.9 feet north of Bolton Road, and extends through the block, 307 feet to Prescott Avenue, where the frontage is 207.10 feet. Dr. Adair bought the property six years ago through the same brokers from the Kingsbury estate, and although no figures were announced, the brokers admitted that the selling price was about double the price paid by Dr. Adair.

About two weeks ago the same brokers sold a parcel of eleven lots on Nagle Avenue, 230 feet north of Elwood Street.

Private Dwelling Market.

Several private dwellings in the west side and Harlem districts figured in the realty transactions. Margaret McKeon sold the three-story residence at 15 West Ninety-fifth Street, on lot 18 by 108½, and L. E. Jalladi bought from F. R. Minrath the four-story American basement residence at 251 West Ninety-ninth Street on lot 14 by 55 by 100.

In the Harlem territory Leopold Lyons sold the three-story dwelling at 67 West 119th Street on plot 17 by 100.11.

Buys to Build in Division Street.

Division Street, the great millinery thoroughfare of the lower east side is about to have a modern improvement in a six-story loft on the plots at 15 and 15½ Division Street. These two plots have been sold by L. M. Reinach & Co., for Maurice A. Rosenbaum and Nathan Spiegel, respectively, to Jacob Gordon. The combined plot is 25 by 70.6 feet. The property has not changed hands for over twenty years. Mr. Gordon will erect the six-story building for his millinery business.

Greenwich Village Deal.

Sonn Brothers have sold through Mr. Ramsey of Cruikshank & Co., two lots with three-story buildings on the north side of Horatio Street, in the old Greenwich district, 150 feet east of West Street. It is part of the property acquired by the sellers in March, 1892, at auction. The buyer is an investor.

Harlem Flat Sold.

The five-story double flat at 134 West 113th Street, on lot 27 by 100.11, between St. Nicholas and Seventh Avenues, has been bought by Mrs. Sophie Oppenheimer from Mrs. Lena Miller.

Brooklyn.

The two three-story double flats, with stores, at 5,506 to 5,512 Fifth Avenue, in the Bay Ridge district have been purchased by Louis Rubin and Louis Simon from Diedrich Affel. The brokers in the deal were Tutino & Cerny. The houses occupy a plot 49.8 by 100 feet. The new owners are to make alterations.

Lawrence Park.

Burke Stone has sold for Miss Isabella V. Cox her house in Lawrence Park to the Lawrence Park Realty Company; for Mrs. Caroline T. Smith to Walter McMichael two lots in Armour Villa Park on McIntyre Street; for the Lawrence Park Realty Company a plot of one acre in Lawrence Park West.

Widener Buys Big Newport Place.

George D. Widener of Philadelphia has purchased Gen. Francis V. Greene's Newport place known as Edgecliff, on the Cliffs and Bellevue Avenue. De Blois & Eldridge were the brokers. They sold the Bell property to Mr. Widener a week ago and the combined properties now give him one of the largest estates on the Cliffs in Newport.

Private Dwellings Leased.

The J. P. Whiton-Stuart Company has leased the private dwellings at 123 East Seventy-third Street to George W. Miller for R. Burnside Potter, and 51 East Fifty-third Street to Thomas B. Gifford for Mrs. John D. Regan.

Edward N. Taller leased his residence, at 8 East Eighty-sixth Street, for a term of years to Lyman Tiffany Dyer.

John G. Taylor has leased the three-story residence at 107 West 136th Street to Mrs. Mary E. Quinn.

Business Leases.

George R. Read & Co. have leased for the Underwood Typewriter Company the entire building, a five-story structure, at 241 Broadway to Weber & Heilbroner for a term of years. After extensive repairs the lessees will occupy the whole building for their clothing trade.

McCarthy & Fellows have leased for the Centerboro Realty Company to Smith & Watson, dealers in antiques, the store and basement at 176 Madison Avenue, near Thirty-fourth Street, for a term of years. Horace S. Ely & Co. represented Smith & Watson.

George Neiman has rented for Albert B. Ashforth the ninth floor of the Arena Building in West Thirty-second Street, running through to Thirty-first Street, to the Colonial Hat Company for a term of ten years.

A number of manufacturers of trimmed hats are now located from Thirtieth to Thirty-eighth Street, near Fifth Avenue.

The Charles F. Noyes Company has leased for The Arthur Company the entire building 192 Front Street to the Lambert Pharmacal Company for five years from May, 1912, at an aggregate rental of about $15,000; also until May 1 next the Liberty Street store of the Wolfe Building, 80 and 82 William Street, and the store and basement at 33 Beekman Street for F. D. Bowne to E. Smith & Co.

The same brokers have also leased the fourth loft at 102 and 104 Greenwich Street for D. J. Faour to the Electrical Manufacturing Company; the third loft at 27 Beekman Street for Potter & Brothers, Inc., to the American Steel Chase Company; the fourth loft at 86 Fulton Street for Daniel E. Seybel to the Liverpool & London & Globe Insurance Company for a supply department, and the fourth loft at 219 Pearl Street for the Euler & Robeson Company to the Doctors and Druggists Company.

The McVickar, Gaillard Realty Company has leased for Mathilde Bouthin to the Standard Cleaning and Dyeing Company the buildings at 511 and 513 West Forty-sixth Street for a term of years; also, for Tucker, Speyers & Co., to Henry B. Herts, the twelfth floor in the building at 35 and 37 West Thirty-first Street.

Notes.

Porter & Co. were the brokers in the recent sale of the private dwelling at 518 East 121st Street for W. S. Earle of San Diego, Cal.

Louis Steckler is the buyer of Valencia Court, at 317 and 319 West Ninety-fifth Street, recently sold by the A. & S. Construction Company. In part payment he gave a plot on Webster Avenue in the Bronx.

No auction sales were held yesterday in the Vesey Street Salesroom.

One of the most complete and attractive places, in the best neighborhood, near the Rockaway Hunt Club. House sets back from the road in beautiful grounds of about 4 acres, rear overlooking the golf course. Residence contains—First floor, hall, reception room, living room, billiard room, side conservatory, absolutely new, with wall fountain of exquisite design, filled with the most beautiful assortment of plants, new greenhouse now filled with American Beauty roses, carnations, and chrysanthemums; dining room, butler's pantry, kitchen, laundry, ice box built in wall, servants' dining room, large piazzas with red Welsh 9x9 tile. Approach to house made of fancy herringbone brick. Second floor—6 master's bedrooms, 3 tiled bathrooms, modern and beautiful in every appointment, 2 with showers. Third floor—6 servants' rooms, bath, and toilet. Outside flower garden also in full bloom. Independent water power, electrically connected pump and windmill; 3-inch fire lines running 4 feet underground all around property, and 1¼-inch pipes for sprinkling purposes—never without water. Tank holds about 12,000 gallons. Frequent analysis shows water of most excellent quality for all purposes. Immense saving for the quantity of water used on such a place. Fine stable and garage, 9 stalls. Large carriage room, with quarters above for man. Fine tennis court also on property. Colonial electric lamp posts on driveway and outside garden. Will take back 5% mortgage, three years if desired. Full particulars and drawings from John F. Scott, Manager Country Department.

R. R. Station, Port Washington.
Two years' work and a large expenditure of money have created ideal conditions for homes on this beautiful little Peninsula, which stretches far out in the broadest and most picturesque part of Manhasset Bay. No development of similar completeness and attractiveness has ever been attempted in the neighborhood of New York. WAMPAGE SHORES, with one mile of beautiful beach; with no road or reservation in front, makes ownership possible of a type of property with private beaches, heretofore only within reach of the very wealthiest.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

SIMON FRANKEL, furniture salesman, 223 Rivington Street, filed a petition; liabilities $1,932 and nominal assets $2,039.

BRICKER & ACKERMAN, fur manufacturers at 40 East Eighth Street. Judge Hough has appointed Charles L. Cohn receiver, bond $1,000.

SAMUEL LEDERMAN, dealer in plumbers' supplies, 83 Manhattan Street. Judge Hough has appointed Charles L. Brookheim receiver, bond $1,000. Liabilities $15,000 and assets $3,000.

CHARLES H. PARSONS, marble works, 274 East 133d Street. Schedules show liabilities $7,486 and nominal assets $11,022, consisting of machinery $6,050, accounts $4,062, marble $410, and stock sold by receiver $500.

BOROUGH WAIST COMPANY, (Ash & Bleich,) 3 East Seventeenth Street, has made a settlement with creditors at 30 cents cash, and Judge Hough has dismissed the petition filed Sept. 1. Liabilities about $8,000.

AUGUST J. DUX, insurance agent, 809 St. Nicholas Avenue, formerly a confectioner, 1,742 Amsterdam Avenue, filed a petition; liabilities $14,077 and assets $2 cash in bank. Among the creditors are Edward J. Rosencrans, $5,184; Clara A. Baab, $3,610; Howell Demarest Company, $1,600, and Emma C. Dux, $510.

KARP BROTHERS, Fur Dealers.—Judge Hough yesterday granted the application of Samuel S. Myers, attorney for the Trustee, to confirm the report of William Allen, referee, directing the bankrupts to turn over $14,573 to the Trustee. A petition in bankruptcy was filed against the firm last January.

J. M. COSTUME CO., (Joseph Mesibovsky,) manufacturer of waists, 129 West Twenty-second Street. Petition by Austin McNeal, Frederick R. Stiefel, $182, and Lionel P. Kristeller, $577. Judge Hough appointed W. C. Low receiver, bond $1,000, to continue business twenty days. Liabilities $16,000 and assets $2,000.

ALBERT H. TERHUNE, dry goods, 1,774 Amsterdam Avenue. Schedules show liabilities $84,232 and assets $26,783, consisting of stock $20,849, fixtures $4,650, wagon $50, and cash $1,234 in the Northern Bank. There are about 300 creditors, among whom are the H. B. Claflin Company, $2,732; New York Merchandise Company, $1,509; S. Sinsheimer & Son, $942, and F. Helmsoth estate $3,253.

WESTCHESTER COUNTY BREWERY, Mount Vernon.—Judge Hough has decided in favor of the creditors who filed the petition on Sept. 12 against them on the ground that a receiver was appointed in the Supreme Court because of insolvency. William Hobby, the President, was appointed receiver in the Supreme Court, but last week Judge Hough refused to appoint a receiver in the bankruptcy proceedings.

GAYNOR MAY VETO NEW CHARTER BILL

HIS SUGGESTIONS IGNORED

Except in a Few Cases—Legislators Expect to Reach a Final Adjournment This Week.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 25.—On what appears to be good authority it was stated here to-night that the attitude of Mayor Gaynor, with reference to the proposed New York City Charter, regarding which he said only a few days ago that "there is not a single wrong thing in it," is greatly in doubt. There are persons at the capital to-night who ought to be well informed, and who declare it their belief that if the Cullen-Foley Charter bill is passed in its present form, Mayor Gaynor will veto it.

In connection with this it was learned that when the Mayor made the above statement he did it on the presumption that the legislative Charter framers were acting in good faith with him. The Mayor some time ago asked the Corporation Counsel's office to keep a close watch on what was being done to the Charter at the secret sessions held in the Hotel Knickerbocker.

Corporation Counsel Watson gave the watchman's job to Assistant Corporation Counsel McNulty, who is an authority on charter legislation. Mr. McNulty, according to a statement made to THE TIMES correspondent to-night, prepared a syllabus of some 200 pages for the Mayor's perusal. In this syllabus it was shown clearly what the proposed Charter would do in the way of setting aside important Charter provisions now in force, and what the effect would be.

Mayor Gaynor went over this report very carefully, and returned it to the Corporation Counsel's office with notations in his own handwriting, urging that a very large number of the innovations proposed in the Charter bill must be eliminated.

"When Mayor Gaynor made his statement that the Cullen-Foley Charter bill was a proper measure," said THE TIMES correspondent's informant, "he did so with the distinct understanding that members of the legislative Charter Committee with whom he had conferred would carry out promises they made to amend the Charter bill in accordance with his suggestions. Instead 80 per cent. of the recommendations made by the Mayor have been ignored by the Charter framers.

"As I understand it the Corporation Counsel to-day has so reported to the Mayor and recommended that the Charter legislation be abandoned. When the Mayor knows the full truth, I for one do not believe that after the deception practiced on him, he will permit the Tammany Charter jobbers to make capital for their Charter out of a sanction that was obtained from him under false pretenses."

Senate Vote Not Certain.

It is the evident purpose of the legislative leaders to "put the Charter over" in the Senate on Wednesday, when the first real business session of the week will be held, but it is not at all certain that the Charter bill can be passed in the upper house.

While the leaders had hoped that the amendments made to the civil service chapter by which supervision over the New York City Civil Service Commission by the State Civil Service Commission was restored and through which the clause giving the Mayor the power of absolute veto over subway franchises was eliminated, would bring into line the Charter insurgents in the Senate it was surmised to-day that the more recent amendment made surreptitiously to Section 1,441, through which doubt again is cast on the limitation of the Mayor's power in such matters has alienated the Democratic Senators from Kings. Should they stand out against the Charter bill that measure cannot be passed except by the aid of Republican votes, which scarcely will be available, inasmuch as the Republican organization has decided to make opposition to the proposed Charter part of their party programme.

Several hundred additional amendments were made in the Assembly to-night to the Charter bill, which was declared to be in "perfected" form when it was reported in amended form last Friday by the Senate Cities Committee. The latest amendments, which include the changes adopted by the Senate Committee last week, were reported by the Assembly Committee on Cities at to-night's session of the Assembly. This action will give the Assembly bill precedence and the Charter probably will be moved for passage first in the lower house. The greater number of changes affect punctuation or phraseology without altering the substance of the bill.

It was declared to-day by the lawyers employed to draft the bill that the insertion of the amendment referred to by opponents as a "joker" was deemed advisable after Mayor Gaynor had complained that the power he claimed under the Rapid Transit act had been curtailed by the recent amendments. To be fair to the Mayor, it was said, a declaration was inserted to the effect that the Mayor's power as it exists now is to be in no way changed by the proposed Charter. If the Charter is passed in its present form it is contended that the extent of the Mayor's power under the Rapid Transit act must be determined by the courts.

The Senate met at noon to-day for a brief session with only a handful of members present. The Assembly met to-night, but only to go through the necessary routine of a "legislative day," when no real business is transacted.

The leaders expect to reach final adjournment of the longest legislative session on record in this State by the end of this week. This will mean work under high pressure after the Legislature gets down to business on Wednesday.

OPPOSE CHARTER'S PASSAGE.

Civic Organizations Appeal to Governor Not to Help It Along.

Seven city civic organizations sent to Gov. Dix by special messenger yesterday a letter urging him not to aid in the passage of the proposed new city Charter by an emergency message. Without such an emergency message it was said the Charter could not be acted upon until it had been on the desks of the Senators and Assemblymen in its final form for at least three days and after Sept. 27, and this would carry it beyond the date fixed for adjournment.

Among the organizations that made the appeal were The City Club, The Civil Service Reform Association, The Citizens' Union, The Public Education Association, The Brooklyn League, The Allied Real Estate Interests, and The Brooklyn Charter Conference. This is the letter:

To His Excellency, the Governor of the State of New York, Albany, N. Y.:

Sir: On March 31 of this year a proposed Charter for the City of New York was introduced in the Legislature. When the nature of the proposed legislation was fully understood such protest was made by the citizens and representative associations of this city that a revision was hurriedly prepared, which it was reported those in control of the Legislature intended to pass immediately.

Your Excellency, in a statement on June 10, declared that no Charter would receive your approval unless there was ample time for the citizens of New York to carefully study its provisions and to be heard thereon. As a result, the Chairmen of the committees in charge of the Charter reported the new revision on July 15 and the Legislature took recess.

From Aug. 21 to 25 hearings were held in New York City. After the Legislature reconvened there was introduced on Sept. 18 a document making upward of four thousand (4,000) amendments to a Charter, which, excepting for your intervention, would probably have been passed unamended. On Sept. 20 this third revision was first available for public examination. Requests for a hearing thereon were denied. Public criticism of some of the provisions has already caused still further amendment, and on Sept. 22 over ninety (90) additional changes were introduced. As thus amended the proposed Charter is not yet available for public examination.

The proposed Charter in its most recent form will be on the desks of the members of the Legislature for the first time on Wednesday, Sept. 27. It is commonly reported that an attempt will be made on that day to pass the Charter by the aid of an emergency message from your Excellency.

We earnestly appeal to you not to yield the influence of your high office to such an unwarranted procedure. There is no emergency unless it be such as arises from the desire to force upon New York City, for personal or partisan advantage, a vicious statute without opportunity for the citizens to know its contents.

What can be said of a Charter which has been so frequently and fundamentally amended in so short a time? No civic organization in the city urges its passage. No newspaper advocates it. Opposition to it is well-nigh universal. The chief governing body of the city has publicly declared against its passage.

We ask you to insist once more, in the name of the citizens of New York, that the Legislature give reasonable opportunity for examination of this variable Charter in its latest form.

Robert S. Binkerd, Secretary of The City Club, announced last night that a mass meeting would be held in Cooper Union to-night to protest against the passage of the Charter. While the meeting is called as one of protest, it is announced that any one will be allowed to speak in favor of the Charter, and with this end in view, an invitation has been sent to Mayor Gaynor to speak. Among those who accepted invitations to speak are Controller Prendergast, President George McAneny of Manhattan and William M. Ivins. J. Aspinwall Hodge will preside.

Up to a late hour last night Mayor Gaynor had not accepted the invitation.

Witness Tells of Letters They Wrote and Bombs Exploded in His Store.

Black Hand methods were explained in General Sessions yesterday when Salvatore Romano, Antonio Lecchi, and Pasquale Lopitero were placed on trial before Judge Swann charged with attempting to extort money from Gaetano Sferrazza of 307 East Forty-fifth Street by threats and violence.

Sferrazza is studying for the priesthood, and while studying he ran a little grocery store at 307 East Forty-fifth Street. In telling his story yesterday he said that he had received twenty odd letters from the Black Hand before the arrest of the defendants, the first letter coming on Dec. 6. This letter was signed "Mano Nero," and demanded $5,000. He ignored the demand, and on the ninth a bomb was set off in his store, nearly wrecking it.

The very next morning he received another letter warning him that the next time "Mano Nero" would not fail. Gaetano did not become alarmed, but turned the letter over to the police and laughed at the threat. Another letter was sent to him, and again he laughed. More letters were received, and Gaetano always laughed, and going to the police, snapped his fingers and said he was not afraid.

On March 2, another bomb, heavier-charged than the first, was set off in the little store, wrecking it. More letters and telephone messages were received, and Gaetano didn't laugh then, but gritting his teeth, announced that he would fix "Mano Nero" yet.

After patient waiting the price demanded was reduced to $250 in a letter which Gaetano received on May 18. A trap was laid for the Black Handers, but they failed to show up, and on May 25 another letter was received demanding $250 and instructing him to turn it over to the man who was to meet him on the Willis Avenue Bridge and speak the countersign, which was "Mano Nero."

Gaetano rushed to see the police again and marked $250 in bills at the request of the detectives assigned to the case and walked to the rendezvous followed by Detectives Micelli, Cavone, and D'Iglio. He had no sooner arrived at the bridge than a man approached him and muttered "Mano Nero" and taking him by the arm bore him to the other end of the bridge where he was joined by two others. Gaetano turned over the marked bills and tossed away his cigar. This was the signal, and the three detectives rushed upon the defendants, and after a stiff fight, placed them under arrest.

Romano attempted to use his revolver upon the little storekeeper, but Gaetano was watchful and wrenched it from his hand. The marked bills were found upon the prisoners.

ARREST WM. G. LOTZE.

Accused of Misappropriating Canadian Coal Company Bonds.

William G. Lotze, 30 years old, who gave his occupation as Treasurer of the Canadian Coal Company of 286 Fifth Avenue, was arrested last night on a warrant charging him with appropriating to his own use $8,000 or the concern's bonds. The complaint was sworn to by Peter Shore, President of the company, living, according to Lotze, at 140 Claremont Avenue. On his way to the West Forty-seventh Street Station Lotze expressed great indignation.

"My arrest is an outrage; I cannot understand it," he said. "I have a receipt in my possession for the bonds and other papers that I gave Mr. Shore."

At the station house he said that he lived in New Jersey, but refused to make any further statements until he had consulted a lawyer.

According to the Directory of Directors William G. Lotze is President and Director of the Lotze-Hazelwood Company of 286 Fifth Avenue and a Director in the Deming Realty Company. The copartnership and Corporation Directory gives William G. Lotze as President of the William G. Lotze Company as well as of the Lotze-Hazelwood Company.

William G. Lotze's home is in New Haven. He is a member of the First Methodist Church of that city, and he has been active in Y. M. C. A. work.

"I can't understand my arrest at all," Mr. Lotze said before he was taken to a cell. "I have a receipt in my pocket for the bonds and papers which I turned over to Mr. Shore. My being arrested on such a charge is beyond understanding."

Capt. Charles S. Halsted Dead.

Capt. Charles Stockton Halsted died last evening of Bright's disease and dropsy in his apartment, 2,465 Broadway, at the age of 65. He was a son of the late James M. Halsted, a drygoods merchant. He served through the civil war in the Twenty-second Regiment and was a member of the Old Guard for many years, serving several terms as its Captain. He was formerly Commander of the John A. Dix Post, G. A. R. Capt. Halsted subsequently joined Lafayette Post. He was a member of the Green Room Club and the Defendam Society. Capt. Halsted is survived by his second wife, who was a Miss Julia Holland, and by a son.

DIX ORDERS SHERIFF TO WATCH PRIMARIES

Acts on Complaint of Alderman Marx That Floaters Are to be Used To-day.

WILL SWEAR IN DEPUTIES

Hines-Ahearn Fight in the Nineteenth Warms Up—Gruber's Opponents See Little Chance of Victory.

As a result of charges made to Gov. Dix by Alderman Samuel Marx, who is contesting the Democratic leadership of the Thirty-first Assembly District with its present leader, William J. Wright, Deputy Commissioner of Corrections, Sheriff Shea announced yesterday that he would swear in a number of special deputies to-day to assist his regular force of fifteen men in seeing that order was maintained at the primary election today. So far the Thirty-first Assembly District is the only one to which Mr. Shea's attention has been called particularly, but he said that he should keep an eye on each district where there was a contest.

Mr. Marx's letter to the Governor informed him that the Alderman believed that an attempt was to be made to steal the election in his district, that outsiders were being imported, and that Mr. Wright, who has the appointing of inspectors and polling clerks, was shifting men from election districts where they were known, to others where they were strangers to the voters. Mr. Marx could see only one purpose in this.

Gov. Dix, through his secretary, immediately sent a telegram to Sheriff Shea, embodying the points of Mr. Marx's communication and asking the Sheriff to use every means in his power to preserve peace and order at to-day's primaries in accordance with the election law.

Mr. Shea immediately incorporated the Governor's message in a note which he dispatched to Police Commissioner Waldo, saying:

"May I ask you to give me any information you may have concerning any attempt to interfere with the voting at the primary election and to co-operate with duly authorized Deputy Sheriffs in enforcing order."

Then he sent for Mr. Marx and George H. Epstein, Chairman of the Law Committee of the Owasco Club, 2,034 Seventh Avenue, Mr. Marx's organization. The three were together for some time, while Mr. Marx and Mr. Epstein told their suspicions to the Sheriff, and at the conclusion of the interview Mr. Shea announced that he and Under Sheriff Cartwright would make a tour of the district last night and would be on the watch to-day.

Such deputies as are sworn in will be equipped with automobiles to enable them to move about rapidly, and the Sheriff's office will be kept open until 9 o'clock to-night, the time of the closing of the polls, so that Mr. Shea or some of his assistants may receive instant word of any disorder.

Commissioner Waldo's plans for policing primary day include the use of every available man in the department, with no vacations and days off allowed to interfere. There will be more than 8,000 men on duty. Many of those usually assigned to the Bronx will work in Manhattan, and such interchange will be made throughout all the boroughs of the city. Where men are not shifted from borough to borough they will be shaken up as to precincts anyway. Besides these precautions an unusually large force will be held in reserve at Headquarters.

The next most important fight among the Democrats is in the Nineteenth District, where James J. Hines is trying his best to wrest the leadership from James Ahearn. The fact that Hines almost took the leadership from Ahearn last year has nerved his followers on to make a decisive contest this year and put Ahearn out of the running for all time. The indications last night were that Ahearn was beaten, but the Tammany leader, who has survived many fights refused to concede an inch. Both sides said last night that it would be a fight to a finish, and both were anxious to obtain recognition from the Sheriff regarding the possibilities of trouble over repeaters and floaters.

Mr. Ahearn issued a statement last night that Hines had been using the names of Senator O'Gorman and other leaders as favoring him without their authority.

Only one other Democratic district is considered at all close, and that is the Twenty-eighth, where Henry H. Lazarus, a City Marshal, is making a stubborn fight to take the leadership from Nicholas J. Hayes, former Fire Commissioner and Sheriff. Hayes's friends said last night that Lazarus did not have the ghost of a show, but a visit to his district showed that the ex-Sheriff was more active than he has been in several years. The principal argument that has been made against Hayes is that he has neglected his constituents in the matter of patronage to the advantage of his own family connections. No trouble is looked for in this district.

The only other district in which there will be a semblance of a contest is the Tenth, where Morris J. Klein is disputing the leadership of Dr. Samuel Goldenkranz, and the Thirty-first, where Charles C. Marrin says he has a fighting chance against Leader William E. Morris. John F. Curry in the Thirteenth, James J. Hagan in the Fifteenth, John H. O'Connell in the Twenty-first, and Percival E. Nagel in the Thirtieth, South, have contests on, but there is little doubt that they will win out easily.

The only fight in the Republican bailiwicks that is at all in doubt is the Eighteenth, where Peter R. Gatens is making an energetic effort to dethrone Joseph E. Nejedly. This district, according to last night's reports, is really in doubt, and a close vote is expected.

Another Republican contest is in the Seventeenth, where Willis B. Davis is leading the opposition to Abraham Gruber. Davis is making a spirited contest, but even his followers admitted last night that they would be surprised if Gruber were overthrown. Even if Davis were defeated, they said, the fight against Gruber would be continued.

Other Republican contests are in the Seventh, where John Glass is opposing William Halpin; the Eighth, where Davis Goldstein is making a fight against Louis Freidel, and the Thirty-third, where Alfred Simonds is opposed to Edward H. Healy.

In the other Republican districts of unrest it is expected that the present leaders will be returned. They are the First, William G. Rose leader; Ninth, Michael H. Blake, leader; Tenth, F. L. Marshall, leader; Twentieth, William C. Hecht, leader; Twenty-second, B. W. B. Brown, leader, and Thirty-second, South, William H. Ten Eyck leader.

Samuel S. Koenig, President of the Republican County Committee, said last night that he had taken no hand in any of the fights, and that he expects the best man in every case to win. He promised to have plenty of watchers at the polls, and said he would see that there was fair play done in every district.

COL. DADY IS WORRIED.

Ely's Fight Against Him the Hottest of the Brooklyn Primaries.

The hottest primary fight among the Republicans in Brooklyn is in the First Assembly District, where Morris U. Ely is contending for the leadership against Col. Michael J. Dady, who has been leader there for the last thirty years. According to reports last night, Col. Dady is really concerned, for the first time in many years, over his district. Ely has waged a consistent fight against Dady for the last four years, and this year, it is conceded, Dady is weaker than at any time since Ely went after him.

The fight to-day will be very close, with a bare possibility that Ely will win. Last year Ely obtained 46 per cent. of the vote in the district, and came within one vote of obtaining for his candidate the nomination for Assemblyman. The county organization is keeping aloof from the contest, on the ground that it has no favorites.

D. Harry Ralston, along with Dady, is up for election as member of the Executive Committee. The principal charge which Ely's followers make against Dady is that the latter has been unfair in all his district dealings. Dady's followers are making much of the fact that the Rev. Dr. John Howard Melish, pastor of the Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, attacked Dady on the ground that he came of Irish parentage. Dr. Melish explained that it was merely a humorous reference. Ely charges Ralston with usurping the rights of a member of the District Committee before he has been elected thereto. The betting last night in the principal Brooklyn cafés did not favor either candidate.

There are contests in four Democratic districts, but there is only one district in doubt. That is the Fourteenth Assembly District, where Daniel J. Carroll is trying hard to defeat the present leader, John McKeon. The contest in this district has decended to personalities, and the result will be in doubt until the votes are counted to-night. Both sides are claiming the district.

In the Fifteenth Assembly District James A. Quade is contesting the leadership of John W. Carpenter. In the Twenty-third Philip A. Riley has made a spirited fight against the present leader, James J. Monahan, but apparently with little effect. The indications last night were that Monahan would win without difficulty. Alderman Alexander Drescher has been a factor in this fight. He came out early for Monahan on the ground of party regularity, although he did not make any campaign speeches.

There is a small contest in the Second District, where James J. Farrell is disputing the leadership of John J. Bridges. It was the general opinion in the district last night that Bridges would win easily.

In the Eighteenth District, where John H. McCooey, Democratic leader of Kings, is leader a small fight has developed within the last few days, John J. Dwyer putting up a contest against McCooey, but with little apparent prospect of winning.

ALDERMAN BRADY AWAY.

Queens People Think His Absence Is to Help Cassidy at Primaries.

On the eve of the Democratic primaries in Queens, in which Joseph Cassidy is seeking to be re-elected to the leadership of the party, a surprise has been sprung in the unexpected absence of Alderman Edward Brady, whose home is in the Rockaways. The generally accepted theory throughout the borough is that he has been persuaded to take a vacation in the interest of Cassidy.

Brady has become an important factor because the primary is considered the preliminary skirmish to the election of a Borough President. The belief has spread that Gov. Dix, in deciding the fate of Borough President Gresser, will be guided by the result of the primaries. If Cassidy is victorious, Gresser will go, and if the anti-Cassidy forces win, Gresser will stay. So declare the leaders in both sides of the fight.

Two days ago Alderman Daniel Entholt of Long Island City, Cassidy's stronghold, came out with a statement that Alderman Brady, Alderman Snell, and himself had agreed that they would not support Cassidy or any man he favored for the Borough Presidency in case Gresser was removed. It requires three Aldermen to elect the Borough President in case of a vacancy, as there are five members of the board from Queens. Entholt and Snell are avowed anti-Cassidy men. Brady is the doubtful quantity.

Cassidy made public from his clubhouse two letters purporting to be from Brady. Both were of the same tenor, saying the Alderman was not committed to the support of any one for the Borough Presidency. One letter was dated Washington, D. C.

"I guess Brady was a little under the weather, and he has gone away to get well," said Mr. Cassidy.

TAMMANY'S MAN LOSES.

Insurgent Martin Nominated Again by Democrats of Saratoga.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 25.—The Democrats of Saratoga County, at the Assembly Convention to-day, renominated Assemblyman William M. Martin, who was beaten at the Saratoga Springs primaries Saturday by Walter H. Hanson. The latter made his fight on the issue that he would support the Tammany organization in the Legislature. This position was strongly opposed in the rural districts, and the convention was so overwhelmingly in favor of Assemblyman Martin and the stand he took last year in opposing William F. Sheehan and joining the insurgents that Hanson withdrew his name and there was no opposition in the convention.

The Democrats are optimistic and believe that Assemblyman Martin will repeat his record of last year and defeat George H. Whitney, who has been nominated by the Republicans. The Democrats were particularly jubilant to-night because they had refused to nominate a candidate, who, they believed, bore the tag of Tammany Hall, which is not popular in Saratoga County.

BAY STATE PRIMARIES TO-DAY

Ten Thousand Names on Ticket—Republican and Democratic Contests.

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—The direct primary method of selecting candidates for the November election will be given its first test in Massachusetts to-morrow by the two leading parties.

There are contests for three of the positions on the State ticket in each party. There are also a number of minor contests, so that the Secretary of State has been obliged to place nearly 10,000 names on the official ticket, although each voter will scan less than 50.

The Republican contests for State offices are for Governor, Secretary of State, and Auditor. For the Gubernatorial nomination there are three aspirants, Lieut. Gov. Louis A. Frothingham of Boston, Speaker Hospeh Walker of the House, and Representative Norman H. White, both of Brookline.

Those seeking the nomination for Secretary of State are the present incumbent, A. P. Langtry of Springfield, who was chosen by the Legislature last Spring, to fill an unexpired term, and Representative Russell A. Wood of Cambridge, who was Mr. Langtry's opponent in the legislative contest.

State Auditor John E. White of Tisbury, who was also selected by this year's Legislature to fill an unexpired term, is opposed by former Representative Herbert W. Burr of Boston.

The three contests on the Democratic side are, for Governor, Secretary of State and Attorney General. Gov. Eugene N. Foss of Boston, who desires a re-nomination, finds an opponent in Thomas L. Hisgen of Springfield, the Presidential candidate of the Independence League three years ago. Edward O. Skelton and Frank J. Donahue, both of Boston, are the candidates for Secretary of State, while for the nomination for Attorney General the candidates are George W. Anderson and Joseph J. Leonard, both of Boston.

Voting will begin in this city at 6 A. M., but in many of the little towns the primaries will be held in the evening.

MAYOR QUITS HIS TOWN.

Dunellen So Intemperate Sanford Will Go to Westfield.

Special to The New York Times.

DUNELLEN, N. J., Sept. 25.—Mayor William A. Sanford has bought property in Westfield, a neighboring town, and will remove there before his term as the town's chief executive expires on Dec. 31. The intemperance of Dunellen is the reason Mayor Sanford gives for quitting.

"Why are you going to leave town?" a reporter asked the Mayor to-day.

"It's just this," he replied. "I cannot go down Main Avenue to the Post Office unless a half dozen or so persons stop me and say, 'Mayor, come let's have a drink.' If I go to the barber's shop, it's the same way. I'm tired of it. There are too many rummies and booze fighters in the town for me, that's why I am going to Westfield. I'm sure the people down there won't bother the life out of me asking me to come in and take a drink."

And the Mayor is no teetotaler, either.

JIM JEFFRIES'S MOTHER DIES.

In Last Hours Was Anxious to See ex-Champion, Now in Alaska.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 25.—Mrs. Alexis B. Jeffries, mother of Jim Jeffries, ex-champion heavyweight pugilist of the world, died to-night of cancer and complications. All this afternoon she begged constantly for Jim Jeffries, her pride. Jeffries and his brother are hastening from Alaska, where they were hunting for big game when told of their mother's illness.

They started from Kadiak Island as soon as the courier reached them, and to-day touched at Cordova on their way south. Jeffries's father, the Rev. Alexis B. Jeffries, was by his wife's side when the end came to-night.

Mrs. Jeffries leaves an estate valued at upward of $200,000, principally in real estate purchased twenty years ago.

C. N. BLISS ILL.

Brought Here from His Summer Home on a Specially Chartered Boat.

Cornelius N. Bliss, former Secretary of the Interior, who has been ill at his Summer home in Oceanic, N. J., was brought to New York Sunday on the steamboat Albertina, which was specially chartered. Mr. Bliss was accompanied by his daughter, Miss Lily Bliss, his son, Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr., and Dr. Bingham, his family physician.

At Mr. Bliss's home, 29 East Thirty-seventh Street, last night, it was said that he was resting comfortably.

ASKS MERCY FOR CASHIER.

Counsel Pleads Manhattan Hotel Man Recorded His Stealings.

Frank J. Dorlan, formerly the Cashier of the Manhattan Hotel, was arraigned before Judge Warran W. Foster in General Sessions yesterday and pleaded guilty to two indictments, charging him with the larceny of $2,000 from the hotel.

His lawyer, Henry Bockius, asked that clemency be shown his client inasmuch as Dorlan made a systematic record of all his stealings, and that while the books show that he stole over $30,000 in all the hotel had been put to no expense in having the ex-Cashier's accounts examined by expert accountants.

After listening to the lawyer's plea for mercy Judge Foster remanded Dorlan to the Tombs until Friday for sentence.
